Wife Meets Death News Instead of Her Husband

SEATTLE, Aug. 21.—(AP)—A mother with her six-month-old son was returning to her Jefferson, Iowa, home yesterday saddened by the news that her soldier husband was among those lost with Ambassador George C. Atcheson, Jr., in an air transport landing at sea.

The woman, Mrs. Reva Carley, 27, received the news as she waited at Fort Lawton to board an Army transport to Japan for a reunion with her husband.

Vocational School At Klamath Falls Opens August 25

Diesel mechanics, carpenters, bakers, radio repairmen and refrigeration repairmen courses will open at Oregon Vocational School at Klamath Falls on August 25. It was announced by W. D. Purvine, director. Trainees may also enter courses in auto mechanics, body and fender repair and cooks school.

All persons interested may register on or before August 25 whether on the waiting list or not. Arrangements have been made for additional instructors to ease a larger number of students register than is expected. The Oregon Vocational School offers streamlined training for gainful employment. Course offerings will include most occupations not requiring college training. Instruction emphasizes practical experience under the supervision of qualified tradesmen. Equipment is the industrial type of the kind found in private-owned shops.

The new school is approved for veteran training and admits both veterans and non-veterans. Trainees must be sixteen years of age or over. Adequate housing is available at the school for single students and apartments for married couples.

Other courses scheduled for early opening include: Bookkeeping and accounting, business management, business and office training, drafting, electrical appliance repair, electrical wiring, machine shop, photography, salesmanship, welding, agriculture, aircraft engines, electric motor repair, watch and clock repair, dry cleaning, engineering aides, commercial art and design, laundry and cosmetology.

Address of the new state school is Oregon Vocational School, Box 1049, Klamath Falls, Oregon.

'Miss Boulder Dam' Faces Taboo, Changes Name

BOULDER CITY, Nev., Aug. 21.—(AP)—They changed "Miss Boulder Dam" to "Miss Boulder City" before she could have her picture taken on Hoover dam.

Seems the Disabled American Veterans, conventioning in near-by Las Vegas, selected Peggy McCarty, 20, a Tacoma lovely, as "Miss Boulder Dam."

But Bureau of Reclamation officials held that the term "Boulder Dam" is taboo since Congress changed the name officially to "Hoover Dam."

"Boulder City" is something else again because the citizens haven't changed the name of their town.

They were married July 24, 1943.

Greer Garson Files for Divorce From Actor Ney

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 21.—(AP)—Actress Greer Garson, 35, has filed a divorce suit against Richard Ney, 33, film actor, from whom she has been separated since Jan. 20.

Miss Garson, the "Mrs. Miniver," who won an academy award for that picture in 1942 when her role was that of Ney's mother, alleged that for some time before their separation Ney "inflicted a course of great and grievous mental and physical suffering" upon her.

They were married July 24, 1943.
