by Moscow) is calling our hand.

WHAT will we do about it? That is hard to say. Events have moved so swiftly in Europe that already Greece and Turkey are isolated outposts.

WE are trying to save Western Europe for OUR world. Communism is reaching for it. Communism's weapon is world chaos, out of which communism grows naturally.

GREECE and Turkey are EAST of this Settlin-Adriatic line that is now the frontier. They are outposts in alien territory.

Along that line, there is a note of encouragement in the news from Washington. The bureau of labor statistics tells us that in the first six months of this year strikes and lockouts cost us only about one-fourth as much in LOST TIME as in the corresponding period of last year.

Washington, Jerome Ney, board chairman of the American Retail Federation, says: "It is probable we are near OR PAST the peak of prices."

That is to say (in his opinion) PRODUCTION IS CATCHING UP. Only adequate production can bring prices down.

NOTE that he speaks in terms of dollars. That weakens his proposal. We can't eat dollars. We can't wear them.

The bill to cut taxes has probably failed again. There are apparently not enough votes in the senate to pass it over Truman's veto.

To this, we should really add a third reason: Everybody loves spending and dreads economy.

GAME COMMISSION STUDY

By CHARLES V. STANTON

A committee authorized by the last session of the Oregon Legislature to conduct an investigation of the State Game Commission has held its first meeting and is preparing to make a thorough study of the commission's activities.

Investigation was ordered because of wholesale complaints against Game Commission policies. These complaints came to the Legislature from every section of the state.

We believe the inquiry will show the commission to be failing in aggressiveness, to be bureaucratic in its methods of operation, and to be lacking in a policy of cooperation with sportsmen, law enforcement personnel and the public at large.

We recognize, of course, that the Game Commission is limited in funds and manpower. Its program was badly handicapped by the withdrawal of a majority of young, trained personnel during the war period.

There is no excuse, however, for sloppy handling of projects to which the Commission has once committed itself.

We have in mind, as an example, the Umpqua River study. This study is of the utmost importance, not only locally but to the state at large.

The closure makes possible a scientific program to rebuild the stream's recreational resources. A sound program, however, must have expert study. As commercial fishing is curtailed, it is not to be expected that the Fish Commission will continue cooperation on an extensive scale.

The closure bill had no more than passed the Legislature until the Game Commission withdrew a thoroughly trained and expert biologist from the upper river study.

But the lower river study, where the work is most vital, is left to one Game Commission employee. At least three men are needed on the lower section, and they should have ample equipment.

The Game Commission also fails to show an aggressive attitude in game law enforcement. Enforcement is in the hands of the State Police, to which the commission supplies a tithe of its income.

Law enforcement officers, so far as we have been able to learn, are seldom consulted concerning seasons, rules and regulations. Yet they should be able to give the commission the benefit of much practical experience and suggest changes both in laws and regulations to reduce poaching.

Another factor in Game Commission management policies is that of bureaucratic attitude. The commission is supported entirely by license fees from hunters and anglers. It has an income of around a million dollars annually.

The current investigation, in our opinion, should result in recommendations for a more aggressive policy, coupled with better public relations and cooperation.

Secret Society of Navy Under Probe

WASHINGTON, July 17. (AP)—Adm. Dewitt C. Ramsey, Jr., vice chief of naval operations, said today he is "delighted" that the Navy is investigating a secret society at Annapolis.

The society, known as the "Green Bowl," has been a subject of rumor and discussion for 40 years.

"I think we should lay the ghost forever," Admiral Ramsey, a former member of the organization, told a reporter, adding: "As far as I am concerned, I'm prepared to take an oath that it has never been used in the furtherance of self-interest or promotion."

During recent armed services unification hearings Navy Capt. John G. Crommelin told Congressmen that the "Green Bowl" was an organization "which has grown vicious with the years."

Larger Units in Country Church Operation Urged

The trend among rural churches in many parts of the country is toward larger units, division of responsibility among denominations, and close co-operation among denominations where more than one serves a community.

Dr. Rich was much impressed by the joint sponsorship of this five-day institute which is conducted by Oregon State college in cooperation with the Protestant Oregon Council of Churches and the Catholic Archdiocese of Portland in Oregon.

In New York, Dr. Rich's home state, there are 80 Federated rural churches where several small denominations have combined. In the west community churches are more common.

Definite geographical divisions of rural areas into larger "parishes" with at least one denomination assigned responsibility for all in that area is advocated by Dr. Rich.

Consolidation of either churches or schools without reason and careful study can be harmful, both Dr. Rich and Father Alcuius Heibel of Portland agreed, as it may upset vital community social centers.

In fact, sharing the household

TO INSPECT WALKS Inspections of all sidewalks in the city will be made by the police and hazardous sidewalks condemned, Chief of Police O. A. Kennerly said today.

Sam Helps with the Dishwashing and the mealtime chores is sort of a bond between them... like sharing that friendly glass of beer together, when the work is done.

From where I sit, the time that a man and wife can spend with each other in this busy world today is all too precious. And the more things they can do together, the better.
