

VA Strict On Permits to Vets For Air Training

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—(AP)—The Veterans Administration says

it is following the law in requiring ample "justifications" before approving flying courses for Oregon war veterans.

B. F. Ruffner, chairman of the Oregon State Board of Aeronautics, complained recently to Senator Guy Cordon that the agency was disregarding the law.

Cordon sent the complaint to the Veterans Administration and made public its answer today.

Ruffner said that under the law aviation courses which are taken in connection with intended business or occupation shall not be considered avocational or recreational. The VA does not approve avocational or recreational courses.

Ruffner said the VA in Oregon has refused to approve flight courses for engineering and forestry school students.

He contended that engineers use airplanes in their work, as do persons engaged in forestry and agriculture.

In fact, he said, 37 percent of the privately owned airplanes in Oregon belong to farmers.

The flight courses have been approved by the State Board of Education, Ruffner said, and have been included in courses of colleges as carrying elective credit applicable toward graduation.

He wrote that the use of airplanes in forestry, engineering and agriculture is "well known apparently to everyone but VA officials."

The VA replied that it intended to handle each Oregon application on its merits to determine if the justifications are sufficient.

"However, flight courses which are required by the institution as part of the institution's standard credit-hour requirements for the veteran's degree objective will not require justification," it told Cordon.

Cordon also received protests from veterans at Medford, Ore., and the Chamber of Commerce at Astoria against the VA's refusal to approve flight courses.

KRNR DIAL-LOG

Plenty of good listening on KRNR tonight—but we can't repeat too often on this: At 7 tonight, drop in on "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" on "Great Scenes from Great Plays." Basil Rathbone and Beatrice Straight take the starring roles in tonight's presentation.

Tomorrow night at 7 on "Meet the Press," Governor-Nominee Herman Talmadge, of Georgia, will hold a press conference of the air when he is the guest-of-the-week for KRNR-Mutual Don Lee's headline-making program. Candidate Talmadge will broadcast from Atlanta, Georgia, while his four interviewers will be in Washington, D. C. A special two-way telephone set-up has been arranged for this interview. (Take-off on KRNR's own Party Line, no doubt.)

Direct from Berkeley, California, tomorrow—it's CALIFORNIA VS. OREGON STATE—starting at 1:15 p.m. Yep, the old pig-skin'll fly for approximately 2½ hours during another thrilling "Associated" football game. Don't have to tell you to listen.

Flash: North Umpqua River missing. Police searching for someone with a very large sponge. Typical of State & Local News aired on KRNR Monday through Saturday at 6:25 p.m.

Let's look ahead now to Sunday's listening—At 1 p.m., the ghost of a Nazi captain stalks a tiny island off the coast of Holland, terrorizing the inhabitants in general, and the late captain's nephew in particular, during the "House of Mystery" broadcast of the eerie "Curse of the Abenda." At 2:30 p.m. Dashiell Hammett's detective creation, "The Fat Man," as radio-played by J. Scott Smart, will be guest sleuth-of-the-week during the whodunit question category for the "Quick as a Flash" broadcast this Sunday.

This ought to hold you for awhile—until tomorrow at least—when we return with "Dial Log."
