Gift Gossip

By MARGIE

Hello there, all you gorgeous people! What of the myrtle tree with its glossy evergreen leaves that give off a camphor-like odor when crushed? What of the wood of the myrtle tree which, when seasoned, becomes almost as hard as iron and reveals a grain of unexcelled beauty? What of the articles made of the unique wood, so artfully displayed at DOROTHY'S, address of 115 S. Stephens St.? What? I repeat, and echo replies you'll find all the answers at that selfsame shop, just south of the Post Office on Hiway 99.

One particular answer is myrtle wood pins, hand painted and exclamatory! To look at them is equivalent to going to an art gallery. They exhibit snow-capped mountains, ships, and winter scenes; flowers, birds, and animals; Mexican, Indiana and seascapes, all so beautifully executed you'll want several to hang on your chest and coat lapel. Some have earrings to match and some are unadorned, depending entirely upon the grain of the wood for their interest. And not to be outdone in originality, there are initial pins of myrtle wood represented by practically every letter in the alphabet from A to Zed.

Myrtle wood buttons are guaranteed to give your costume a matchless charm; while beads made of the nut-like seeds will instantly provoke a conversation among friends or strangers. Getting along to more momentous articles, DOROTHY'S can supply you with clever little wall brackets imitating maple leaves; corner brackets with intricately carved scroll work; and generously large sand bowl complements with fork and spoon servers, all turned with consummate craftsmanship from the versatile myrtle wood.

Trinket boxes lined with velvet; ring boxes with grooved insets; cigarette boxes, lamp and smoking stands. Large circular trays that display the exquisite grain of the wood to excellent advantage. Articles made of myrtle wood will last until the crack of doom, and they are growing scarcer all the time. When you buy myrtle wood you are making an investment for posterity. I wooden fool you, folks. Be wise and myrtleize at DOROTHY'S. As ever, Margie. Paid Adv.
