are going to do it and what we may reasonably expect to get for our money.

Vandenberg says we can't go on just trying to "meet and get un-anticipated crises one by one."

If we are to go on spending abroad in terms of billions, we must have reasonable assurance that:

1. We are getting the rest of the world back onto its feet so that it can buy (and pay for) what we have to sell.

2. That we are checking the spread of communism throughout the world by proving that our way of life is better than the communist way of life.

That can't be done by going on posing as the Lady Bountiful. It can be done ONLY by a hard-headed program of economic rehabilitation.

If we fritter away a few hundred millions in Greece and Turkey, a few hundred millions more in China, a billion or so more in Western Europe, etc., we'll wind up broke, with nothing to show for the money.

In that event, communism will take over. That is what the communists are playing for.

IN Spokane, members of the Pacific Northwest Grain Dealers association go on record for (among other things) a "tariff" policy that will increase foreign trade.

In principle, we're all for more foreign trade—just as we are all, in principle, against sin.

But how can we go about it to GET more foreign trade? THIS is the answer, in plain, simple words:

We can expand our foreign trade profitably and permanently ONLY by buying more of what other people have to sell.

In the past, we have balked at that.

AT the present moment, our foreign "trade" is flourishing—IF by a "flourishing" foreign trade we mean selling more to the world than we BUY from the world.

Our exports (as nearly as we can get at it from official figures, which aren't worth much since we have fallen into the bad habit of tampering with figures in order to make them show what somebody wants them to show) are running somewhere from 15 to 20 billions per year and our imports somewhere from seven to ten billions.

Already we are running up against the cold, hard fact that our customers HAVE NOTHING TO PAY WITH. They are out of dollars. SO—we are LENDING them the dollars.

In the long run, following this policy, we will find that we are merely GIVING OUR PRODUCTS AWAY. We learned that lesson the hard way after the last war. We then refused to accept payment for exports in the form of things, and so we got no payment at all.

UNLESS we accept the cold, hard truth that foreign trade is foreign TRADE (that is to say, an exchange of THINGS) we're in for another bad headache.

CRIME DOES NOT PAY

By CHARLES V. STANTON

Three men are held in Steamboat Springs, Colo., following arrest by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, and State Police officers are hopeful that questioning will clear up two local safe-cracking jobs, and the daylight holdup of the E. G. Young & Co. bank at Oakland last May 5.

The State Police and FBI as a unit worked patiently and carefully to bring the three men into custody, piecing together scanty evidence, picking up dim trails, observing and investigating until a "case" could be constructed.

On the night of May 4 the safe at the Carstens Furniture store was forced and currency and checks obtained. The following morning, two men robbed the Oakland bank, using two automobiles in their escape.

A few days later the State Police learned that a check taken in the Carstens robbery had been cashed at a Roseburg beer tavern. Investigation revealed the identity of the man who reportedly cashed the stolen check. Quietly police investigated. They learned he had been associating with two other men of allegedly shady reputation. Inquiry revealed considerable gambling activity. At least one of the men was identified as an ex-convict. Police dug up a picture flashed by a night club photographer.

When the three men disappeared from the community a guard was placed over the home of a girl friend of one of the suspects in Oakland, California, the FBI having caught a "forward pass" from the Oregon State Police.

The suspect appeared at the girl's home. Day after day his every movement was checked. He made contact with the two men believed to have been his accomplices. The FBI could have closed in on the trio a week after they left Roseburg, but the investigation went on. Bills used by the men in ordinary transactions were picked up by trailing officers and checked against known numbers of currency taken from the Oakland bank.

Then the trio left California, apparently with no evidence of being followed. But through four states the ever-present FBI shadowed every move until arrest eventually was made in Colorado.

Just what evidence is in the hands of the FBI and the State Police probably will not be revealed until the men come to trial or admit their guilt. Whether definite connection with the Oakland bank robbery has been established is not known. A picture of one suspect has been tentatively identified by bank employes and patrons who were held at the point of a gun while the robbery was in progress. When the employes and customers are able to see the suspect in person, they doubtless will be able to tell police positively whether or not he was implicated in the crime.

It is barely possible that the police have been following a false trail and that there will be insufficient evidence to connect the men with any of the crimes of which they are suspected. If so, we may be sure that hunt for the safe-crackers and bank robbers will not halt. Should there be such a thing as an error in work so far done by the State Police and FBI, those two organizations will take up their task afresh.

