

Canyonville School Budget Explained By Head of Board

An explanation of items appearing in the School District No. 8 budget to be voted on Wednesday, Jan. 26, at Canyonville, was offered by the district board there today. James L. Zumwalt, chairman, said the explanation would serve as an "answer" to criticism of the budget in a recent Canyonville publication.

All items of operational cost in the budget, down to those for capital outlay, are paid for by the Douglas County Rural School Board, Zumwalt said. The millage levied for taxes represents the average levy of all districts in the county.

The rural board advocates that a music teacher be hired when one can be found and worked into the general teaching schedule. Such a teacher could teach other subjects besides music, where qualified, or an exchange may be worked with a neighboring district, Zumwalt said.

When this budget had been made up, the committee had not received the estimate of its share of the basic school fund from the County Rural School Board. "We estimated we would receive $12,250 and have since received information that we will receive $19,107.40," Zumwalt explained.

"This reduces the tax levy from $75,578 to $68,721, which is only $4,631.19 more than the budget levy for the fiscal year 1947-48," he added.

"It is necessary that the school have an assistant principal to take charge of the school when the principal is absent. As the schools are small, it is not considered necessary to hire two separate principals for the elementary and high schools."

Additional Site Needed

"Even if a union district is formed, a separate school will not be established during the next school year," Zumwalt said. "The budget allows money for a school site, which is necessary for the district to purchase. In the event that a union district is not formed, the Canyonville district will still need a site for additional school facilities."

"If a union district is formed, our district may sell the site to the union district."

"The question of purchasing the Bill Stock place has been raised at various times. The

"TOO Pretty"—That was the reason given by Associate City Counselor Roy A. Fish when he asked dismissal of careless driving charges against 23-year-old Jean H. Klein, St. Louis dress designer. Besides, he said, witnesses were lacking. The judge dismissed the case. The city charged Miss Klein's car ramed a fire plug at a street intersection. She claimed the car skidded on wet pavement. school board has been informed by Mrs. Stock that the place is not for sale under any consideration," the Canyonville board chairman stated.

Criticism of the budget at Canyonville this week, Zumwalt said, was made by Lawrence J. Boyle, former principal, and Mrs. Viola Anderson, former school director. Zumwalt declared that the criticism was not justified.

Boyle recently entered a suit in Circuit Court to recover $4,200 allegedly due on a year's contract he had signed with the district to serve as principal for the current school year. He charged, in his complaint, that he entered upon his duties as principal July

1 and was dismissed "without cause" July 19.)
"We now have a standard school and have complied with every request of the State Board of Education in order to remain standard," Zumwalt declared. "We have done our part to have a good school and we are confident that the people will support our program and approve our budget by voting 'yes' on Jan. 26."
