whether a country such as India can successfully govern itself in the world as at present constituted. The only way to find out is to TRY IT.

IN the background of all national problems (such as India) lies war. There is quite a little on the subject of war in the news as this is written.

The United Nations (now headquartered at Lake Success, New York) struggles to reconcile American and Russian differences on atomic control, which is the biggest war issue confronting the world.

That is to say, we don't intend to give up the advantage we now possess until a WORKABLE system of abolishing atomic warfare is devised, agreed upon and put into operation.

That is sound, tough common sense.

MEANWHILE Chancellor Arthur T. Compton of Washington University, one of the scientists who helped develop the atomic bomb, says the new weapon has in all probability made major wars between great powers a thing of the past.

The danger of RETALIATION, he thinks, would be too great a risk for ANY NATION to take.

THAT is to say, in this age of atomic weapons, an aggressor nation must destroy its victim UTTERLY at the first blow, leaving no cell of resistance remaining intact—not even so much as a single bomber, for a single huge bomber carrying a cargo of atom bombs at a speed of hundreds of miles per hour might easily be able to strike back and DESTROY THE AGGRESSOR IN ITS TURN.

Dr. Compton, who spoke at St. Louis to the American Petroleum Institute's refining division, said the development of atomic energy has made it increasingly clear that in the future a nation's economic advantage lies in promoting its own industrial development as a part of world prosperity rather than in looking to wars of conquest as a means of getting richer.

If, by any chance, he should be right, it might be possible that a new and better world is in the making.

THEM'S OUR SENTIMENTS

By CHARLES V. STANTON

It has been considerable time since this column has contained any mention of the "Friendly" Southern Pacific. We would not want our good friends of the Espee to think they are forgotten, but with budgets, planning commissions and whatnot, we have been quite negligent of late in our attentions to the "Friendly" Southern Pacific.

Conditions in Medford, however, have not been quite as disturbing, and Editor Robert W. Ruhl of the Medford Mail-Tribune has found time to discuss the "Friendly" Southern Pacific. So, today we'll simply reprint Editor Ruhl's comments, because they're our sentiments, too.

We wish Mr. Robert Young, brilliant operator of the Chesapeake and Ohio, would buy the "Friendly Southern Pacific."

We can imagine nothing that would be a greater boon to Southern Oregon from the transportation and material development standpoints.

For Mr. Young is the answer to a railroad patron's prayer. Listen to this from one of the recent C. & O. advertisements—we quote:

If pessimist-thinking, old-line practices and Toonerville equipment continue to be tolerated then regardless of rate relief, further deficits and bankruptcies are certain.

But if, on the other hand, these liabilities are replaced by modern ideas and modern trains, our railroads can again be a credit to our country.

Mr. Young, moreover, practices what he preaches. For example among the railroads he acquired a few years ago was the Pere Marquette—then a second-rate railroad operating much of the time at a loss.

The business philosophy of the old owners was exactly that of the Southern Pacific today, i.e.:

If a section of railroad does not make money then spend less money on it, thus rendering the service worse, or abandon same entirely.

The Young philosophy is the exact reverse, namely: If a section of railroad does not make money, improve it so it WILL.

Under President Young's direction the Pere Marquette installed two ultra-modern trains on the run between Detroit and Grand Rapids, Mich. That was less than a year ago.

What happened? According to Mr. Young, this is what happened—we quote:

Since the new trains have been in operation they have carried 86% more passengers than the old trains over the same route and during the same period of the year—even though the older trains had the benefit of increased war traffic.

Moreover, again quoting Mr. Young: And here is the proof of the pudding: in less than four years at the present rate, the increase in passenger receipts will equal the total cost of the new streamline trains.

Is that good business or isn't it? Everyone knows, however, what the S.P. "higher ups" would say if a similar procedure were suggested to them—and of course, between sobs:

How can a railroad afford spending hundreds of thousands of dollars on new equipment when costs of labor and materials are constantly rising and net revenues are constantly declining?