Police work today with many inventions and scientific devices unknown to law enforcement officers of a few years ago. But, while these devices are an aid to criminal investigation, there is no substitute for the determination, bulldog stick-to-itiveness and long, patient, keen observation and investigation on the part of individuals composing law enforcement agencies. Criminals may be traced from state to state and from country to country. Escape from the law is virtually impossible. The law abiding citizen should be eternally grateful for the inspired and consecrated work of the average law enforcement officer who risks his life, endures long hours and physical discomfort that citizens may have maximum safety of life and property. They cannot always prevent crime, but they seldom permit criminals to escape payment.

Chiefs Win Over Ashland Elks, 5-3

By ROYAL S. DENTON

Roseburg's Umpqua Chiefs regained their winning ways of early season play Sunday at Ashland by whipping the Elks' nine 5-3.

The win gives the Chiefs a .750 mark in the Southern Oregon League standings in the defense of their 1946 title, having previously won over Tri-City, 4-3, and losing to Grants Pass, 10-9.

Outbit by Ashland, 8 to 6, in an errorless nine innings, Roseburg broke the scoring ice in the third stanza, tallying three runs off as many hits.

Dick DeBernardi, centerfielder, led off in the third to fly-out to leftfield, but was followed by Pitcher Roy Long, who started the scoring route off a walk by Ashland's Plinkham. Long reached home on singles by Lovell Baker and Virg Sanders. A single by Manager-catcher Jerry Huggins accounted for home trips by Baker and Sanders.

Ashland's Jones led off in the seventh chapter with a hit which was stretched into his team's initial score when Haeps and Galin singled and sacrificed, respectively.

The Chiefs scored an additional run in the eighth as Leftfielder Elmore Hill and Huggins each walked with two down and V. Baker whammed out a line drive to score Hill.

A desperate rally in the last of the eighth brought the Elks within a single marker of a tie as Warren Smith and Jones each hit. A remarkable display of first baseman skill on the part of George Sanders accounted for retiring the side without further threat, however. He was credited with two putouts, one of which

Tri-City Defeats Hilt Loggers, 7-6

Tri-City's baseball club outbit Hilt's Loggers at the Californian's diamond with 7-6, in a tight eighth-inning fracas Sunday.

The Dutch Cleber-managed club of Myrtle Creek, Canyonville and Riddle battled around frequently throughout the contest and every player connected at least once.

Leading the Douglas County nine's hitters was Forrest Loggery, second sacker, with four-for-four, followed by Ulan, shortstop, with three-for-five, and Liober, first base, Edicande, centerfield, and Wicher, rightfield, with two hits each.

Hilt's hurler, Laustolot, stole the show for the Hilt club by slugging a homerun with two men on, and the Loggers accounted for three more runs in a threatening eighth frame off a single and Tri-City's three errors.

It was the South Douglas County nine's second conference win in three starts, having won over Crescent City, 8-4, and losing a 4-3 decision to the Umpqua Chiefs.

Next Sunday the Tri-City aggregation travels to Crescent City.

Yankees Edge Out Chisox; Brooklyn Downs Cubs, 2-1

Associated Press Sports Writer. Yankees fans last night saw their favorites trail for seven innings, then come through with two runs in the eighth and one in the ninth to give the New York Yankees a 4-3 victory over the Chicago White Sox. The triumph increased the Yankees' first place lead in the American League to a game and a half over Detroit and Boston, deadlocked for second place.

In the ninth, DiMaggio led off with a double, was sacrificed to third and scored the winning run on a perfectly executed squeeze bunt by Rissotto.

At Chicago, the Brooklyn Dodgers, taking advantage of two errors by First Baseman Waitkus, scored two unearned runs to eke out a 2-1 decision over the Cubs. The defeat dropped the third place Cubs' one full game off the pack. The fourth place Dodgers closed the gap between themselves and front running Boston to two and a half games.

In the only other game played in the majors, the rejuvenated St. Louis Cardinals eked out a 4-3 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies, securing the winning run in the 10th inning after the Phils had tied the score in the ninth.

A single by Schoendienst and an error by Right Fielder Wyrrostek on Moore's single enabled Schoendienst to score all the way from first.

