F. D. R.'s Papers Subpoenaed in Senate Inquiry

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., July 21.—(AP)—Dutchess County Surrogate Frederick S. Quinten ruled today that all the papers and files of the late President Roosevelt are "a valid and effective gift" to the United States government to be placed, maintained and preserved in the Franklin D. Roosevelt Library at Hyde Park.

The decision came as part of a judicial settlement of the account of proceedings of James Roosevelt, Basil O'Connor and Henry P. Hackett as executors of the last will and testament of Mr. Roosevelt.

Last Spring, when the Senate War Investigating committee sought permission to go through the papers in search of information dealing with Navy purchases of Arabian oil, Fred W. Shipman, librarian, said "at such time and if the Roosevelt papers are turned over to the government by court order, the United States archivist would place no insurmountable problem in making the papers available to a Senate committee or any other government body for official use."

At that time, President Truman had rejected the request for the papers and wrote the executors asking for any papers relevant to the inquiry.

Shipman could not be reached immediately for comment on the surrogate's decision.

Yesterday the Senate War Investigating Committee subpoenaed papers of the late President for an inquiry aimed at determining who authorized a wartime contract to Howard Hughes for construction of an experimental flying boat.

Earle R. Koons, an attorney for the Roosevelt estate, referring to the subpoena, said today "no one knows whether the documents sought are among Mr. Roosevelt's papers. If they are, they will be supplied to the committee as soon as possible. Every effort will be made to comply with the subpoena."

A treasure trove is the legal expression for coin, bullion, gold, or silver articles, found hidden in the earth and for which no owner can be found.

DAILY DEVOTIONS

DR. CHARLES A. EDWARDS

As all coupons on railroad tickets are marked "not good if detached," so fruitfulness in Christian living must be based upon our union with Christ. For without me ye can do nothing. The Scripture reading in John, 15 chapter, embodies an immortal lesson. It is a reminder that Christ and we, who are his disciples, are mutually dependent. The vine and the branches are equally helpless without each other. We may thwart God's plan, delay or desert His purpose through our selfishness and sin. "Ye have limited the Holy one of Israel." The lesson suggests also that one stream of life flows through God and us. "Abide in me and I in you." As our lives are knitted together in Christ, the divine husbandman grafts us into the "true vine," and His life flows in and through us. The fruitage of all this is Christian service. "Herein is My Father glorified that ye bear much fruit."

All planting, pruning and purging are for fruit. What concern and care God has for our lives. "Must I go, and empty-handed, This my dear Redeemer meet? Not one soul with which to greet Him, Lay no trophies at His feet?" Amen.

Big Auditing Job Remains From Exit of UNRRA

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON, D. C.—United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration has officially gone out of business in every country except China, but the auditors as well as the memories linger on. The auditors will be around till the end of the year at least, trying to balance the books on the world's greatest experiment in international co-operation to relieve human suffering.

Whether that experiment is regarded as success or failure, the final audit should bring out in much clearer focus what was done with the money received from the sale of UNRRA supplies in the 17 war-torn nations.

The general impression is that all these supplies were given away in a gigantic soup-kitchen operation. That's far from the truth. One of the original conditions of the UNRRA set-up was that, wherever possible, relief and rehabilitation supplies should be sold in the country that got them. The idea was to start the wheels of normal trade relations and exchange of goods rolling again.

Money received from the sale of UNRRA supplies was not however to be returned to the 31 countries that paid for them. Instead it was specified that the receipts should be spent in the country of sale for permanent reconstruction or further relief and rehabilitation. For every dollar put into UNRRA, it was hoped that another dollar's worth of good might be done in the reinvestment turnover.

How close UNRRA came to achieving this goal, nobody knows. Of the $3.7 billion UNRRA fund, $2.9 billion went for supplies. The other $800 million covered administration, shipping and distribution costs.

What the $2.9 billion went for is known. Roughly $1250 million went for food, $425 million for clothing, $125 million for medicine, $350 million for rehabilitation, $680 million for industrial rehabilitation and $120 million for special forms of relief. But what portion of each category was sold, and what part given away, UNRRA doesn't know. Reasons given are that UNRRA supplies are not all disposed of yet, and that the manner of distribution and form of reinvestment was left to each country. Their reports vary in completeness and accuracy.

Czechoslovakia's reports are probably in best shape. This country has worked out a complete two-year plan for reinvestment of the $265 million it hopes to receive from sale of UNRRA supplies to its people.

In Italy, money received from resale of UNRRA supplies has been put into a special Lire Fund. It is expected to reach $165 million. This has been budgeted to go 40 per cent for housing, 50 per cent to health and welfare services, 10 per cent to agricultural rehabilitation.

Poland got approximately $481 million worth of UNRRA aid. Most of it was given away as this country was one of the worst ravaged by war. Only $73 million was received from sales and the proceeds made available for reinvestment.

Most of this went to re-equip looted hospitals and clinics. Over $1 million was transferred to the International Children's Fund, World Health Organization and other voluntary relief organizations which took over when UNRRA pulled out of Warsaw June 30.

These are at best sketchy reports from only three of the 17 countries which UNRRA tried to aid.

The point not to be lost sight of is that by this sale and reinvestment from a part of the supplies, UNRRA did more good than the mere filling of an empty belly. The result was that UNRRA was

Russia Not Thinking of War, Educator Declares

AUSTIN, Tex., July 20.—(AP)—Dr. Robert H. Montgomery, University of Texas professor who helped the army pick wartime A-bomb targets, asserts that Russia isn't thinking about war.

"They are not completely crazy," the economics professor told the Texas power reserve, an organization of rural cooperatives. "In 24 hours we could wipe out 75,000,000 Russians and not lose 100 men. They know it."

He urged that atomic energy be put to peaceful use, which he said could result in a truly Christian world, "not tomorrow, but very soon."

"The proper use of atomic power would mean plenty of food, plenty of shelter, plenty of everything for all men," he asserted. "I'm not worried about the Russians," he said. "I'm worried about us. If we're going to kill them, let's do it now, not wait three years. Rather than that, let's learn what to do about this power for the good of man. The next war won't leave anything here, or there."

able to declare a dividend and toss it back into the business of war relief.

It Pays to Use Dry Lumber

Once more kiln dried lumber for all construction work is available at the Coen Lumber Company.

War time conditions during the past five years made it necessary to furnish green lumber to increase production—but now, due to an easier situation in the lumber business, we are pleased to be able to offer kiln dried lumber for general construction—both commons and clears.

Whatever you build use kiln dried lumber throughout and avoid shrinkage, checking, settling, fungus growth, and decay that so often results from the use of green lumber.
