I SAW . . . By Paul Jenkins

I saw Donna, beautiful three-year-old Quarter Horse mare owned by Al Bashford, at the Bashford stables in Garden Valley, complacently wearing one of the rosette ribbons she won at the big meet of the Northwest Quarter Horse Association in Pendleton May 12-15, inclusive. Donna won first place in the Hackamore Reining class and third in the Three-Year-old Mares' Halter class. She was trained by Ed McFarland, trainer for L. R. Andrus at Dillard.

At the Pendleton meet 250 Quarter horses were entered by owners coming from seven western states. W. H. "Doc" Carter of Roseburg was head judge of the meet, and Al Bashford was one of the assisting judges. "Last time I'll ever help judge a meet," Al told me, "without cameras to prove the finish. They're too close!"

STREETS TO BE OILED

Sutherland Council Also Studies Parking Meters; Buys New Police Car

By MRS. BRITAIN SLACK (News-Review Correspondent)

At the Monday night council meeting, the Sutherland Common Council voted to oil six miles of streets, the cost being about $4,500. The Roseburg Fuel Company will do the work.

The six miles approved for oiling will include an estimated three miles of the width of 16 feet, the balance to be 12 feet and 6 feet. City Water Superintendent Dale Rose will have charge of the work and will designate the width and length of the various streets to be oiled. The city grader will be used first, to get the streets in good condition for oiling.

Ed Murnen and Lyle Smith were appointed as new City Park Committee members. It was decided to buy a new police car and trade the present one in on a new Ford.

A long discussion was held on whether to install parking meters on Central Ave. from Southern Pacific depot to Umpqua; on State St., from Central Ave. to First St. At the next meeting, there will be a representative of a meter company here to make a demonstration.

It was also ordered that "No Parking" signs be posted on the south side of Central Ave., bordering the City Park.

Jap Twins May Join Their American Step-Father More Food Per Person

SEATTLE, May 24.—(AP)—A congressional committee's action in Monday at Washington, D. C., brought great happiness to Mrs. David Bailey Carpenter, wife of a University of Washington sociology instructor.

Mrs. Carpenter, 28, a Japanese, would be permitted, under terms of a special bill approved by the House Judiciary Committee, to bring her 4-year-old twin daughters by her first husband to this country. The Seattle Times, notified by its Washington correspondent, said final congressional action in such matters are usually a matter of routine.

Mrs. Carpenter married Carpenter in Yokohama in August, 1947, while he served on General MacArthur's staff. A son, Gary, was born to them here a year later.

Her first husband, Ichigi Higo, a Japanese naval commander and father of the twins, Teiko and Yoshiko, left for combat duty after a month of marriage and was listed as killed or missing in action. No legal means could be found to bring the children to this country, however, until a special bill was passed. It was sponsored by Rep. Henry M. Jackson.

"It's wonderful news," commented Carpenter. "The twins never have known any father but me."

Man Rescued From Death In Sawdust Hopper

Workers began digging into the sawdust. Nusbaum was unconscious, but a fire department crew applied artificial respiration and he was hospitalized, out of danger.

Nusbaum was on his first day as a truck driver for C. R. Erlon.
