Baskets of chrysanthemums and poinsettias provided the church decorations.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white satin gown with nylon marquisette overskirt with inserts of lace. Her full length train was lace edged and her nylon yoke was outlined with seed pearls. Her fingertip veil fell from a white Stuart headpiece. She carried a white prayer book with a white orchid and streamers of bouvardia.

Miss Shirley Polk, sister of the bride, was maid of honor in an aqua blue brocaded satin gown fashioned with a low cut neckline and a full skirt. She wore matching gloves and carried a bouquet of gold chrysanthemums tied with gold satin ribbon.

Bridesmaids were the Misses Frankie Dean, Delores Robinson, Sue Hawley, and Lorraine Filliger, sister of the bridegroom, all in gold gowns patterned like the maid-of-honor's. All wore matching gloves and carried bouquets of bronze chrysanthemums tied with bronze satin ribbons.

About 250 guests attended the wedding and reception which followed at the home of the bridegroom's parents.

Decorations included the Christmas tree in the living room with a nativity scene lighted by blue colored lights on the mantel, and lighted candles about the rooms. The dining room fireplace mantel was lighted with three candles set in white flower pots surrounded by Christmas greens.

The fireplace was flanked with two large baskets of white chrysanthemums.
