Mexican Actress Gives Advice to U. S. Women

HOLLYWOOD — (AP)—American women have plenty to learn about men, says attractive Rosita Diaz, Mexican actress-producer. "They have lost all knowledge of how to hold and treat a man!" said Miss Diaz with a toss of her red hair.

"Why Latin women would be ashamed to admit that they couldn't hold a man for less than a lifetime," she told an interviewer.

Miss Diaz conceded that "American girls are the best-educated, best-dressed and most competent women in the world."

"They are smart," she said, "and will soon learn not to exchange political and civil rights for power over men. When this happens, men will stay home and not roam the field."

An embryonic stock exchange was inaugurated on Wall Street in 1792.

New York City is 36 miles long and 16 and one-half miles wide at its greatest breadth.
