U. S. Weather Bureau Office Roseburg, Oregon Forecast for Roseburg and vicinity: Cloudy with continued showers today; partly cloudy with scattered showers Thursday.

In all respects at Eniwetok atoll in the Pacific (which we recently set apart as an atom weapon testing area).

Chairman Lillenthal of the U. S. atomic energy commission, says that the tests are a "milestone in atomic development."

In Washington, a house armed services subcommittee approves unanimously a bill that clears the way for the Navy to get started on a 65,000-ton giant aircraft carrier.

This new ship, if built, will be about a half bigger than the Navy's present BIGGEST carriers. Its flight deck would be so large that MULTIPLE-ENGINE BOMBERS could take off from it with ease.

(The atom bomb, to be of any value in war, has to be delivered on its target. An aircraft carrier so huge that multiple-engine bombers can take off from its flight deck would provide a way to get the bomb STARTED ON ITS ROAD TO THE TARGET.)

In order to clear the way for construction of this monster, the house subcommittee recommends that the Navy be allowed to stop work on 13 unfinished ships on which it is now working.

(DON'T, however, jump to any wrong conclusions. Giant aircraft carriers of this class won't be in use right away. The dispatch adds that in the neighborhood of FOUR YEARS will be required to build the first one.)

INFLATION note:

The Chinese dollar, which used to be worth four bits in U.S. money, has just been raised officially to 474,000 to one U. S. dollar. That is the official rate of exchange. The black market rate is probably much higher.

Things like that happen when, for one reason and another, over a long period of time, NOT ENOUGH THINGS are produced to go around. No such fantastic inflation is likely to occur in America—but it COULD happen if we went on long enough producing too little and spending too much.

Achievement Day Of 4-H Slated

The annual 4-H Spring Achievement Day will be held May 21 and 22 at the Junior High School in Roseburg.

The junior exhibitors coming from all sections of Douglas County will display their cooking, sewing, woodworking, arts and crafts, forestry and knitting projects.

Judging of exhibits is to take place Friday afternoon and Saturday morning. A cooking and clothing judging contest, open to all members of home economics projects, starts at 1 p. m. Saturday, May 21. Following this any 4-H demonstration team will be given a chance to perform.

A 4-H style show with Mrs. Dorothea Boling, home demonstration agent, in charge, in which the girls will model garments they have made, will start at 3 p. m. Saturday.

Bus License for Large Family Draws Protest

ELLENDALE, N. D., May 19.—(P)—With 14 children in his family, John Bell of Ellendale installed a bus body on a truck chassis and called it a family passenger car.

The state motor registrar refused to license it as such. In a letter he asked Bell to put up $32 for a permit to use the vehicle on North Dakota highways, plus a regular bus license.

"A bus? heavens, when I get all my family into that car there isn't any room for commercial passengers," commented Bell. He says he will contest the requested $32 fee.

FOR COUNTY OFFICE

By CHARLES V. STANTON

Douglas County voters will have ample material from which to select officers for the various state and county jobs to be filled at this year's election. Each party has one candidate for senatorial nomination. The Republican ballot offers three candidates for state representative, while two aspirants seek the nod from Democratic voters. Two representatives will be nominated by each party. The Republicans have four candidates for county commissioner, the Democrats two. Republicans have three candidates for sheriff and the Democrats one. The Republican ballot offers no contest for the office of county clerk for which Roy Agee, incumbent, is the sole Democratic candidate. Oliver L. Johnson, treasurer; Harry C. Stearns, coroner, and Ben B. Irving, surveyor, seeking nomination on the Republican ballot, have no opposition within their party, and no candidates are listed on the Democratic ballot for those offices.

As the various candidates for county office have been permitted to make their own statements to voters in other columns of the News-Review, it is not necessary here to go into too much detail regarding them. A few facts, however, should be taken into consideration.

Thomas Parkinson, Roseburg, and T. L. Weaver, Canyonville, having no opposition within their respective parties for the senatorial nominations clash at the general election. Robert C. Gile, seeking the Republican nomination as representative, has served several previous terms in the state legislature, where he is one of the ranking and most influential members of the House. His re-election would assure Douglas County favorable chairmanships in the forthcoming session.

