In the Day's News

day, when the law by constitutional processes becomes effective) everybody shall be rich and happy, the situation ought to be taken care of.

As a political proposition, it is as simple as that.

WHY should the Republicans complain when the President wants laws making everybody rich and happy?

Let's dig a little deeper.

Under our system, the President can't enact laws. He can only RECOMMEND them. The job of law-passing has to be done by Congress. When Congress passes a law to the general effect that everybody should be rich and happy, it is CONGRESS—NOT the President—that goes out on the limb.

It is Congress that has to find the money to make everybody rich and happy. If somebody's foot slips somewhere along the line and the proposed beautiful scheme fails to work (if, for example, it turns out later that all that happened is that the denominations on the bills we carry in our wallets are larger and that we really don't have any more to eat and wear and shelter ourselves with than we had before) it is Congress that takes the rap.

For it was Congress that PASSED THE LAW.

If the law doesn't work, the fault is the fault of Congress.

That is as plain as the nose on your face.

A blind man can see it.

SO, you see, when the President (belonging to one party) demands from the Congress (controlled by the OTHER party) a law making everybody rich and happy forthwith, with no delay and no monkey business, he really is taking no risks himself.

If the Congress passes the law and it doesn't work, whose is the blame? Why, the blame belongs to Congress, of course.

If the Congress DOESN'T pass the law demanded by the earnest and pious President, THEN who is the bad man who stole the cheese the people were going to eat?

It is the bad Congress, which wouldn't do what the good President wanted it to. In such a situation, Congress is whipsawed. People who find themselves whipsawed are apt to be irked.

HERE is a thought:

When the President belongs to one party and Congress is controlled by the other party, there is much temptation to play piddling politics of this transparent sort.

All in all, we're better off when the Congress and the President are of the same political faith. It is then more difficult to pass the buck.

Dewey, Stassen Expenses In Oregon May Be Secret

SALEM, Ore., May 27—(AP)—The question of how much it cost Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and Harold E. Stassen to campaign in Oregon's Republican presidential primary may not be made public.

David O'Hara, chief of the state elections bureau, said the two presidential aspirants apparently do not come under the state law requiring campaign expense statements since they did not seek state office. He added, however, that this might be open to question if taken to a court.

The campaign expenses became a late issue in the Oregon primary race, when Stassen charged that his opponent had spent $250,000 in the campaign. Gov. Dewey said this was a gross exaggeration and not true.

No matter what the vegetable, it will taste better the sooner it is cooked after being harvested. Half an hour may be sufficient to dull the flavor of those that are rich in sugar, which quickly begins to change to starch.

THE WATER IS COLD

The waters of Sulphur Springs, located in the extreme western part of Douglas County, are cold. In fact, to quote our informant, Louis Seymour, correctly, they are "damned cold."

This information is in response to queries by Lewis A. McArthur, Oregon historian, who is digging out data for the Oregon historical record as he seeks to catalogue every post office ever authorized within the state. He is nearing the bottom of the list for Douglas County, having established histories of 120 of the 134 stations listed by the postal department since Yoncalla, the first in the county, was established March 14, 1851.

But apparently the research has hit a few snags. Some data still must be obtained if the list is to be completed.

Recent communications have cleared up a few points on which Mr. McArthur seeks information, but we are hoping News-Review readers will respond with replies to the questions still unanswered.

One of the questions Mr. McArthur submitted to News-Review readers was whether the waters of Sulphur Springs are hot or cold. He has been furnished a most definite and emphatic answer to that one.

Fred Wright, our Reedsport correspondent, interviewed Mr. Seymour, one of the old residents of the Lower Umpqua, who clarified history of several of the stations in the western part of the county.

Mr. McArthur had asked about Norfolk, 1878-92, Mary E. Melvin postmaster. Seymour says the name originally was "Norfork," a contraction of North Fork, the post office having been located on the main river about 50 yards upstream from the mouth of the north tributary. Mrs. Melvin was the mother of Mrs. Seymour. The family residence was located on the North Fork of Smith River, about 100 yards upstream from the mouth.

Booth, 1934, Mrs. Clara P. Law postmaster, was named for the late R. A. Booth, Seymour believes. Mr. Booth was one of the partners of the Booth-Kelly Lumber Co., which had timber holdings in the area.

Carl Pound, Oakland, may have a lead on Alderbrook post office, which was operated by Charles D. Smith, 1855-59. Mr. McArthur had asked if anyone had heard of the office or the man.

Mr. Pound writes:

> Having read your request for information concerning old-time post offices in this vicinity, I noticed the question: where is, or was, Alderbrook and who was Charles D. Smith?
> I couldn't help wondering if in some way there might be a connection between that question and my grandfather, Charles D. Smith, who in the early days ran a post office here on our farm. In fact, the old building used for the post office is still here, although it should have fallen down years ago. The only catch that I can't seem to connect is that I don't ever recall grandfather calling it Alderbrook. I was under the impression that it was called Stevens after the Mr. Stevens who owned a good deal of property here then. I also notice Stevens is on some maps.

Perhaps Mr. Pound's recollections will jog the memory of someone who can remember whether there was any connection between the place known as Stevens and the post office called Alderbrook.

And one writer, who shall go unnamed, comments on the report by Mrs. Ollivant and I. B. Nichols of Brockway that the community of Civil Bend got its name through reverse English because it was so uncivil by adding:

> I wood santion this and wood Add that the attorney Georg M. Brown added this that Quite a bit of Liquer was yoused in that locality and kneeded sivolising to con form with the LAW abiding sitizins of the state of Oregon. I was a mear boy at the time of the name for I am onley 70 years past know days.

