New Labor Law Full of Puzzles For Court Action

WASHINGTON, June 24.—(AP)—Here's a brief ABC of the Taft-Hartley labor bill and what led up to it.
It's so big, it's so complicated, and it does so many things that the wisest labor lawyer right now can't tell you all it means or would do.

For that reason many suits and test cases will be taken into federal courts to get decisions on what this or that means.
For 150 years in this country unions fought to force employers to bargain with them. No law said a boss had to bargain with a union.

CONGRATULATIONS, POSSE

By CHARLES V. STANTON

The third annual rodeo sponsored by the Douglas County Sheriff's Posse was a huge success. Each show has been progressively better than the one preceding, and next year's performance, already in the planning stage, will be better yet.

Police Reserves, companion organization to the posse, were responsible for one of the major betterments in this year's program through their arrangements for handling traffic and crowds.

At past shows much difficulty was experienced in getting cars in and out of the grounds promptly. Much confusion resulted. This year, however, arrangements had been made in advance and officers thoroughly briefed on details making it possible to handle hundreds upon hundreds of automobiles in an orderly manner.

Working to improve even this most creditable performance, the Police Reserves, through careful studies of their problem, have outlined better procedure for next year.

Proceeds from this year's show will go into further improvements to fair ground facilities. It is hoped sufficient money will be available to build a race track. If this project materializes, it will be possible to add saddle races to next year's rodeo.

Also under study is a plan for construction of a much needed vehicular bridge across the South Umpqua River. Interested persons have offered to donate materials and labor to erect a forest-type log bridge across the river, providing money is forthcoming to build three concrete piers. A flat-deck, log bridge, it is believed, would be usable for a period of 20 to 30 years.

The county's fair grounds property offers opportunity for much more public use than it now receives, given needed accessories and appurtenances.

A race track would make possible midget automobile and dog races, together with saddle and harness races in season. A comparatively minor sum of money expended in construction of pavilions and pens would permit resumption of the annual county fair and facilities to house the Northwestern Turkey Show. Ample ground is available for tennis, handball and softball courts. An excellent start already has been made on a public park. All those connected with development of the grounds have a right to be proud of their achievements.

We would like to see the county court give consideration to employment of a full-time recreational director. The position could be made self-sustaining after a year or more, and an important contribution could be made to public welfare. The director should be an expert publicity man, capable of handling managerial details connected with the rodeo, turkey show, county fair, and other events, while, at the same time, planning and managing public recreation and entertainment. For his services, the county could collect a percentage from net proceeds, encouraging efficiency by arranging a bonus to the director based upon financial success of each event, thus the county would not be heavily obligated financially after the first year.

But these are plans and ideas for the future. For the present we offer congratulations and gratitude to the Douglas County Sheriff's Posse and all organizations and individuals who cooperated in making such a grand success of the third annual rodeo.

We never cease to be amazed at the number of words produced by our versatile Senator Wayne Morse in speeches, writing for the record, and in correspondence. Now, he comes up with a 10-hour filibuster in which he must have run well over 150,000 words. During the past week we received literature from the senator's office—Congressional Record and treatises on various subjects—containing roughly 75,000 words. He should put his talents to practical use writing "who-dun-its."

LETTERS to the Editor

Vacation Advantages at Diamond Lake Described

Just returned from Diamond Lake, where we spent ten days with our good friends, George and Millie Howard, who manage the lodge, stores, post office and various facilities at the resort. For the last few years, like many others, we haven't been able to visit many of the local resorts and we were so impressed with the scenery, fishing and conveniences offered both by the U. S. Forest Service and the Diamond Lake Developing Company at Diamond Lake that we feel that people in Douglas County and particularly Roseburg should be proud of such a recreational center in our vicinity and county.
Even though the resort is only open part of the year, the roads to it are good. At present roads are paved into the lake from Klamath Falls, Medford, Crater Lake and Bend and the Bureau of Public Roads is working on connecting road between Diamond Lake and Roseburg, which will be the shortest route of 91 miles. Returning and taking a leisurely trip we came back by the North Umpqua route in three and a half hours. Followed the North Umpqua river most of the way. Even with work being done on both ends of this route, the road was accessible and being used by many Roseburg cars. Believe it is one of the most scenic routes in the Northwest. As we came along we could see where the road was being cleared and

The Forest Service Guard Station is centrally located, with Mr. and Mrs. Dick Hook in charge, and where directions and miscellaneous information can be secured. There are two stores managed by the Howards, where one can purchase fresh milk, bread, canned goods, candies, large assortment of fishing tackle and some drug supplies. There is also a boat house which has many boats and quite a few motors. Facilities for cleaning fish and storing them in baskets in a cold room during your stay solves quite a problem.
The State Game and Fish Commission, which maintains one of the largest fish hatcheries in the state on one side of the lake, estimates that it will put back from 15 to 3 million fish this year. For its own records, two checkers tally the size and number of fish caught so that accurate information as to conditions and number in lake may be obtained.

