

Freedom Can be Suppressed but Not Desire for it, Moscow Discovers

By DeWITT MacKENZIE

AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The totalitarian Communist regime in Moscow finally is encountering in an impressive way the age-old truth that you can suppress freedom by force but you can't suppress the desire for freedom.

The desire for liberty which currently is manifesting itself among the Russian satellite states of Eastern Europe is merely history repeating itself in a new setting, just as it has done time and again through the centuries.

There is no country in which the love of freedom runs more strongly than in Czechoslovakia. And there could be no more striking demonstration of this than was given quietly but daringly during the parade of 80,000 people through the ancient city of Prague in connection with the Sokol Congress.

The marchers cheered for former President Benes, who was their leader before Bolshevism took over, but they had no salute for his Communist successor, Klement Gottwald. Many tiny American flags appeared among the paraders and drew applause. Spirit of Liberty Rules.

The Sokol long has stood as a symbol of independence in Eastern Europe. It is a cultural and physical training organization with units in numerous countries. Periodically there are Congress meetings, such as just held in Prague, at which as many as 12,000 gymnasts appear on a field at one time and give amazing demonstrations of athletic prowess in absolute unison.

Having attended a Sokol in Prague myself, I venture to say that few could come away from one of these exhibitions without a feeling of having communed with the spirit of liberty. That is the spirit which now is showing itself not only in Czechoslovakia but in Finland, Yugoslavia and other shackled states.

Probably this development is no surprise to the Red regime. How could it be in view of the fact that the Russians themselves revolted time and again against the serfdom imposed by a totalitarian Czarist rule? Still, it remains a curious trait of human nature that the Communists should be applying these self-same totalitarian methods to their own regime. Maybe they have figured that they could refine the system so that it would work.

How will Moscow meet this disaffection? It is difficult to see how the Bolsheviks can do otherwise than continue their policy of force. Certainly sweet reasoning won't turn the trick at this stage. There are rumors of Russian troop movements in Eastern Europe, but Moscow has given no indication of its plans.

Camp White Operation By End of 1948 Hoped For

PORTLAND, July 8.—The Veterans Administration hopes to have Camp White operating as a domiciliary home for veterans by the end of this year.

Carl R. Gray Jr., VA chief, said here yesterday on a tour of the nation that his office has tentatively set that date for establishment of the facility.

Gray reported the shortage of physicians to staff the VA hospital is slowly easing, but he said the agency is still short of psychiatrists.

Death Strikes Famous Cellist at Concert

OAKLAND, Calif., July 8.—(AP)—Robert Maas, 47, distinguished Belgian cellist, was fatally stricken with a heart illness last night at a concert at Mills College.

With him was his wife, Julia. He leaves two daughters in Belgium.

Maas organized the Paganini String Quartet, with which he was playing two years ago. He had been ailing since his years of hard living during the German occupation of Belgium.

Group is Named For Work Week For Handicapped

George T. Foster, Oregon State Employment Service office manager, announced today that a committee had been appointed locally for the National Employment Service for the Physically Handicapped Week, October 3 to 9.

Serving on the committee will be: C. E. Hoover, Veterans of Foreign Wars; Erwin Short, American Legion; Arthur Newell, Disabled American Veterans; Robert Phillips, Rotary Club; William Livermore, Lions Club; J. E. Clarke, Masonic Lodge; C. O. Permin, Knights of Pythias; Randall Hockett, Eagles Lodge; Clifford Field, Veterans Administration; Walter Dage, A. F. of L.; Leonard G. McIntyre, CIO; Pat Gregory, Oregon State Employment Association and George Smith, public representative.

The committee is scheduled to meet early next week to elect a chairman and to work out a program for employment of the physically handicapped, Foster said.

The national week, was proclaimed by the President in 1945. A state inter-agency committee has been formed, and the local committee is a part of the statewide effort, explained Foster. The committee is reactivated each year.

SHEER TRAVEL MAGIC

THIS is the Buick America's car buyers are buzzing about. This is the one with travel magic flowing all through it.

This is the ROADMASTER with Dynaflo Drive*—where Main Street's dense traffic, the inviting open road and the long, stretching hills are bossed with equal ease by a toe-touch.

Here you let your left foot idle comfortably wherever you wish—there's no clutch pedal to push, erer.

Here your mind's free completely of remembering when to shift—no gears ever shift anywhere in the car.

Here, you glide over ground and grades in swift and utter smoothness as constant and unbroken as Niagara's flow.

For here you have the only passenger car in America where liquid replaces both the usual clutch and the low-second-high gear sequence of conventional transmissions.

Here you sit in blissful ease while the power plant itself meets and masters the thousand and one situations that come up in travel.

Gentle grades, steep hills, long straightaways, stop streets—once your lever's set, you simply step on the gas—and take them all in liquid-smooth luxury!

Does all this sound fabulous? It is.

So fabulous that folks are signing up in droves for the '48 fashion plate with this new-wonder drive.

So to take command of this traveler-touched-with-magic, come see us quickly and get your order in.

We'll take it in sequence whether or not you have a car to trade.

What's Different About DYNAFLOW DRIVE?

To an efficient new pump (left above), Buick engineers have added a true turbine (right) and an ingenious new supercharger assembly (in hand) which produce a torque-accelerating action in starting and accelerating. The result is the first device on any American passenger car which employs liquid to fill the function of both the clutch and the usual low, second and high gears. The clutch pedal is eliminated and a simple control gives you manual selection of power ranges and direction.
