respect in which Gandhi is held in India. The man is Bernard Baruch. He has never held an elective office. His service to his country has consisted solely in giving advice. Generally speaking, it has been sound, good, patriotic advice.

HE offers advice again. The general outline of it has been printed in this newspaper. If you haven't done so already, read it. Study it. In doing so, FORGET YOUR PREJUDICES. Remember only that your country faces serious days and great decisions that must be RIGHT.

BARUCH tells the senate foreign relations (in reference to the Marshall plan) that "dollars alone will not save Europe nor win the peace."

HIS program is too long to be even summarized here. But, among other things, he proposes that we "reduce major food prices in return for guaranteeing farmers an assured price for their crops for the next three years" and that in return for this rollback we then STABILIZE wages.

AS to the world situation, he says: "The United States should stand ready to buy all non-perishable raw materials produced anywhere and by anyone in the world for the next five years and which can not find normal commercial markets."

It is common knowledge that the world is suffering from a shortage of dollars. The reason is that the United States, which alone in the world has an undamaged production machine, has been selling to everybody and buying practically from nobody.

That can't go on. Commerce is a two-way street. If traffic flows along it ONE WAY ALL THE TIME, disastrous congestion HAS to ensue.

It is ensuing now. As long as this impossible situation continues, we will pour our dollars down a bottomless rathole.

High Court Voids Prison Term on Negro Youth. WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—The conviction of Albert Lee, a Jackson, Miss., Negro sentenced at 17 to serve 18 years in prison on charges of assault with attempt to rape, yesterday was unanimously set aside by the supreme court.

In another decision the justices voted 6-3 to grant a new hearing on whether Mrs. Margaret Von Meier, Detroit, should be released from serving a four-year prison term to which she was sentenced for aiding a Nazi spy ring.

HIGHWAYS NEED AID

By CHARLES V. STANTON

Meeting in Roseburg Monday, the U. S. Highway 99 Association adopted a budget amounting to $20,000 for the year and authorized employment of a full-time manager. Restoration of managerial service, and adoption of a larger budget to permit greater activity should be an important step in furthering needed development of the Pacific route.

The old saying that the "squeaky wheel gets the grease" has been quite true in Oregon's highway affairs. The Highway 99 Association was very active for a number of years and succeeded in getting considerable improvement work done.

But, in the meantime, the Coast Highway Association has been plugging industriously, and with good results, for Route 101, and the Columbia Highway group has succeeded in diverting large sums of money to its favored project. Included in funds channeled into improvement of the Columbia Highway was a very considerable chunk of federal money originally allotted for access road use on the North Umpqua Highway.

The effort of Klamath Falls to secure designation of the Willamette Pass route as the inter-regional highway, which would have made a side road of Route 99 between Weed and Eugene, came too near success to be comfortable. It is evident that in the scramble for highway money, although insufficient to meet all demands, any route must have strong representation before the various organizations which have charge of allocations.

It is to be hoped that the studies of the legislative interim committee, now conducting public hearings relative to state, county and municipal highway needs, will result in a program eliminating competition between communities and routes, reducing political influence, and placing construction jobs upon a basis of merit rather than pressure. But need for an organization to protect financial interest, promote service and accommodation for travelers along the route, and engage in advertising to attract tourist travel, will increase rather than decrease.

The fact that inter-regional designation has been given Highway 99, and that both federal and state funds will go into reconstruction on throughways standards, only means that the work of the association will be increased, leading to necessity of larger membership and bigger budgets in future years.

The association's activity is not to be confined alone to surface travel. In cooperation with the California unit, plans have been adopted to provide airway markers to guide commercial and private fliers. Soon, we anticipate, Oregon will have landing strips conveniently placed along the highway to serve planes and air passengers.

Importance of Highway 99 will become more and more evident during ensuing years. Population in California is growing by leaps and bounds. Washington, too, is participating in the westward movement of population, while we are all familiar with the growth of Oregon communities, particularly west of the Cascade Range.

Spacious, modern highways will be necessary to handle the great flow of traffic we must anticipate. Route 99, which for years has carried the great bulk of north and southbound traffic, will continue as the heaviest traveled road. We do not have road building facilities to make improvements as rapidly as needed. In fact, we already are 10 or more years behind and it will take a long time even to catch up with current requirements.

Cattle, Sheep, Lambs on Feed Lowest Since 1940

DENVER.—Both cattle and sheep and lambs on feed as of Jan. 1 declined for the nation, according to U. S. D. A. figures issued here.

F. W. Beyer, Jr., western livestock statistician, reported the national total of cattle and calves on feed was down 12 per cent, compared with a year ago, the total dropping from 4,307,000 to 3,744,000 and reaching the lowest level since 1940. The overall decline in available meat is not expected to be in direct proportion, however, because a larger number of heavy and prime animals were reported on feed.

