Gift Gossip

By MARGIE

Hello there, all you Destiny's children! Put not your faith in rabbits' feet, four-leaf clovers or horseshoes. You can catch tularemia from the first, Ascariis Lumbricoides from the second, (ask any canine) and a broken leg from the third, especially if the horse is still in possession. Luck is not a matter of charms and conjure bags, or being born under a propitious star, or throwing salt over the left shoulder. It may help, however, if one has the foresight to select wealthy parents; a small item, but effective. Another precaution, whether you subscribe to fate, kismet or karma, is to always, under any and all circumstances, go to DOROTHY'S, along about 115 S. Stephens St., when you need gifts and beautiful articles of all descriptions. Here you will be safe from hex, curse, or just plain bum luck.

Speaking of bunny paws yet, you can get 'em at DOROTHY'S, the genuine McCoy, left hind foot, caught in the dark of the moon, or whatever the requirements are. Their special mission is to safeguard your keys. And I saw some four-leaf clover charms, for working enchantments and fascinations. While horseshoes connive with ash trays to keep you from burning the house down. So no wonder there's luck in the air and good fortune with each purchase.

Personally, I go for more solid items of auspicious omen. I like the lovely Lucite jigger for drying hose; it eliminates snags and runs. But watch out Dad doesn't grab it for hanging his ties. I like, also, the plastic ball-bearing yarn holder that operates on ball bearings, and guarantees no ball of yarn will roll like crazy under the sofa. Kittens won't care for it, but that's just their hard luck. At DOROTHY'S the jinx is neutralized and the hoodoo discounted.

So if you're feeling like the second cousin of a zombie, and you need a slight talisman to exorcise the hobgoblins, jump on your broomstick and sweep down to DOROTHY'S, where everything is sweetness and light. There you will find 1001 antidotes for the heebie-jeebies. Good luck, all Margie.—(Pd. Adv.)
