Swiss Military Training Topic Of Amacher's Address

Switzerland's unique independence in Europe may be attributed in part to its system of universal military training, said John Amacher of Winchester, who told the Roseburg Active Club Wednesday night, of his trip to his native land last summer.

Switzerland is located in the heart of Europe, Amacher said. The country controls the mountain passes over the Alps and has guarded and fortified the passes since Roman times. Napoleon, in 1794, is the only invader who ever overran portions of the country.

Amacher told the Active Club how he had served in the Swiss Army between 1914 and 1918 in the mountain infantry. He aided in the construction of trenches and fortifications on the Swiss-German frontier during the first World War.

Amacher's talk to the Active Club was sponsored by the Reserve Officers Association, as part of its observance of National Security Week, Feb. 12-22. The speaker was introduced by Capt. Leo Young, chairman of National Security Week activities in Roseburg.

"The Swiss today could put a quarter of a million men on their borders in two hours," Amacher pointed out. Of the nation's five million people, 800,000 serve in the Army, while everyone from 10 to 60 has assigned duties during periods of crisis, he said.

In Switzerland, Amacher said, all young men want to serve in the Army and during his recent trip, he did not see "one single person who seemed dissatisfied" at having to serve his country when it became necessary.

NEWSPAPER BURNS

GERVAIS, Ore., Feb. 20—(AP)—The Gervais Star, one of Marion County's oldest weekly newspapers, was destroyed Wednesday night by fire. The fire was believed caused by explosion of an oil stove.

Musical comedy is a form of entertainment developed almost exclusively by English-speaking countries.

Employment In Douglas Held Down By Bad Weather

Bad weather is still the major factor for continued unemployment in Douglas County, said George Foster, manager of the Oregon State Employment Service here.

During the past week, 831 persons visited the local employment office, with approximately half of these filing claims for unemployment compensation, he said.

Logging operations in the Little River and Sutherlin areas being snowed-out was the principal reason for the filing of 65 new claims for unemployment compensation, Foster said.

Despite the lack of general employment possibilities, 38 persons were aided in securing jobs. A number of the jobs were in the construction field and several were in clerical and sales classifications.

Job opportunities remain at the same level as last week, with 63 openings on hand. One-third of these are for workers in the skilled bracket. One-third are female positions in domestic and clerical work, and the balance are scattered over the entire field.

Based on reports received from the larger lumber firms in the area, it is believed that 1948 production will exceed that of 1947 by a comfortable margin, Foster said.

This condition should provide employment for a large number of people, he added.

The reports reveal that the major hindrance to increased production is the housing problem that confronts the area. Another problem is that of the migratory worker, who is now employed in inside work, but who will leave when the weather clears up for the various agricultural harvests.

Reports of Peace Feelers to Settle "Cold War" False

By DeWitt MacKenzie
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Secretary of State Marshall says that so far as he knows there's nothing in reports that the Russians have been putting out peace feelers in Berlin for a settlement of the "cold war" with the U. S. A.

Well, if the General doesn't know about them it's a safe bet there haven't been any, because he would be about the first man informed of any such momentous development. As a matter of fact it's hard to see what possible basis there could be for thinking Moscow was making peace overtures.

Why should Russia want peace? By waging a carefully planned "cold war" of aggression (and sometimes not so cold, at that) she has brought virtually all of eastern Europe and part of central Europe under Soviet domination. At the same time she has extended her influence over Manchuria and a great section of Northern China and just now has virtually annexed northern Korea.

Meantime in other countries, not excluding the United States, Soviet agents and native adherents to the cult of the clenched fist have been giving demonstrations of what Communistic intensive organizations can do. So taking it the world around, the Bolshevists would seem to have done fairly well for themselves—on paper. Why, then, should they suddenly sue for peace?

Two Roads Open

In answering this question we must remind ourselves again that the cold war wasn't of spontaneous origin. As this column has pointed out before, it is a part of Bolshevism's thirty-year-old program of world revolution for the establishment of communism. It is a project which never will cease until either (1) Communism succeeds in overrunning the world, or (2) the Red advance is halted by a material barrier—like the Marshall plan, for example.

It is true that in Europe the Communist drive has slowed down to a crawl. However, this is due to the fact that Moscow already has taken over all the countries in which it had armed forces and thus is in complete control.

No, I don't believe that Moscow is suing for peace. It might well be that the Soviet Union will reach a point where, for a change, it will be willing to make a concession here and there. However, such concessions won't be for altruistic reasons but to provide easement for Russia in some situation that is worrying her.

Communism is out to destroy "capitalism" and establish totalitarism everywhere—period.