Paul E. Geddes, Republican candidate for representative, is one of Roseburg's successful young attorneys. He recently accepted the position of attorney for the City of Roseburg. His election to a legislative post would involve considerable personal sacrifice through loss of time from his busy law practice, but Geddes consented to become a candidate in order that he might be of service to the county. He has taken a prominent part in civic activities, has given freely of his services in community enterprise, is interested in wildlife, fishery and natural resource conservation, and is thoroughly familiar with the legislative needs of the county.

John M. Throne, also on the Republican ballot for representative, now a real estate and insurance dealer in Roseburg, formerly headed the Umpqua Valley State Bank which was closed during the bank holiday in 1932. He moved for a time to Salem where he was employed by the state in agricultural production service during the war years. As a long-time resident of the county he is well acquainted with its resources and needs.

With two to nominate, James M. McGinty and Christina Micelli, seeking the Democratic nomination for representative, have no competition. McGinty is a lawyer who moved into the Myrtle Creek area quite recently from Portland, taking an active part in civic affairs since becoming a Douglas County resident.

Mrs. Micelli has long been active in Democratic politics and has been a vigorous civic and club leader in Roseburg. Much interest is shown in the county commissioner contest. Some of this interest stems from dissatisfaction with the court's policy of holding county-owned timber for grouping with cooperative sustained yield units. In fact, as has been shown, the sustained yield controversy is in evidence in contests all the way from national to local offices.

Republican candidates include Percy Croft, Bill Evans, Guy McGee, and H. B. Roadman. Richard G. Baker and J. M. Morgan are the Democratic candidates.

Croft is one of Roseburg's most industrious municipal workers. He has long been a member of the City Council, is chairman of the city Park Commission and holds other very important posts. He was a member of the selective service board during the late World War.

Evans has been identified with the logging industry and did a particularly effective job in organizing the county's logging interests and reaching an understanding with the court in road improvements and management.

McGee is a farmer and orchardist residing near Canyonville and also operates a small sawmill and a fruit dehydrator. He has served with the Forest Service in road construction, improvement of recreational areas and cruising of timber. He was employed for 14 years as road foreman by Douglas County.

Roadman is the incumbent seeking re-election. He is credited with being largely responsible for the county's present timber management policy. Douglas County recently was presented by the Eugene Register Guard as having the best record of timber sales and forest management of any county in Oregon.

On the Democratic side, Richard Baker is a former automobile salesman who more recently served as deputy sheriff, resigning to enter the race for commissioner. He was one of the organizers of the Sheriff's Posse and is one of the joint chairmen of the annual rodeo.

Morgan is a surveyor, long-time resident of the county, and interested in timber operations.

A heated contest also marks the race for sheriff. O. T. Carter, incumbent, who has the record of two terms behind him, is being contested for the Republican nomination by Lloyd R. McClintock, chief of police and veteran peace officer at Myrtle Creek, and Billy Mohr, Roseburg service station operator. Al Smith, a former deputy sheriff, now residing at Reedsport, is the lone aspirant for the Democratic nomination.

Contract Awarded For State Office Building

SALEM, Ore., May 19.—(P)—State Board of Control yesterday awarded a $1,669,905 contract for construction of a new state office building to Sound Construction Co., Seattle.

The company was the lowest of five bidders. The contract for the five-story structure is $250,000 under the architect's estimate. The same company now is building a ward building and a nurses' home at the Oregon State Hospital.

The new building will be located across the street from the front of the State Capitol. It will be financed by borrowing from the state school fund and 3 per cent interest.

The money will be repaid to the fund in 30 years by departments using the building. Approximately 8,000 species, subspecies and varieties of ants are known to science.

Stassen Joins Paul Bunyans Of Roseburg

Harold E. Stassen, Republican presidential candidate on the Oregon Primary ballot, was named by Stassen into the Roseburg Paul Bunyans as the first "Chief Keeper of Paul Bunyan Scuttlebut of the United States" as bestowed upon him.

The initiation took place immediately following his radio address and question-answer forum in the armory Tuesday night. The Paul Bunyans, yielding axes and shouting "timber," raced down the center aisle and onto the stage.

Stassen, a member of the Paul Bunyans in his native Minnesota, was accused by the Roseburg group of "entering our domain without a proper permit" from his own club. An ax was placed at the back of his neck.

The distinguished guest was asked "confidentially" by Bull of the Woods Paul Keith what kind of snuff he preferred. He was offered a sample and then was given a drink of "blue ox" milk from a jug to "take the bad taste out of his mouth."

