No Tank Rust

IN HOT WATER
FROM A FOWLER
"PORCELINED" TANK!

Lined with double-thick, non-rusting
porcelain... for CLEAN hot water

The right to constant, clean hot water belongs to every household. Why put up with discolored water from a rusty tank?

Fowler's original glass-lined tank is the one sure protection for clean hot water because it is lined with double-thick pure porcelain, that resists rust, won't tarnish or corrode. Fused onto the metal under high temperature, the porcelain seals the metal from any contact with water. The tank interior is as flawless as bathtub porcelain, as smooth as glass.

Fowler's electric water heater has many advantages—long-life "black heat" elements, economy temperature control, 20-year replacement guarantee, and efficient 3-way insulation. For lasting, dependable hot water service, Fowler is your best buy. Order today.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Bailey left this morning for Portland. Funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

Grocery Clerks Ready To Strike for Pay Hike

OREGON CITY, Ore., July 10. —The AFL Retail Grocery Clerks Union served notice today that they would strike tomorrow unless employers agree to arbitrate the union demand of $50.48 for a 40-hour week.

About 50 grocery clerks would be involved. Some grocery stores, which have already signed contracts, would not be affected.

NORTHWEST Poultry Picture

No, our chickens aren't shrinking in size but they are in number. There are over 1 million less chickens on Oregon and Washington farms now than last year. At the same time Oregon and Washington population has increased 28% in the last few years, resulting in a critical shortage of poultry and eggs in this area. Poultry growers are urged to increase their flocks and help alleviate this situation. See your local Triangle dealer and let him help you plan.

Russia Regains Historic Globe Stolen by Nazis

HAMBURG — The Gottorp globe, an extraordinary and spectacular piece of loot, "acquired" by the Germans in World War Two, has started its journey back to its Soviet owners.

The 11-foot, 17th century relic, formerly owned by Peter the Great, is being moved this week from Lubeck to Hamburg, in preparation for shipping to the Soviet Union.

The big winter freeze-up and technical difficulties of handling such an awkward load delayed the globe's return to Russia. The globe was captured in 1943 at Leningrad from a castle of the last Czar and brought back to Germany, where it was kept in the grounds of a hospital at Neustadt, Holstein.

The largest and earliest of the 17th century globes, the device was made by Adam Oelschlaeger and Andreas Busch between 1654 and 1664 for Duke Frederick of Holstein-Gottorp. After the dissolution of the Holstein estates it was given by the king of Denmark to Peter the Great in 1713. In 1725 it was presented to the Russian Academy and erected at Leningrad.

The exterior of the globe was painted to represent the world as it was known in the 17th century. The interior was painted with allegorical figures representing the constellations. From the inner axis was suspended a circular gallery for spectators. The sun and the moon, in cut glass, revolved in their proper orbits around the spectators, while the globe itself also moved to represent the rising and setting of the stars.

The device was powered by a water mill. "It doesn't look to me like it could fly," Long called the Van Nuys fire department and excitedly pointed

Whatzit Eyed as Possible 'Saucer'

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Calif., July 10. —(AP)—A saucer-shaped mechanical contraption resembling a chicken brooder top with a few gadgets added, was found in a geranium bed at the home of Construction Engineer Russell Long last night and the first official reaction was from Fire Battalion Chief Wallace E. Newcombe who looked at it skeptically and said:

"It doesn't look to me like it could fly."

Long called the Van Nuys fire department and excitedly pointed to the metal saucer, 30 inches in diameter, which he said had been belching smoke from two exhaust pipes and emitting a blue-white glare. The office of Richard B. Hood, federal investigation chief here, said an FBI man had taken a look at the device and that it would be turned over to military authorities. The FBI office said Hood had no other comment to make.

Chief Newcombe exhibited the object. A radio tube on top was set down into the upper half of the saucer which was about five inches thick at the middle and tapered to a thin perimeter. There were wires leading to a plug embedded in the center of the lower half. There was a rudimentary wing on top.
