GIFT GOSSIP
 by Margie
 Hello there, all you apathetic people: Well, kids, what shall we do today? Play "One Old Ox Opening Oysters," or would you rather explain the Einstein theory of whatyoumeanit? You vote for the ox, eh? How jolly! So we'll continue with "Two toads, totally tried, trying to trot to Troy," then carry on with "Three tawny tigers tickling trout." And so it goes until the climax of "Twelve twittering tomatoes on the top of a tall tottering tree." If you want to learn the remainder of the artful alliteration connected with this game, simply send me a postcard, accompanied by one platinum mink coat or an old 1948 Studebaker, and your reply will come by return mail. And how!
 But as long as we are seeking pastime, let's happily hop down to DOROTHY'S rumpus room at 115 S. Stephens St. and play "I Spy" all over the place. Here on this rack are some book shelf games, Bowling, Bingo, Pimileo and Chung Peg, all done up in neat little cases that could readily be mistaken for books. Easy to play and easy to store away; not gaudy but gay, and fun every day. Larger size book shelf games present a selection of Baseball, Backgammon, Checkers, Gin Rummy, and Acey Ducey. No excuse for ennui with a library like that at hand.
 Now we'll skip rope into the back room and tag a swell plastic-coated game board, ready to play you a match of checkers, chess, acey ducey or backgammon. These make scrumptious lap boards, too, for various other sedentary activities. They're strong, rigid and smooth, and just the right size for almost any purpose, outside of a football game. Plastic checkers, if you're inclined that way.
 Sparks is the name of another game at DOROTHY'S that should ring the bell with many a young lassie. Gives the ingredients for learning and transmitting the Morse code. Especially sweet for Scouts and in masses of extreme S. O. S. And for grown-up boys, interlocking plastic poker chips in handy carry-all racks. At DOROTHY'S, fellow sportspeople. Tally-ho, Margie.
