

Ouster Of Communist Teacher At North Carolina University Looms

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., May 25. (AP)—Greater University of North Carolina officials have asked their trustees to leave the Communist problem in their hands. And they hinted that Communist Hans Freistadt won't be teaching here after June 1. The trustees agreed. Freistadt's Atomic Energy Commission fellowship set off a recent Congressional investigation. In a report to the trustees, the three chancellors of the University said: "The Communists are taking advantage of the unlimited freedom of our University. And if we are not realistic, prudent and cautious, we may discover too late that we have stretched our freedom and tolerance to the point that we have been unwitting 'collaborationists' of the Communists." They said the University "stands united—unequivocally opposed to Communism," and added: "There is only one avowed Communist Party member now teaching at any of our three institutions. His appointment is temporary and it expires June 1, 1949." Freistadt is a graduate student and part-time physics instructor at the University. His fellowship, granted by the AEC, is scheduled to become effective July 1.

Springfield To Vote On $800,000 Power System

SPRINGFIELD, Ore., May 25. (AP)—Establishment of an $800,000 municipal power system will go before the voters in a special election June 24. Under the plan, offered to the Council by Mayor B. F. Larson, power would be bought from Bonneville. The system would be financed by revenue bonds payable in 20 years. Mountain States Power Company now has a long-time franchise from the city and the new proposal makes no reference to purchase of its facilities. Presumably the city would go into competition with the private firm in power distribution. The Mayor told the Council the plan would reduce power costs and attract industries. He said Ernest C. Porter, chief engineer for the Rocky Mountain Engineering Company, had endorsed it. The Council also ordered on the June 24 ballot the question of retaining the city manager form of government and a proposed tax levy in excess of the 6 percent limitation. Workmen On Digging Job Uncover 71 Diamonds

PORTLAND, May 25.—(AP)—Workmen Tuesday broke through parking lot pavement here and began excavating to make way for a service station. They wound up with 71 diamonds. The diamonds were found 2 1/2 feet down in a rotted charoite skin. The jewels were set in four rings and a lavaliere. The most valuable was a dinner ring with a diamond of more than two carats. A jeweler tentatively appraised them at between $4,000 and $5,000. How they got there was undetermined. The parking lot owner, Dwight C. Thorsen, said the lot had been paved 17 years. A house there had been torn down to make way for the parking lot. Detective Dudley Nelson said it was possible the jewelry had been buried under the house. He also speculated they had been hidden by a thief, although police records had no confirmation. Thorsen said he would hold them on a finder-keepers basis unless the rightful owners can be located.
