Eight Years of Clothing Rationing in Britain Ends

LONDON, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Britain ended eight years of clothing rationing today.

Effective now, any Briton with the money can go into any store and buy a suit of clothes, his wife a dress. And for the first time since Jan. 1, 1940, he won't have to give 26 clothing coupons for the suit, 18 for his wife's dress.

African, Asian Areas Offered In Plan to Help Backward Countries

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press Foreign Affairs Analyst
Imaginations have been stirred on both sides of the Atlantic by President Truman's project of raising living standards in backward countries and so promoting political improvements.

The enthusiasm with which Britain has seized on the idea speaks success. Already the vast British areas of Africa and Asia have been offered for this historic experiment. Other nations may be expected to join. Meantime in Washington no time is being lost in devising means to implement the proposal. The chief executive has asked Secretary of State Acheson to work out preliminary plans.

So the idea has had an auspicious launching. Indeed, there is some fear it has been too auspicious in that it may encourage exaggerated hopes.

It's true that the potentialities seem almost limitless. However, one thing the world must get clearly in mind.

This is a long term project. It isn't a matter of months but of years—many years if it is carried to a logical conclusion. Would Attract Capital Here it should be repeated that Mr. Truman's project contemplates attracting the investment of very great reservoirs of private capital which are said to be available. It is believed this capital can be brought into use if foreign nations create conditions under which the investors can employ their money "fairly."

The possibilities in Africa are immense, but much expensive spade-work is necessary. Among other things great stretches of railroads must be built, and England has neither the money nor the equipment. This is pointed to as one example where private capital, presumably safeguarded by governments, would fit into the picture.

The Indian peninsula, housing the big dominions of India and Pakistan, is another area which is in pressing need of development. The majority of its population of some 400,000,000 is heavily underprivileged. Naturally the evil eye of Communism is fastened on this strategic area.

Here again the industrial and agricultural potentialities are far reaching.

So the story goes around the globe. As previously remarked, the first step is to make an exact survey of possibilities.

Big Jim Ain't Going to Sell Out To 'Got Rocks,' Alabama Governor Vows

By HAL BOYLE

MONTGOMERY, Ala.—(AP)—A boisterous, gusty giant of the earth has set this cradle of the Confederacy rocking. Two years after they put him into the governor's chair on a tidal wave of votes, Alabama folks still don't know what to make of Big Jim Folsom.

Some think he is a dangerous demagogue. Some dismiss him as an overgrown county clown on a political spree, whose antics jolt the fame of fair Alabama. Others regard him as a kind of Twentieth-Century Andy Jackson, raised up by the people to save them from the "Got Rocks" — the financial masters.

As of now, Big Jim perhaps doesn't quite fit any of these pigeon-holes. But any comparison with Andrew Jackson flatters him tremendously.

"My hero is Andy Jackson—past present and future," he said. "And I believe like he did. Andy said 'to the victor belong the spoils.' What he meant by that was to the people belong the victory."

"If he had just meant that the victor grabbed the spoils, Andy would have sold out himself to the 'Got Rocks.' Well, he didn't sell out. And Big Jim ain't going to either."

The 6-foot-8-inch, 265-pound governor is the most lauded at, talked about man in the South today.

"What'd you think of him?" people here ask when you say you've met him. And they laugh as they ask—that is, the educated people do. What they mean is: "Isn't he about the crudest thing you ever saw in a governor's chair?"

Well, he probably is. He knows he isn't going to hold the common man's vote down here by developing a Harvard accent.

Even those who have a strong distaste for Folsom find it hard to dislike him personally. He is as hearty, friendly, and winning as an overgrown puppy. But he's a pretty wise old dog politically at 48. He has 12 demagogues' worth of stirring up the people. He won office by going around the countryside with a cornshuck mop and a pall of suds promising to clean up "the scheming mills in the State Capitol."

He financed his campaign by passing the suds bucket for the people's hair and he got them. He also got more votes than any governor in Alabama's history.

Big Jim has avoided one tactic sometimes employed by Southern

Mother Escapes Her Fiery Home, Bears 8th Child

By HAL BOYLE

TROY, Pa., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Nine-year-old Laverne Finnelly raced into a flame-swept farmhouse and pushed three brothers to safety through a first floor window. But he couldn't reach another brother and sister who died in the blaze.

Nine children and three adults were asleep in the two-story house at nearby Columbia Cross Roads when fire of an unknown origin broke out before dawn Sunday.

Gordon Finnelly, Laverne's uncle, was awakened by the smoke. He roused his wife, Snatching her 10-month-old daughter in her arms, Mrs. Finnelly ran barefoot downstairs through a wall of fire. The baby was unscathed but Mrs. Finnelly was singed all over her body.

Her husband, holding a 4-year-old daughter, tried to follow her. The stairs collapsed. Then he ran to a window. The flooring gave way beneath him and he and his daughter leaped to safety.

Downstairs, George Finnelly awoke and hustled Laverne—one of his seven children at the house—out the front door. But Laverne heard his brother and sisters screaming for help.

He ran back into the fiery house and pushed Gordon, 3; Parker, 7; and Marshall, 8, out through a window. His aunt returned to help Laverne's 5-year-old sister, Janet, to safety.

Neither of them could reach Larry, 1, and Eleanor, 4. Their bodies were recovered hours later.

Meanwhile Laverne's mother was sleeping at the Troy Hospital. She had just given birth to her eighth child.

Recluse Leaves $500,000; 2nd Cousin Nearest Kin

SAN GABRIEL, Calif., Feb. 1.—(AP)—If Mrs. David L. Scott inherits $500,000 from an elderly woman recluse in Akron, O., she will apparently take it right in stride.

"I suppose we'll do something about claiming it," she said, but she'll leave that to her son, John W. Scott of Vista, Calif., with whom she lives.

Mrs. Scott, visiting relatives here, said she is a second cousin of Miss Frances Louise Butler, 80, who died in Akron Tuesday and in whose hotel room the fortune in stocks, bonds, gems and bank assets was found. She left no will.

Blend's MY Friend Too!

"When my sisters and I were in our teens—mother taught us to bake. She said: 'Always use Fisher's Blend Flour!' Then when she told us how good our cakes were, she said it was the flour and not our good baking. This made us angry, but we didn't forget what she said. Fisher's Blend is always in my cupboard and my husband just loves my baking. Thank heaven...and thanks to Fisher's Blend!"

TRUE LOVE TARTS

Valentine Treat—an exclusive Fisher's Sea Level recipe.

2 1/2 cups Fisher's Blend flour
1 tsp. double-acting Baking Powder
1/2 tsp. Salt
1/2 tsp. Cinnamon
1/2 tsp. Nutmeg
1/2 cup Sugar
1/2 cup Shortening
4 tblsp. Milk
2 Egg Yolks
1 tsp. Vanilla

Sift and measure flour. Resift with baking powder, salt, cinnamon and nutmeg. Heat shortening with milk. Add sugar and beat. Add egg yolks and blend well. Add flour mixture. Blend well.

Add remaining flour, mixing until smooth. Form into ball. Wrap in waxed paper. Chill till firm enough to roll. Roll out only enough to cut 4 tartlets at a time, keeping remainder of dough in refrigerator. Roll 3/8-inch thick on lightly floured board. Cut into hearts. (Use cookie cutter or paper pattern and knife.) Then cut heart-shaped opening in center of half the hearts. Top each plain heart with red jelly (cranberry, raspberry, cherry). Cover with second heart (with heart-shaped hole for jelly to show through). Lift with spatula onto greased baking sheet. Bake at 400° 8 minutes. Serve.
