Measles Season Back In Oregon, Board Announces

PORTLAND, March 17 —(AP)— The State Board of Health warned today that the measles season was back. The board said it was distributing immune serum globulin to county health departments.

The globulin makes measles attacks less severe. So far this year the prevalence of measles has been lower than average in Oregon.

Not a single new case of diptheria, meningitis, poliomyelitis, or typhoid fever was reported in Oregon last week. Influenza, though it still struck 151 persons during the week, continued to decline in frequency.
