with Corinne

The weather's gettin' colder all the time, it seems. November is almost here, with sparkling days and frosty nights. Soon the Christmas rush will begin, finding that heavenly "Peace on Earth" feeling that comes from giving and receiving in glad, full measure.

Personalize your Christmas gifts this year, by having them monogrammed. THE LESTER'S SHOP will monogram your Christmas cards, playing cards, or leather goods. Of leather belts, blifolds, key cases, cigarette cases, fitted or unfitted traveling cases, and leather-bound guest or address books, they have an excellent selection, too. So buy the gift and have it monogrammed on the spot, at The Lester's Shop.

Jem Braid rugs are new at JOSSE'S, this week. For Colonial maple settings, these sturdy-made braided rugs are available with red, blue, green, brown, or black borders. In sizes to suit any purpose, from 32-inch scatterers to 6x9 ft. room-sizes, they are the finishing touch for your Early American scheme.

Add a few whole cloves to stewed prunes. Just before removing them from the heat. It peps up their otherwise flat taste.

EXCEL DRESS SHOPPE has a new shipment of formal blouses. In dressy satins and crepes, with jeweled necklines and longish sleeves. These come in tan, rose, grey, white, and black. Cap-sleeve styles with beaded work in a Sunburst design are in black, brown, cocoa, and a luscious Seafoam Green. In similar styles, there are figured prints and an interesting boucle fabric of cocoa or pastel yellow. Excel also has tailored cotton or rayon blouses, in all colors. You can't go wrong on quality or price, if you buy at Excel Dress Shoppe.

Can't get to sleep at night? Try reading yourself to sleep. It's a grand way to relax, and you learn a lot that way! You can go around to the BEEHIVE—it's open till 10 p. m.—and get the latest fiction or non-fiction book on the market. Here are some of the intriguing titles: "The Big Fisherman," by Lloyd C. Douglas; "The Plague and I," by Betty McDonald; "Malabar Farm," by Louis Bromfield; "How To Tie Flies," by E. C. Gregg; the Sunset "Flower Arrangement Book," by Nell True Welch; and "Northwest Corner—Oregon and Washington: The Last Frontier," a travel book lavishly illustrated with photographs by Henry Sheldon with commentary written by Stewart Holbrook.

Smith and Wesson K-22 pistols are in again, at J. V. SPORTING GOODS STORE. They are a fast-selling item, so hurry right in for yours. And if we don't just whisper that Chicago Roller Skating Shoes have arrived, you might mob the place. These are the white skating shoes, you know, that have the built-in ankle braces and hard white maple rollers. Either men's or women's styles are available.

Valuing your own welfare above the welfare of others is being without morality.

Here are those economical Shaeffer Threesomes, at ASH-CRAFT'S which include the regular pen, ballpoint pen, and pencil. Take your choice of solid color cases in blue, brown, or black, or gold-tipped "Crest" and silver-tipped "Sentinel" sets. In the Lifetime pens, Ensembles and Threesomes are on order, too, in the very inexpensive Fineline pens. What college lad or lassie wouldn't appreciate a Shaeffer pen and all-purpose ballpoint pen for Christmas?

The CLOVER EXCHANGE has beautiful hand-knitted woolen gloves in solid red or navy, and white with a red check—just what you need to keep your hands warm while you wait for the bus these frosty mornings. And for real comfort indoors, you couldn't beat this brown and turquoise shoulder-cape (you can have it made to order in any color combination you desire). Children's sweaters will be made to order, too, in sizes to four years. Other cold-weather items include a boy's knitted helmet and mittens, size 4, in light brown shade; and a girl's Kelly Green wool flannel jacket, size 6, with colorful felt flowers sewn on with studs. Remember, you can shop at the Clover Exchange all day on Monday, Wednesday, or Friday, and evenings and Saturdays by appointment. Call 444-J-4, and Mrs. Scott will be happy to arrange a convenient time with you.

Money Lost Years Ago Found at Church Sale

ABERDEEN, Wash., Oct. 29.—(AP)—Forty dollars in crisp bills, lost by an Aberdeen woman four or five years ago, was found this week at a church rummage sale.

The sale was at St. Andrew's Episcopal Church. A customer browsing through books, found the money. Checking back in the flyleaf, she found the name of Mrs. M. K. West, who coincidentally was attending the sale.

Mrs. West said she had looked high and low for the money after mislaying it several years ago. She gave the finder a $5 reward.