Robert Young has an answer to that one too. Here it is—we quote:

A modern railroad can't afford NOT to make such outlays—given attractive equipment, new comforts and services could open the door on a new era of popular and profitable railroad service.

Truer words were never spoken!

General Motors has recently put on the market a new modern "Streamliner" of only four cars and a super-Diesel engine. We haven't space to enumerate all the new conveniences and gadgets, but it is a fast, smooth (the jerks and bumps so familiar on the S.P. are completely eliminated by mechanical changes) and ultra-luxurious medium of up-to-date daylight railroad travel.

Let one imagine—if one has sufficient imagination—Robert Young were managing the Southern Pacific and put two of these trains on the run between Medford and Portland, leaving here, say at 7 A.M. (with breakfast on the diner) reaching Portland at noon; leaving Portland at 6 P.M. (with dinner on the diner) reaching Medford at 11 P.M.

With such daylight service how many people would fly or motor or "stage" to Portland, on a business—or for that matter a pleasure—trip?

The record gives the answer in Michigan.

The undersigned will wager a Diesel engine against a flat wheel it would be relatively the same answer here.

If— Mr. Robert Young WOULD take over the management of the Southern Pacific!

and four great grandchildren survive. Services were held in the Methodist Church, Elkton, Wednesday with the Rev. Mr. Buck officiating. Interment followed in Scottsburg Cemetery. Arrangements were in care of the Stearns Mortuary, Oakland.

Injuries Cripple Four Leading Clubs In Major Leagues

By JOE REICHLER

Associated Press Sports Writer. Injuries to the four leading clubs in the major leagues last week in June may have been the turning point in the campaign for the major league baseball 1947 race winners.

In the past few days the Detroit Tigers and Boston Red Sox in the American League and the Brooklyn Dodgers and Chicago Cubs in the National have been crippled by injuries which might prove damaging to their pennant aspirations.

Reiser, Dodger star centerfielder, suffered a "laceration of the skull" in a collision with the concrete centerfield wall at Ebbets field.

Three Detroit regulars were injured in yesterday's doubleheader with the New York Yankees. They were Kell, hard-hitting third baseman; Wakefield, slugging left fielder and Trout, one of the Tigers' first string pitchers.

Kell suffered cuts on the left knee and right hand from the spikes of New York's Stirmweiss, on a close play at third. Wakefield twisted his left knee sliding into second. Trout, leading 6-2 in the last of the seventh of the same game, gave way to Hutchinson after a recurrence of an old groin injury.

Borowy Blanks Giants. On the playing end, the Cubs, behind the four-hit pitching of Borowy, handed the Giants their first shutout defeat of the season 6-0 and went into a first place tie with the New Yorkers.

The Dodgers, led by Reese, who hit a grand slam home run off Singleton, moved within four points of the deadlocked Cubs and Giants by whipping the Pirates for the third straight time 9-4.

Detroit retained its two-game lead in the American League by dividing a doubleheader with the Yankees. After the Tigers had copped the opener, 6-2, behind Trout, the Yankees unloosed their siege guns to take the nightcap, 17-8.

Feller Back in Form. Feller, who recently disclosed he suffered from a stiff shoulder, won his first game since May 18 when he pitched the Indians to a 6-2 victory over Washington.

The Boston Braves prevented the St. Louis Cardinals from leaving the National League cellar by defeating the Redbirds, 3-1. The win put the Braves one game behind the leaders. Torgeson of Snohomish, Wash., went hitless for the first time in 16 games.

Home runs by Williams and Miele, the latter with one on, gave the Boston Red Sox and Dobson a 5-2 victory over the Browns in St. Louis.

Heintzelman pitched the Phillies to a 9-2 win over the Cincinnati Reds in Philadelphia.

The Philadelphia Athletics pounded across seven runs in the top of the 11th to whip the White Sox in Chicago 10-3.

Shorter Season on Waterfowl Likely

WASHINGTON, June 5.—(AP)—The government plans to issue its fall bird-hunting regulations in July, a month earlier than usual.