Historical research needs facts and information regardless of form and all is welcome.

Who can answer the following questions:

Alene, 1892, Julia C. Freemont postmaster, later in Lane County. Why named Alene?

Bentzen, 1897, H. R. Bentzen. Does anyone remember H. R. Bentzen and the location of his proposed post office?

Hogan, 1887, James S. McKinney. Now known as Melrose. Where did the name Hogan originate?

Ila, 1902-1905, John Johnson, later known as Stacey. What was the origin of the name?

Louis, 1888-96, David D. Huff. Later transferred to Elkhead. Why was it so named?

Who knows the origin of the name Peck, formerly used for the station now known as Nichols?

Rowes, 1890-92, John C. Moore. Transferred to Glendale. Where was the office and where did it get its name?

Willard, 1925, Isaac Lecelius and John D. Gilfillan, postmasters. Located in the west part of the county. What was the origin of the name?

Anyone who can answer any of the above questions please write the editor of the News-Review. All information will be forwarded to Mr. McArthur.

DAILY DEVOTIONAL

DR. CHARLES A. EDWARDS

"If ye then be risen with Christ seek those things which are above." La Tour de' Auvergue was called by Napoleon "the first Grenadier of France" at his death his heart was sealed in a Silver urn and now rests beneath the same roof with the mortal remains of Napoleon, Foch, and Joffre. He has received many honors, but none higher than that given by his old regiment the Forty-Sixth Grenadiers. At every parade of the colors his name is called and the oldest sergeant answers: "Died on the field of honor." For almost a hundred and fifty years this voice of the Forty-Sixth Grenadiers has been saying, "Died on the field of honor. But for nearly two thousand years another voice has been heard among men of all nations saying, "Why seek ye the living among the dead? He is not here, He is risen," He is not sealed in a tomb, He is alive forever more. The French have sealed the heart of the Grenadier in a silver vase; but no command can seal away the Christ of our faith. "If ye then be risen with Christ, seek those things which are above, where Christ sittith on the right hand of God." Amen.

Sobriety Issue Splits Federation of Women

PORTLAND, May 27—(AP)—A resolution advocating sobriety has become a lively issue at the General Federation of Women's Clubs Convention here.

Delegates to the world-wide assembly of club representatives will take up the subject again today in which the exact wording of the statement on policy may be settled.

A resolution before the delegates yesterday was sent back to committee for re-phrasing. The women split over the way it was worded.

When a Wyoming delegate proposed a plan to encourage sobriety, specifically among young people, another delegate protested the youngsters were "no worse than their elders."

Senate Group Votes For Gen. M'Arthur's Return

WASHINGTON, May 28—(AP)—The senate appropriations committee yesterday voted to request Gen. Douglas MacArthur to return to the United States to testify on the Far Eastern situation.

Chairman Bridges announced the committee's action. The vote was 17 to 2.

MacArthur is supreme commander of allied forces in the Far East with headquarters at Tokyo.

Senator Wherry (Neb.), acting Republican leader and a committee member, offered the motion to request MacArthur to return. Wherry said politics wasn't involved, so far as he is concerned.

MacArthur has said he would accept the Republican presidential nomination if it was offered him.

Most Valuable Stamp Collection Thieves' Loot

NEW YORK, May 27—(AP)—A band of burglars—crude at cracking a safe, but with an eye for value in collectors' postage stamps — has engineered the largest theft known in the trade.

Stamps valued between $70,000 and $80,000 were stolen last weekend from the New York Stamp Company, police disclosed yesterday.

Peter G. Keller, executive officer of the American Stamp Dealers Association, a protective trade group, said it was the largest theft of collectors' stamps he could recall.

Embargo on Arms Shipment To Palestine May be Lifted; U. S. Loan to Israel Proposed

WASHINGTON, May 28.—(AP)—The question of lifting the embargo on arms shipments to Palestine is under consideration by the United Nations, President Truman said yesterday.

The President said a request from the new state of Israel for a loan of from $90,000,000 to $100,000,000 will be considered through the usual channels.

Dr. Chaim Weizmann, president of the provisional Israeli government, he said, did not go into details when he suggested during a White House call the other day that Israel would like to have a loan.

The president, under questioning at his weekly news conference, said he saw no parallel between what the reporters said were British shipments of arms to Arabs and requests of the Jews for similar shipments from the United States.

The question of lifting the arms embargo, he said, is under consideration by the United Nations and the United States is a member of the United Nations.

Mr. Truman would not comment when asked whether he would say anything about differences between the United States and Great Britain on Palestine.

Would Welcome M'Arthur

President Truman also said he will be very happy to have Gen. Douglas MacArthur return home to tell congress about the Far Eastern situation.

Mr. Truman made the statement a few hours after the senate appropriations committee voted 17 to 2 to invite MacArthur home to appear before the committee.

The president said he has invited the general at least twice to return to Washington—to receive a congressional medal at the White House and to visit his people in the United States.

Once, he said, was the time MacArthur received the Japanese surrender at Tokyo. The other occasion was about a year later.

Each time, Mr. Truman said, the general thought the situation in Japan required his presence there. He said that the general is on the spot in Japan where he knows the situation best. He said it is entirely up to the general whether to come back.

Note TO MY BOSS:

Just another reminder about those desks at Phillips. They have just arrived and are out of this world, but you had better hurry as they only received seventeen. These all metal desks have the new "easy on the eye" grey linoleum top. I like the new Fold-away typewriter shelf and you can buy the chairs to match! The shipment includes executive and stenographer desks which would fill our bill.