With the present number of personnel who are working with the Howards and with the splendid cooperation of the Forest Service, Diamond Lake is ideal for a wonderful vacation. Everyone, whether they fly fish or troll, is enthusiastic over his catches so far this year and with the weather cool and brisk, fishing, hiking and horseback riding, as well as motoring around the lake, make this a natural playground, especially for Roseburg and Douglas County. Plans are also being made to try to get winter sports started.

Reprisal Threats Hit Senators on Veto, Cain States

WASHINGTON, June 24.—(AP)—Senator Cain (R-Wash.) told the Senate yesterday before the vote overriding the Presidential veto of the Taft-Hartley labor bill that he believed "few Senators have been so threatened with political reprisals" as himself because of his opposition.

He listed his reasons for voting to support the bill, and added: "I am completely convinced that no thinking person, no intelligent person and no real American in our land believes that a maintenance of the status quo is good for America. To vote against the labor bill is to court industrial relations in this country to stand still. I cannot vote to retard progress."

"I am completely convinced and satisfied that the bill retains the right to strike, while at the same time it helps to enforce the right of a man or woman to work.
"There is nothing sacred in this instrument. There may be provisions and demands which won't work. If they don't work, they must be changed."
Cain said that because he comes "from a magnificent and sovereign state which is probably as highly organized as any labor state in our union, I have been exposed to what is known as pressure of an unusual character and intensity."

Red Cross Aid Station Maintained During Rodeo

Behind-the-scenes activities at the Douglas County Sheriff's Posse Rodeo Saturday and Sunday included setting up of a first aid station under the grandstands by the Douglas Chapter, American Red Cross, in which minor injuries were treated.

The first aid station was in charge of S-Sgt. John Zenor of the Oregon State Guard.
Twenty other guardsmen patrolled the field and guarded the gates at the fairgrounds. Reserve Police, dismounted deputies of the sheriff's office, were in charge of traffic, including regulation of pedestrian crossings over the swinging bridge at the south city limits.

Sponsors of the two food concessions—the Roseburg Lions and Active Club—estimated the crowd consumed approximately 7,500 hamburgers, 10,000 hot dogs, and 900 cases of soft drinks.
Proceeds from the Lions Club stand will go toward construction of a 4-H building on the fair grounds, Chairman Jim Bewley said.

WM. T. KIRK DIES
PORTLAND, June 24.—(AP)—William Thomas Kirk, 62, secretary and general manager of the Industrial Hospital Association, died Sunday. He was commissioner of the State Industrial Accident Commission from 1919 to 1925.

State Golf Crown Won by Jennings

PORTLAND, Ore., June 23.—(AP)—The Oregon Golf Association champion of Oregon is Lou Jennings, Portland.

The long-hitting Jennings, who also won the crown in 1940, defeated Bill Lees, of Pullen, Portland, 3 and 1, on the Portland Golf Club course Saturday in the finals of the annual tourney for what sometimes is called the unofficial Oregon amateur championship.
The state holds no official amateur tourney, but private club members of the Oregon Golf Association invite 20 public links players to their annual tournament.

The women's title went to Mrs. Lyle Freeze Bowman, Portland, who defeated Mrs. Marian McDougall Herron, Portland, 6 and 5. Mrs. Bowman tied a course record of 75 in the morning round.

U. S. Tidelands' Relinquishment To States Sought

WASHINGTON, June 24.—(AP)—Rep. Poulson (R-Calif.) asserted yesterday that he will begin immediately the preparation of a bill to surrender the federal government's interest in the tidelands to the states.
"It will be a bill that Congress will pass over the President's veto and which the Supreme Court will understand," Poulson told a reporter after the Supreme Court had ruled against California in the tidelands ownership controversy.

Poulson said his bill would provide a federal quitclaim in favor of the states of the tidelands, submerged lands and lands beneath beds of bays, lakes and other navigable waters.
Earlier Rep. Bradley (R-Calif.) predicted such legislation would be introduced "very quickly."
Congress passed such a quitclaim bill last year, but it was vetoed by President Truman. The veto was sustained in Congress.
Senator Downey (D-Calif.) also told a reporter that Congress should "go ahead with legislation to secure a quitclaim."
"The Supreme Court decision does not affect the equities of the situation, but merely is a statement of the naked legal principles," he said.
