

Revised Rates of Jobless Pay Will Start July 1st

With the newly legislated mid-year benefit period starting in the first week of July, 20 local offices of the State Unemployment Compensation Commission will receive new 1947-48 claims today. While actual compensation can not start until after a preliminary waiting week and another week without work, early claims-filing will allow time to determine the workers' rights to benefits.

New claims were received last week from several thousand unemployed who have been receiving payments during the short-term benefit year that ends with the last week of June. Many of these claimants can use again most of their 1946 wage credits for 1947-48 benefits during the transition period as decided upon by the recent legislature.

Nearly 55,000 persons have filed 1947 claims but only 5,258 received checks last week. About 8,000 exhausted their benefit rights during the six months' period. With benefit years starting during high seasonal employment periods a big proportion of new claims are expected to be on file before winter shutdowns develop.

Those unemployed who earned more than $1,450 in 1946 will be entitled to slightly higher benefits under the amended law that goes into effect with the start of the mid-year benefit period. Those with over $1,525 in base year wages would receive $20 a week instead of $18, which has been the maximum since 1945. Until 1941 the top weekly payment was $15. Several thousand prospective claimants, mainly cannery workers, will be unable to draw benefits because of another amendment which bars those who earned less than $300 in their base year. Heretofore the minimum base year earnings has been $200. However, another amendment approved by the legislature provides additional benefits for certain workers with earnings in two or more seasonal operations.

Would-Be Husband of Princess Turned Back

NEW YORK, June 20.—(AP)—Albert E. Lange, of North Arlington, N. J., who went to England under the avowed intention of marrying a dream—Princess Elizabeth—arrived at LaGuardia Field yesterday. He said British authorities refused to admit him when he announced his intention. "You're undesirable," he quoted British officials as having told him. "But ever since she (the princess) was five, I've seen her in my dreams," Lange said.

Soviet Subs Prowl North Pacific, Admiral Says

WASHINGTON, June 20.—(AP)—Adm. Louis E. Denfeld, Pacific fleet commander, said yesterday Russia is operating a "considerable" number of submarines in the North Pacific. At a news conference, Denfeld declined to estimate the size of Russia's Pacific navy. He expressed the opinion it included a "considerable number of submarines and some destroyers," but no aircraft carriers.

Army Air Force Offers Course to High School Grads

The Army Air Force is now offering direct enrollment in its technical schools to high school graduates who can qualify, according to directives received by M/Sgt. Charles F. Needels of the Roseburg Army Recruiting Station. This policy constitutes a drastic change from previous policies, according to Sgt. Needels, who stated that in the past the courses in these high quality schools have been open only to members of the Army Air Forces who had proven their abilities in the service.

The change in policy is to develop a highly skilled postwar Army of technicians, both in the service and in reserve, he said. Forty-two specialist courses are offered, from which each applicant must choose three, in order of preference.

The sergeant stated that qualifications include the ability to meet the physical and moral standards of the U. S. Army; to be between 17 and 35 in age, a high school graduate, and to be able to furnish a transcript of high school credits and letters of recommendation from three established local citizens.

If applications are approved for the course or courses desired, applicants will enlist in the Army Air Forces for a period of three years, at the time of enrollment.

Further information regarding this program may be obtained at the Army Recruiting Station in the Roseburg Armory.

MODE OF TRAVEL—Hjalmer S. Hanson, well-known truck driver and resident of Melrose Route, Roseburg, is pictured astride his newly-purchased torpedo-type motor scooter with Roy Catching, Roseburg Motor Company salesman. The scooter, manufactured by a subsidiary company of Northrop Aircraft, Inc., received its first test by Hjalmer by pulling up East 1st Avenue North's "China wall."

Twins? Not Quite, but Close Enough

Born on the same day, in the same house, their mothers sisters, and their fathers brothers, it's no wonder these babies, Gary Lynn Roberts, left, and Cleo Ann Roberts, right, not only have a strong family resemblance but look alike themselves.