Blue Ox Speeds Tour After good-naturedly taking the initiation procedure, Stassen explained that for those who wondered how he could be in North Carolina one day, Minnesota the next and Oregon the next, he had been riding on Paul Bunyan's "blue ox."

At the termination of the ceremony, two huge Bunyans hoisted the equally large Mr. Stassen on their shoulders and carried him down the aisle, following the Pythian Girls Drum Corps, to the front door of the Armory. There he shook the hand of every well-wisher in the crowd, but he failed to carry out the statement by Bull of the Woods Keith that he would "kiss every baby up to the age of 28 years."

Keith explained that the Paul Bunyans was strictly a non-political organization and that the members were all "dyed in the wool Democrats."

Drizzle Fails To Impair Reception To Stassen Here

Republican Presidential Candidate Harold E. Stassen and his official party of 17, which included 13 newspaper men and photographers, arrived on schedule at 7 p. m. at the Umpqua Hotel Tuesday night. There were others on the special bus which came here from Grants Pass, but only the official party boarded Stassen's plane at the Roseburg airport today for the trip to Coos Bay and other points.

The distinguished visitor and his party went directly to their respective rooms in the Umpqua and Rose hotels. Stassen took the time until nearly 8 o'clock to rest, but came out into the awaiting throng at 8:30, looking refreshed and ready for the evening. He was greeted by the Pythians drum and bugle corps, which had been smartly executing a snappy drill up and down the street in front of the hotel.

Despite the light evening drizzle the girls wore their brief uniforms. Wearing a suit and hat, but no overcoat, Stassen, accompanied by Mayor Albert G. Fiegel, and Harry O. Parzetter, Republican central committeeman, reflected the car waiting in front of the hotel and in preference fell in behind the drum corps and marched the block and a half to the Armory, where a huge crowd, a large segment of it standing in the rear of the building, was waiting to hear the candidate. A loud speaker placed outside the building was without much value. Practically everyone who wished went inside the Armory, and because of the rain no one lingered outside.

Reception Held After his radio address, question and answer forum, initiation into the Paul Bunyans, and meeting the public at the Armory door, Stassen then adjourned with members of the Citizens for Stassen Club to the Hotel Umpqua banquet room, for an informal reception and opportunity for him to personally meet a large number of prominent Douglas County citizens.

The candidate left the party shortly after 10 p. m. to retire to his room and place a long distance call to New York. He had already delayed his call 20 minutes.

Mere Routine for Newsmen

As was the case with the recent visit of Governor Thomas E. Dewey, the correspondents and photographers were inconspicuous at the meeting and reception. They had seen, talked with and ridden with the candidate, heard his speeches, and had his evening's address in their pockets.

Downstairs in a room specially arranged for the correspondents to write their stories, a lone Western Union messenger sat patiently waiting for someone to come in and write a news story for him to dispatch. The correspondents sought out the only restaurant open at a late hour of the evening and dined on steak dinners.

ELECT John HALL Present Governor *Veteran *Experienced *Courageous The OREGON PRESS says: "His appointments to date have been outstanding men." "His record as governor to date has been good." "Governor Hall has made a good start as the State's chief executive during his short time in office." "...found the new Oregon executive, first of all, a very human sort of person...interested in the things in which they were interested, meeting them naturally, unaffectedly, understandingly." "He is a forceful speaker — one who is inclined to call a spade a spade... Those who have had personal contact with him believe he is a man's man." "Governor Hall meets an issue squarely." "Governor Hall made a good impression by his talk here." "Hall brings to the Governor's chair a broad knowledge of problems which are Oregon's...member of the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars, he faces problems for which, by training and experience, he is eminently qualified." "One of the ablest and most far-seeing men in our state legislative session." "...shows sound judgment in his appraisal of men." "His ample ability...is eminently qualified to carry on the administration of the state's affairs." "Governor John H. Hall will give Oregon a vigorous administration. He is alert, quick, decisive..." "He has tackled with courage and determination the important duties of the office of Governor." "Governor John H. Hall's activities...indicate a real desire to provide Oregon with an able administration." "The new governor comes well recommended as an able parliamentarian." "Governor Hall has made an excellent impression as successor to the late Earl Smith, conducting affairs with dignity and admirable decisiveness. Practically he had served regularly in the house and shown by ability to the speakership." "He's doing a GOOD Job"
