five attack on Prime Minister Attlee's Spartan plans for meeting the economic squeeze - Churchill declared:

"The government's proposals will mean the abrogation of parliament and of all our long cherished rights."

Government-requested legislation to implement the Attlee program would extend and strengthen government powers, dating from wartime, to direct labor in to "necessary" industry and intervene in "inefficient" industries. The program itself was aimed at cutting down imports and boosting production for export.

Churchill maintained that the labor and industry controls asked by the government would destroy British freedom and added:

"These powers are the negation of British freedom and way of living in time of peace."

He said the socialist ministers would be "the absolute masters" of the country while Parliament was in recess. It is scheduled to adjourn for the summer next week.

"Is this necessary to the life of the country?" he asked. "It would mean a state of alarm and discouragement and paralysis."

Attlee's Speech Flayed

Churchill declared that Attlee's speech Wednesday—in which the prime minister outlined his work-more-eat-less program for Britain—was "universally judged to be inadequate."

Carrying on in a sharp personal attack on the prime minister, Churchill inquired:

"Who is going to yield these powers? Not merely the prime minister, who seems increasingly an amused passenger in the pleasure boat."

He declared that the government's ministers were men who were prepared always to put the party before the nation.

In his speech, Attlee had called for "Dunkirk spirit" to overcome a threatened dollar famine born of fast spending and under production.

"You talk of Dunkirk spirit," Churchill said. "What would Dunkirk have been if the little boats were only going to take off members of the trade unions and it was said that we didn't care a tinker's cuss for the rest?"

This apparently was a reference to Fuel Minister Shinwell's speech several weeks ago in which he was reported to have said, "We do not give a tinker's cuss about non-labor people in Britain."

"The minister who made made those expressions," Churchill said, "still remains a member of the government in spite of his failures, and he is retained in his position by the play of outside forces."

climbed out of the cockpit before he said he had averaged about 285 miles an hour, including time aground, since he left Chicago.

He estimated that his average speed since leaving Chicago was about 20 miles an hour faster than on his previous trip with Reynolds. He said the weather had been perfect all the way.

His only concern was to get 500 additional gallons of fuel into the tanks of his plane, the "Bombshell," before a takeoff for Karachi.

"I'm staying here only long enough to get gas," he said, declining to go to a restaurant for a meal. "I've got sandwiches, oranges, soup and tea in the plane."

situation. He agreed with me that he needed medical treatment. Arrangements for proper care and hospitalization for him were to be completed this week.

Frightened Into Shooting

Yesterday he started drinking again after I had left town. He returned to our home in my absence. He started mistreating one of our horses. Anne pleaded with him to stop. He became enraged and violent and threatened to kill the horse. He also threatened her. She ran into the house to get away from him. He followed her, threatening and cursing and with his fist clenched.

She picked up my .45 automatic, which I keep in my desk, with the idea of frightening him away.

"He started into the house after her. Anne knew he was not himself. She became hysterical with fright and began firing. Anne had never fired a weapon before in her life. I know she did not intend to kill my father, because she loved him as we all did. She would not have intentionally killed even to save her own life."

expired last night. He said committee aides last night asked Meyer to be present today and he agreed to be on hand, but did not appear.

"We trusted him and we shouldn't have," the chairman said.

Flanagan said that committee investigators were hunting Meyer in an attempt to serve the second subpoena on the publicity agent.

T. A. Slack, Hughes attorney, said:

"I have no idea where Meyer is."

E. O. Hospital Job O.K.'d; Fairview Bids Rejected

SALEM, Ore., Aug. 8.—(AP)—The State Board of Control today had authorization to go ahead with a $966,489 treatment hospital at the Eastern Oregon State Hospital at Pendleton.

A bid of $792,740 for a patient's cottage, employees' dormitory and a laundry building at the Fairview home near here, however, was rejected in the joint session of the Board of Control and the Emergency Board yesterday. It was the third rejection for the project.

Secretary of State Farrell said he would ask the Board of Control at its next meeting to close the home to new patients until more room is available.

The Fairview project was rejected because of high costs, the latest bid being larger than one turned down earlier.

Installment Buying Controls to End Nov. 1

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—(AP)—President Truman today signed legislation killing all controls on installment buying November 1, 1947.

In a statement criticizing the legislation the President said: "It is unfortunate that the Congress did not provide for restraints on over-expansion of installment credit in order to diminish inflationary pressures arising from this course."

Mr. Truman observed that continuation of present controls for the next three months has been "permitted and implied by the Congress," and he added that "this is preferable to immediate abandonment of these restraints." "For that reason," the President continued, "I have signed the joint resolution."

GOOD NEWS FOR VETS.

Veterans enrolled at schools and colleges can expect a better break this fall, according to the Veterans Administration, as there will be faster delivery of checks, more textbooks and rapidly improved housing.

It is estimated there will be more than two-million student-veterans next September.
