Marshall Insists On Settlement of Austrian Issues

MOSCOW, April 18.—(P)—Secretary of State Marshall told the Council of Foreign Ministers today that the time had come "to make a determined effort, right here and now," to compromise the issue of German assets in Austria. Success in completing an Austrian treaty depends on that, he said.

Marshall offered a settlement formula retaining the American insistence that property which the Germans acquired in Austria under "force or duress" should not be considered as assets subject to seizure by the Allies.

On this key point, however, Marshall made it clear he was not insisting on the exact words "force or duress" although "there should be no disagreement among us as to the propriety of excluding from sizeable German assets forced transfers by coercion."

If a proper definition of assets could be reached, Marshall declared, "I should be prepared to agree that each of our governments should take necessary steps to authorize the Austrian government formally to transfer immediately to the Soviet Union those properties, rights and interests in Eastern Austria which are German assets as defined in the formula we agree upon here."

Earlier Foreign Minister Gruber of Austria appealed to the council to finish the Austrian treaty quickly. At the same time, however, he asserted that his government would not sign a pact which gave to Yugoslavia any territory which Austria considered rightfully Austrian.

Homicide Probe Upset by Throng

HAVANA, April 18.—(P)—A jostling, jabbering, gestulating crowd of curious Cubans turned the reenactment of the fatal shooting of John Lester Mee aboard the "acht Satira" into a Roman holiday yesterday.

Inquisitive spectators packed themselves so tightly into the cabin where Mee was shot on April 8 that Patricia Schmidt, the 21-year-old dancer who is charged with homicide in connection with Mee's death, was unable to demonstrate in the cabin just what happened on the fatal day.

Miss Schmidt, who is billed in Caribbean capitals under the name "Satira," has informed Cuban officials that she shot the Chicago attorney during an argument after she discovered he was married.

Judge Mencia gave up and adjoined the meeting to a nearby building, where the inquiry went on behind locked and guarded doors.
