

Kiwanians Choose District Officers

VICTORIA, B. C., Oct. 6 (AP)—John J. Langenbach, Raymond, Wash., attorney, was yesterday elected governor of the Pacific Northwest District of Kiwanis Clubs. He will succeed Ben H. Hazen of Portland as district governor.

Lieutenant governors elected included: Dean Nichols, Everett, Wash., division two; Henry Willis, Tacoma, division 3; Fred Beckwith, Shelton, Wash., division 4; Neal McClure, Colville, Wash., division 5; Roy Dyer, Spokane Valley, Wash., division 7; Warren Sheppard, Coeur d'Alene, Idaho; C. F. Anderson, Pullman, Wash., division 9; Frank Maupin, Kennewick, Wash., division 10; Verne De Villis, Longview, Wash., division 11; Jesse J. Kimm, Vancouver, Wash., division 12; Roy Mangus, Canby, Ore., division 13; T. H. Tomlinson, Salem, division 14; and Allan Wheeler, Eugene, division 15.

The Kiwanians at the concluding session of their convention were invited to hold their 1949 convention in Portland, Ore.

The invitation was extended on behalf of the Portland Kiwanis club by Dr. Don Hall, club president.

Delegates at the session voiced their approval of going to Portland for next year's convention but will have to await an official ruling by the district's board of trustees before the matter is settled.

U. S. to Widen Alaskan War on Wolves, Coyotes
WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Alaskan wolf can expect trouble this winter keeping the man away from the door.

The government's Fish and Wildlife Service says it plans to send 10 wolf-hunters into the northern territory to reinforce the single full-time hunter it has there now.

Besides increased supplies of guns and traps, the agency will use 26 small airplanes in the fight against both wolves and coyotes, which have been threatening Alaskan game animals.

Portland Zoo Has Mystery Animal

PORTLAND, Oct. 6 (AP) — The city zoo's newest inhabitant is a bit of a mystery.

A dog-like animal, it may be a cross between a dog and a coyote, says Dorr Green, Division Chief of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, who was here yesterday.

Harold W. Dobyns, acting district agent for the service, says it exhibits characteristics of both the red fox and the coyote but there is no record of such a cross.

The animal came to the zoo from C. E. Mullins, hunter employed by the service, who trapped it in Yamhill County.

A news photographer said it looked to him like a friendly Shepherd dog until he got close — then it turned into a snarling beast.

It was the latest prize trapped by Mullins who also got recently an old coyote near Sixes in Curry County charged by ranchers with killing more than 300 sheep in the past three years. It weighed 45 pounds—20 above average.

To save frosting a butter cake, sprinkle the batter with finely chopped filberts before baking; do not use on sponge-type cakes since the batter is not heavy enough to hold the nuts and they will sink to the bottom.
