Minstrel Show Tomorrow Offers Treat in Comedy

Laughing darky faces, painted shoes, black wigs and bright patches will loom up before the footlights of the Junior High School auditorium Wednesday, when the Senior High School vocal department will present songs of the Old South in a minstrel show.

The evening will feature many solo and specialty numbers, comedy routines and dances. The end men and interactor have been rehearsing their best jokes which will keep the audience laughing every minute during the performance.

"Can't You Hear Me Callin' Caroline," "Basin Street Blues," "Lucky Sam" and "Old Man River" are a few of the host of good songs that will be presented.

Dance highlight will be Joanne Butler's interpretive ballet, "Summertime." Pauline Miller and Raedra Reece will present the "Minstrel Strut."

A matinee will be given for the elementary grades Tuesday afternoon at one o'clock. No admission will be charged but donations will be accepted by the chorus, which is working to raise funds for choir robes and a portable steel riser.

The vocal department "darkies" will be selling tickets until Wednesday night. Tickets are also on sale at Bob's Music Shop and will be sold at the performance.
