DAILY DEVOTIONS

DR. CHARLES A. EDWARDS
"Add to your faith virtue; and to virtue knowledge; and to knowledge temperance; and to temperance patience; and to patience godliness; and to godliness brotherly kindness; and to brotherly kindness charity." The Greek word here translated "add" is highly suggestive. It refers to a choir of well-trained singers. In Greek speaking countries in the time of the Apostles, there were at great national festivities, contests in music, oratory, and athletics. A choir master would bestow the most painstaking work upon a choir enlisted for such an occupation. One defective voice would ruin all chance of the prize. The average Christian, we fear, gives too little thought to this all-round addition in character building and fails to realize that the neglect to bring out one of these graces in his life may spoil the whole life. As the singing of a well-trained choir is delightful so the music that goes out from a symmetrical Christian life has an irresistible charm and power. The Christian's aim should be, "Till we all come unto the measure of the stature of the fullness of Christ." Amen.
