

Senate Democrats Come Close To Breaking Their Necks For CIO

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

Meet the new Senate whip: Philip Murray, president of the CIO. In letters to Senator Lucas and Representative McCormack, Democratic majority leaders in the Senate and House, Murray rebuked Congress for inaction on the President's "Fair Deal" domestic program. He demanded that Congress stay on the job until it has enacted major parts of it.

A short time back, Lucas had fixed July 31 as a probable adjournment date, with most of Mr. Truman's program apparently relegated to next year. The President promptly contradicted this timetable and called for fuller action. But Lucas made only a vague effort to harmonize the conflicting statements.

There was nothing vague, however, about the response to Murray's letter. One day after its receipt, the Senate Democratic Policy Committee notified Murray there would be no adjournment until much more domestic legislation had been enacted.

The committee went further. It told Murray the Senate would begin debate of Taft-Hartley repeal—the top item on labor's own "must" list—before considering ratification of the North Atlantic Treaty.

Lucas said Mr. Truman did not object to this plan. Yet the State Department recently issued an urgent call for speed on the treaty, asking that it be placed ahead of all other matters.

Now no one questions for a moment Murray's right to criticize Congress, to urge adoption of a program, or to exert what pressure he can. In the use of these proper privileges, the CIO leader has plenty of company.

But the almost automatic response of the policy committee to Murray's censure hardly serves as a heartening display of the independence so often claimed by the august Senate.

No matter what the source and weight of pressure, no matter what party is in command, the Senate ought to exercise its own distinctive judgment about the content and timing of its program.

As for shunting the North Atlantic Pact aside, many citizens will conclude that Senate leaders have acted recklessly. If there are good reasons why the State Department's plea for haste should be ignored, the public should know them. So far, a convincing case for slow motion has not been made out.

Murray did not ask priority for Taft-Hartley repeal. The gesture assuring him that extra favor on the part of the Senate is the undignified nature of this whole performance.

No one who is realistic expects the Senate to resist all pressures. But neither does anyone like to see Senate leaders trip and fall on their faces in their haste to yield.

Two Roseburg men, James K. Neave, seaman apprentice, U. S. N., of 1451 Cedar St., and James G. Armon, seaman apprentice, U. S. N., son of Fred K. Armon of 922 Harvard Ave., recently participated in "Operation Moving Van" as crew members aboard the aircraft carrier

Arizona State Tour Awarded Roseburg Couple

A week's trip, all expenses paid, through the State of Arizona is the reward of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Tipton of Roseburg.

Tipton, accompanied by his wife, is currently attending the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce national convention at Colorado Springs, Colo., as a delegate from the Roseburg Junior Chamber.

The Arizona State Jaycee chapter, as a means of advertising its state, offered the trip—two weeks for one person or one week for two—as a special prize, which was won by Mrs. Tipton.

This information was telephoned to the News-Review Thursday by Mr. Tipton, who reported they were enjoying themselves very much at the 29th annual national affair, which ends Saturday.

Fifteen Oregon delegates are representing Portland, Enterprise, Klamath Falls, Burns, Oregon City, Roseburg and two other Oregon cities.

The Tiptons, who plan to return here in a week or so, will travel through Idaho, where they left their children with Mrs. Tipton's parents. After their return to Oregon, they will leave again on the Arizona State tour.

WILL ADDRESS AFL

RICH SHORTCAKE BISCUITS

Sift into bowl:
2 1/2 cups sifted Crown Best Patent Flour
3 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon sugar

Cut in:
4 tablespoons shortening

Add:
1 egg
3/4 cup milk

Knead lightly, pat or roll out to desired thickness, and cut with floured cutter. Bake in hot oven (450°) about 15 minutes.

NOTE: These biscuits make perfect shortcakes, for berries or other fruits. Also delicious for drop biscuits and dumplings, if made with 1 cup milk instead of 3/4 cup.