There was no official indication as to the length of the new season, but official guesses placed it at about 30 days, compared with 45 last year. Reductions in bag limits also are expected.

The fish and wildlife service said its six-man committee on regulations, meeting with the agency's five regional directors, will start drafting the new hunting rules at Chicago next Monday.

The group will consider the decline in waterfowl population from 125,000,000 in 1944 and 80,000,000 last year to 54,000,000 last January—the lowest since 1938—and the tremendous increase in hunters since 1938, estimated as high as 200 per cent.

Last year the hunting season for migratory waterfowl was reduced from 80 to 45 days, the daily bag limit from 10 to seven, and the possession limit from 20 to 14.

Health Workers Of County Attend Two-State Meet

Mrs. W. F. Amiot, executive secretary of the Douglas County Public Health Association, and Mrs. Hedwig Watzig, president, spent Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday in Portland attending the joint annual meeting of the Oregon and Washington State Health Associations, held at the Multnomah Hotel.

Mrs. Watzig attended the presidents' banquet Monday evening. Tuesday, Dr. Gerald L. Crenshaw, head of the Alameda County Hospital in California, and Dr. William H. Hatfield, director of tuberculosis control in British Columbia, were speakers at a banquet.

Wednesday morning, Robert Osborn, of the national board, gave a talk and Miss Clarissa Boyd, also of the national board, talked on "Budgeting for Health."

The highlight of the three-day meeting was the talk given Wednesday by Dr. H. Corwin Hinshaw, consultant in medicine and research at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., and vice-president of the National Tuberculosis Association.

Dr. Hinshaw presented the experiments used in the cure of tuberculosis at the Mayo Clinic. Twelve doctors were present to take part in the panel discussion of chemotherapeutic and antibiotic research in tuberculosis.

Dr. G. C. Bellingr, head of the tuberculosis sanitarium at Salem, presided at the meeting. Also a speaker Wednesday, was John A. Kingsbury, former head of the Milbank Memorial Foundation and the Committee of Tuberculosis and Public Health of New York, who talked on "Pioneers in the Tuberculosis Movement."

Mrs. Amiot was met in Eugene last evening by her husband, Dr. Amiot, who brought her back to Roseburg. Mrs. Watzig remained in Portland for a few days attending to business.

Better Clothing in Sight, Store Manager Says

Better clothing will "definitely" be on the market this year, according to Dale Sims, manager of Joe Richards Men's Store, who returned by air this week from the Seattle Clothing and Apparel Show at Seattle, Wash.

Sims went to Seattle for his fall and winter buying and found conditions "improved in all departments." Prices are not expected to rise for most clothing, "because we are simply not buying out-of-line merchandise," he said.

Beavers Defeat League Leaders by 20-Hit Swatfest

(By the Associated Press)

Rain seems to have a lot of influence on the Pacific Coast League lead these days. It caused postponement of six Portland games and that rather obviously put the Beavers in a rain-to-go form last night as they bombarded the leaders, Oakland, 15-3, on 20 hits including two homers, a double and 17 singles.

Meantime, Sacramento and San Francisco were rained out at the Bay City. The combination put Oakland and San Francisco into a tie for the lead, with Los Angeles a half game back.

Four Oakland pitchers couldn't stem the Portland hit tide last night. One of them, Hayes, was knocked out of the box when hit below the knee by a line drive by Vico in the fifth inning. His successor, Gasaway, pitched a home run ball to Reich, Radulovich getting the other Beaver four-sacker. DiBiasi was the winning pitcher, allowing Oakland six hits.

Los Angeles also was hit-happy, getting 22 blows off three San Diego pitchers to swamp the Padres, 14-0. The Angel hurler, Lynn, gave San Diego only four hits. He struck out nine men.

The Hollywood Stars won a 12-inning battle from Seattle, 3-2, although the Rainiers outthrew them, 10-5. The Stars won it in the 12th as Vaughan and Ross walked, Unser bunted and Seattle third baseman Layne dropped a throw, permitting Vaughn to score.
