Sain Blanks Cleveland, 1-0, to Win Series Opener

Braves' crafty manager, sent Phil Masi in to run for him.

Mick McCormick shoved Masi along with a neat sacrifice bunt. Then manager Lou Boudreau's strategy called for an intentional walk to Eddie Stanky, just back in the lineup after a 60-day lay-off due to an ankle injury.

After Stanky drew the pass, Southworth sent in Sibby Sisti, who had replaced him while he was sidelined, as a pinch runner.

Holmes then delivered the game-winning blow, hard smash past third base into left and Masi flew home with the big run.

It was a real heartbreaker for Feller who had a no-hitter going into the fifth inning. Even in the eighth, until Holmes, a 325 hitter, smashed his outside pitch to left, he had a one-hitter riding along.

Indians Threaten In 9th

Even after Holmes' hit, scoring Masi, there was trouble ahead for Sain. He got two out in the ninth. Then to the dismay of the 40,135 chilled fans who paid $180,122.22, Bob Elliott threw Ken Keltner's bouncer high over Earl Torgeson's head for a two-base error.

Instead of being disturbed by the wild heave, Sain calmly went to work on Walt Judnich to make him his sixth strikeout victim. He didn't walk a batter.

These two ace righthanders, perhaps the best in baseball, hooked up in a magnificent duel for the first seven scoreless innings.

Sain's Curve Baffling

Mary Rickert, an obscure outfielder from Milwaukee who came up to sub for the injured Jeff Heath, broke Feller's no-hitter in the fifth with a single to right. The only other hit off Robert's delivery was Holmes' game-winner.

On the other hand, the Indians had been picking away at Sain with a single by Ken Keltner in the second, another by Joe Gordon in the fourth, one by Jim Hegan in the fifth and another by Larry Doby leading off the sixth.

After that Sain was superb, retiring 11 men in a row until Elliott made his error in the ninth. His curve was snapping off and the Indians were merely hitting pop flies.

That was Sain's pattern all the Berlin blockade, a British official reported.

Their informal meeting was also to decide whether the West's end-of-blockade resolution would be a joint one in the name of the United States, Britain and France, or separate ones, the sources said.

The general expectation was that the call would be a three-power affair.

The three powers in turn charged before the Security Council that Russia is endangering world peace by blocking Berlin.

Kawakita Sentenced To Death for Treason

your honor for mercy."

Judge Mathes said the sentence was not based on the brutalities with which Kawakita was charged.

"His crime," the jurist explained, "is that he said from 1943 on he did everything he could to help Japan win the war."

Kawakita, born in Calexico, Calif., returned here from Japan and was spotted in a department store by an ex-GI who had been imprisoned at Oeyama.

The trial of Kawakita is the 33th treason action against civilians on record in the United States.

There have been many death sentences, but none has ended in execution. All defendants were saved by appeal or commutation.

Some of the cases, such as those arising from the early whiskey rebellion, involved numerous defendants.

Decent Labor Statute Promised by Truman day's opening of the Mine Workers Biennial Convention in Cincinnati.

The president's comment came as he started on a three-day eastern campaign swing that will carry him into the home state of his Republican presidential rival, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York.

Secy. Marshall Summoned

Mr. Truman had planned to make it a four day tour but cut it short after summoning Secretary of State Marshall back from Paris to report on the international situation.

The White House announcement late yesterday that Mr. Truman had directed Marshall to return from the United Nations sessions on Saturday followed a conference Gov. Thomas E. Dewey held in Albany with John Foster Dulles, a member of the American Delegation to the U. N. meeting and the Republican presidential nominee's chief foreign policy adviser.

White House Press Secretary Ross said "no particular crisis" dictated the president's summons to Marshall—"he just wishes an oral report on everything that has been going on."

George Harrison, president of the AFL Brotherhood of Railway Clerks and head of Labor's Committee for Truman and Barkley, is accompanying the president on his eastward swing into territory where labor unions, have large memberships.