New Plane Lifts Or Lands in Fifty Feet of Space

By ELEANOR GRIESEMER AP Newsfeatures

HAGERSTOWN, Md.—Inventor Willard R. Custer says he has given a new twist to airplane wings which will make them lift or land a plane in 50 feet of space, at 15 miles per hour or less, on just about any terrain—"and I'm not talking about a helicopter."

"I simply reversed conventional aerodynamics by moving the air over the wings through the air," he explains.

Custer says he can do this by "twisting" the wings into two channels with adjustable pitch propellers at the rear.

"Instead of moving the ship down a long runway through the air at high speed to get off the ground," he says, "the rear propellers move the air over the wing at high speed until lift is obtained.

Pressure Instead of Speed "With an ordinary plane, air pressure is built up beneath it as the wing is forced through the air on a runway. A helicopter gets vertical lift by rotating its overhead fan-like wings at high speed."

"I accomplish the lift by forcing air over the wings much as a wind tunnel operates. I reduce the pressure above the wing by the propeller's sucking action at the rear and let the undisturbed pressure of nearly a ton per square foot below the wing lift the plane."

Custer's planes—a full-scale ship built in 1943 and one now under construction for test flights this fall—have stubby wings that look something like half-layers flanking its fuselage.

He says tests on working models by the Air Materiel Command at Wright Field showed the plane had a vertical lift comparable to that of a helicopter.

Puts Cost at $1,000. Custer contends his plane is the answer to bringing aviation within reach of everybody's backyard. He says the plane, which would operate without the expense of long runways, can be built for two passengers for approximately $1,000.

Law Enforced by Heavyweight Duo

AP Newsfeatures CHATTANOOGA, Tenn.—Chattanooga claims it has the biggest law enforcement leadership in the country.

When Police Commissioner Roy Hyatt and Police Chief Ed Ricketts start throwing their weight around against law violators, the criminals come up against 561 pounds.

Ricketts is almost six feet, five inches tall and weighs 289 pounds. Hyatt is exactly six feet, five and weighs 372. Ricketts wears a size 13 shoe, Hyatt an 11. Both prefer a half size larger.

Hyatt, former cowpuncher, rickets 15 to 20 cigars a day. Ricketts, an ex-coal miner, yields to no one when eating reputations are at stake.

He once knocked off a roast beef plate, two big T-bone steaks with all the trimmings and a pan of rice pudding topped with eight to 10 dips of ice cream.

Death Decreed for 3 Jew Terrorists

JERUSALEM, June 17.—(AP)—A military court condemned three convicted Jewish terrorists to death as the United Nations commission of Palestine opened its inquiry yesterday amid an Arab general strike.

The Jews were accused of participating in the May 4 jail delivery which freed 251 prisoners from Acre prison and left 16 persons dead. Two other Jews tried with the condemned trio were sentenced to life imprisonment.

Irgun Zvai Leumi, underground organization which took responsibility for the prison break, appealed to the U. N. commission in an effort to stay the sentences. Irgun repeatedly has threatened "blood for blood" retaliation against the British for death sentences against its members.

The Arab strike, called to emphasize the organized Arabs' boycott of the U. N. inquiry, paralyzed much of Palestine's activity. In Cairo, the exiled mufti of Jerusalem sounded a "call" upon all Arabs to protect the Holy Land.

Two Teams Tie in Golf Play at Country Club

Two golf teams tied with scores of 67 in the best ball for men held June 15 at the Country Club. Pat Collier and Rolystyn Bridges were tied with Walt Fisher and Art Pearson for the low prize, and Clem Howard and Walt Brydges scored a 69 for third place. K. Quine won close to the pin, and Joe Ferrault won long drive.

The team match with Coquille originally scheduled for June 22 has been postponed to a later date because of the Roseburg Flood.

It Pays to Use Dry Lumber

Once more kiln dried lumber for all construction work is available at the Coen Lumber Company.

War time conditions during the past five years made it necessary to furnish green lumber to increase production—but now, due to an easier situation in the lumber business, we are pleased to be able to offer kiln dried lumber for general construction—both commons and clears.

Whatever you build use kiln dried lumber throughout and avoid shrinkage, checking, settling, fungus growth, and decay that so often results from the use of green lumber.