Figures on cattle and calves, with 1948 estimates first and 1947 figures second by states included: Washington 22,000 - 27,000; Oregon 24,000 - 32,000; California 205,000 - 165,000.

Agreement Covers Purchases of Seed

A seed purchase agreement program for alfalfa and common ryegrass seeds was recently announced. Common ryegrass seed growers may have a particular interest in this program since it involves important changes from the method of handling purchases in previous years. To be eligible to sell common ryegrass or alfalfa seed of the 1947 crop to the Commodity Credit Corporation, a producer must file a purchase agreement with his county ACA office not later than February 29, 1948.

The purchase agreement does not commit the producer to the sale of any quantity of seed, but unless he has filed the agreement, he is ineligible to sell his seed to CCC.

The prices effective in Oregon under the program for seed meeting basic specifications are as follows:

Class in Physical Education Being Taught in Roseburg

EUGENE, Ore., Jan. 20.—Physical education workshops, designed to provide in-service training to teachers working in the field of health and physical education, are scheduled for Prineville and Roseburg, the general extension division of the State System of Higher Education announced today.

Planned and directed by two University of Oregon faculty members, Dr. Dorothy Mohr, an associate professor, and V. S. Sprague, assistant professor, the course will be taught in Roseburg by Howard Weddle, instructor in Roosevelt Junior High School, Eugene, and Evelyn Hudson, university graduate assistant. Prineville courses will be taught by Claude Cook, physical education director in Bend, and Mrs. Nellie Fly, Redmond.

Carrying two hours credit and meeting for 12 weeks, the workshops will include the teaching of skills of physical education activities selected by the student, demonstration of the methods used in teaching skills, and emphasizing the importance of progression and sequence in the selected activity.

Electrical Gadget for Mine Safety Devised

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 21.—Development of an "electrical watchdog" which snuffs out short circuit sparks in coal mine power systems was reported yesterday by Westinghouse Electric Corp. As an advance in the drive to eliminate disastrous mine explosions.

The new equipment was developed jointly by the Mines Equipment Co., St. Louis, Mo., and Westinghouse. It consists of a system of electric circuit breakers and relays housed in an explosion proof jacket. It instantly shuts off power when danger of a short circuit is detected or a machinery fault develops. The device has been approved by the U. S. Bureau of Mines.

Japanese Mines Still on Loose in Pacific Waters

SEATTLE, Jan. 20.—Eighty-seven derelict Japanese mines were reported floating off Oregon-Washington coasts during 1947, the Coast Guard said today. Thirty were destroyed. Two of three mines reported this month have also been exploded.

New Strike Against Food Lack Ordered in Germany

FRANKFURT, Germany, Jan. 20.—Cologne's workers were directed today to stage a 24-hour general strike tomorrow, and spontaneous work stoppages spread throughout the British and American zones of Germany protesting food shortages.

Resentment arose in British-American Bizonia over the decision of German food ministers to send fat to the Ruhr at the expense of 36,000,000 other Germans in other districts.

Amid the spreading unrest, gangs described by the military government as probably "Neo-Fascist" went on the offensive in Bavaria over the weekend, attacking Communist living quarters and beating up Communist party members. Apartment windows of all Communist functionaries in the Passau area, bordering the Russian zone of Austria, were smashed.

Gift Gossip

By MARGIE. Hello there, all you enlightened people! Lucifer, the bringer of light, is another name for the planet Venus, it says here. Me thinks it was right neighborly of the old boy to lend his name to the lucifer match, another bringer of light. But Edison changed all that, and now when we want a little light on the subject we don't bother with matches or rubbing two sticks together. We nip down to DOROTHY'S, at 115 S. Stephens St., and buy a little old electrolier, plug it in, and lo! another bringer of light, twentieth century style. From torch to grease lamp, from candle to kerosene, from gas to electricity, light has kept pace with these changing times of ours.

Perhaps Lucite also took its name from Lucifer, but this little incubation will not go into that. Lucite does, however, make strong, beautiful, artistic table lamps, bed lamps, boudoir lamps, bracket lamps and yes, even candle lamps. A little research at DOROTHY'S convinced me that Lucite, clear or tinted, is just about the most luminal material on the market today. And just to save you a trip to the big book, that word pertains to a lamp or to artificial light. So lucernal Lucite is quite apropos, no less.

After examining DOROTHY'S Lucite lamps I took a squint at the myrtle wood beauties. You ought, by all that's right and proper, to have at least one myrtle wood lamp in your cozy domicile. Either a tall, slim, graceful affair, a fat, squatly little number, or a stately floor lamp, the quiet essence of everything gracious and dignified. After all, you do want a lamp that does something for your home besides just give light. There are several hours of every day when they simply sit around and look pleasant. If yours are grumpy and out of sorts, but you're still attached to the dear old things, why not give them a lift with some new shades from DOROTHY'S? Parchment is a popular pepper-upper, and the spun glass items are elegant. Good light, all, Margie. (Paid adv.)
