MISSIONARY TEA IS HELD FRIDAY
The South parlor of the First Christian Church was the setting for the Missionary Tea honoring the newer women of the church membership, for the month of April on Friday.

A high point of interest was the lace covered worship-table, centered with the Open Bible, before a picture of the Christ, and surrounded by candles and flowers. Other tables were filled with interesting missionary studies; books, pamphlets, maps and magazines which make up the Missionary Library. Any title of which may be withdrawn for reading when so desired; time limit is the usual two weeks.

Program Director Elsie Coffell, introduced the officers who were present; President Emma Beckley, and Treasurer Marguerite Munson.

The burden of study was highlighting the various missionary activities. Mrs. Edith S. Ackert presented ten of the many activities located in the United States. These were: All People's Church located in Los Angeles, about three years old, discussed by Mrs. Coffell; White Swan Indian Mission located near Yakima, Wash., discussed by Dorothy McSay, who said her home was once near that vicinity. Her report was from the National Geographic for February. More highlights were Piney Woods Country Life school, Piney Woods, Miss., the home of the Cotton Blossom Singers who used to tour the west, discussed by Emma Beckley and Preacher McReynolds, missionary in southeastern Oklahoma with four or five helpers ministering to the unchurched folk in the mountains, discussed by Mrs. Valdean Bridgess. The College field was discussed by Lena C. Poole and Mrs. Valetta Taylor discussed the new church of Corpus Christi, Texas. Terry Leavitt's home for needy boys, Thorp, Wash., and The Happy Land near Eugene, was discussed by Mrs. Pearl Mathis. Hazel Green Academy (Kentucky) was discussed by Mrs. Ackert emphasizing their mobile unit ministry in dispensing books to the greatly deprived among the share croppers and rootless communities. An effort is being made to gather books for this mobile unit. The division of work in the foreign field was discussed by Mrs. Mable P. Taylor, who showed this division to be in agreement by the various denominations in order to prevent confusion arising from varying viewpoints. Mrs. Taylor also mentioned the great need of the lepers for a stable abiding place, as well as hospitalization and medical care. Mrs. Martha Knox made a very fine report on the many missionary activities of the local church. Mrs. Jeannette Boucock gave very beautiful devotions on the theme, "The Harvest is Great", bearing emphasis upon the thought that each one is needed in the harvest.
