Can the South Stop Truman?

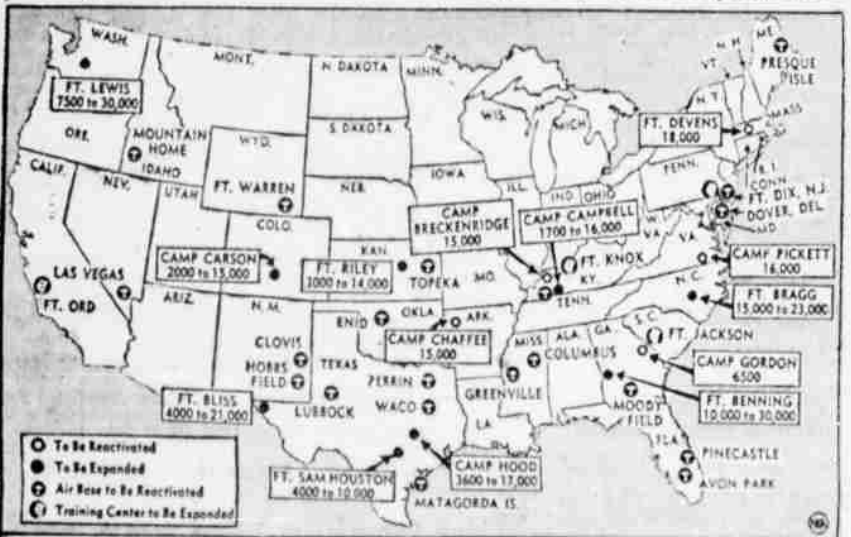

The 12 states usually considered the "Solid South," plus the four "borderline" states, have 412 votes in the Democratic National Convention at Philadelphia. Even if they all vote together against President Truman's nomination, the rest of the nation could put Truman across. With 613 votes needed to win, the 822 votes outside the 16 Southern states would be more than enough to insure the nomination.

Of the 20 reopened air bases, one is a bombing and gunnery base on Matagorda Island, Tex. Present plans call for the Army to increase from 543,000 to 790,000 by July 1, 1949, and the Air Force from 382,000 to 440,000.
