Defeated Germany Has Pleasure Now Of Being Courted By East And West

By HAL BOYLE

BERLIN, June 14.—(P)—Here in defeated Germany is the world capital of postwar optimism. There is uneasiness in Washington, Paris, London and Moscow. There appears to be less uneasiness here.

The biggest single impression a postwar visitor gets now is that the defeated are not so worried today as their conquerors. They see better times.

For the current international tug-of-war over the fate of his country has given back the average German something he lost when his nation collapsed in military and political chaos in 1945.

He has regained a feeling of importance, the thing the German likes best. He has the knowledge that here where East and West once met in victory they now meet in mutual fear. And he knows that he is the key stone of that fear.

He is enjoying the odd pleasure of being courted from two directions simultaneously instead of having to fight simultaneously in two directions. And this is a flattering gift of peace indeed to a nation that in a single generation lost two war bids for world dominance because it got itself in the classic military dilemma—having to fight fore and aft at the same time.

Three years ago, when I last came here, the victors' prevailing philosophy, left over from wartime unity, was:

"Germany is trying to divide the allies—split them into two camps."

Today the underlying feeling appears to be:

"We must win the Germans to our side."

No longer do the conquerors say they can't afford to let themselves be divided by the vanquished. Tacitly accepting that division now, they court the conquered. In defeat Germany is today more united than the nations who whipped her.

For she knows what she wants. She wants to be Germany again.

This is just one of many unsolicited letters. If you suffer constipation, due to lack of bulk in the diet, eat an ounce of ALL-BRAN daily, drink plenty of water. Tune in Frank Purdy's "Sportscast" tonight at seven for sure. He has a special deal all cooked up with Arch Ward of Chicago's famous Chicago Tribune regarding baseball teams that will be of great interest to sports fans. All you have to do is hear his broadcast tonight... answer his request for your vote on a special deal... and the whole thing's in the bag. Be sure to hear Frank Purdy tonight at 7 over KRNR for complete details.

Tonight at 7:30, Ronald Colman will narrate a whodunit claimed by Alexander Woolcott as one of the best of its kind ever to be written. It's "The Moonstone," by Wilkie Collins... all about a coveted yellow diamond in India. Lots of mystery and intrigue on "Favorite Story" tonight at 7:30 when "The Moonstone" is dramatized. It's the favorite story of Russell Crouse, famous playwright. Stay tuned then for "Jovin Jamboree" at 8; the 9 o'clock news; "Slim Bryant" at 9:15; "Fulton Lewis Jr." at 9:45; "John Steele, Adventurer," at 10; and Lyle Fenner with his "Rhythm Rendezvous" at 10:30.

Tomorrow morning at 11, tenor Ken Carson will offer the following songs on "Ladies First": "Darling, Je Vous Aime Beaucoup"—and "Back in Your Own Back Yard." For his "Passing Parade" program series, John Nesbitt has selected stories dealing with various types of rascals. First, he'll talk about Antoinette Sala, the Parisian sewing girl who absconded with the money that a little tailor stole to keep her in fine clothes. And secondly, he'll discuss the hero-like career of a Frenchman named Paul Bpla, who rose from a poor boy to executive head of a chain of retail stores. (Wednesday, 4:30 p. m.)

Don't forget to tell the kids in the family that KRNR will give away Tom Mix badges, brands and publicity pamphlets immediately following this year's big Rodeo parade. These are things the kids can't buy in any store... and we know that every Tom Mix fan will want to receive these official Tom Mix items.

Farm Bankruptcy Threat Seen In Cherry Imports

WASHINGTON, June 14.—(P) The House heard Monday that thousands of our farmers face bankruptcy because foreign cherries are being "dumped" on the American market.

Said Rep. Horan (R-Wash.): "Our national cherry production is today in grave danger of disaster, entirely due to the manipulation of tariff and import policies of the administration."

Horan said that unless the government removes "the sword of cheap Italian imports which hangs over the heads of the American cherry growers," they will permit their fruit to "rot on the trees."

Marketing of cherries, he said, is at a standstill because processors do not dare buy them because they do not know whether there will be a market for them later.

A proposal for a cut in the tariff on brined cherries imported from Italy is being considered by the Inter-Departmental Committee on international trade agreements, Horan said.

German Students Endure Hunger To Get Education

(AP Newsfeature) HEIDELBERG—Nearly half of the 4500 students of the Heidelberg University are trying to live on one meal a day, the Students' Association reports.

Like everybody else in west Germany, the students, mostly ex-Wehrmacht soldiers, lost nine-tenths of their savings and bank accounts last year in western Germany's currency reform. Most of the students have not enough money to buy the food on their ration cards, Goetz Roth, chairman of the Students' Association, said. The one meal they do get is free.

"It's good, old Herbert Hoover's relief fund which serves us this meal," Roth said. (The former American President was instrumental in setting up school feeding in the American Zone after the war.)

The Students' Association has started a plan, however, to supplement the income of needy members. Negotiations have begun with the American-German

Women's Club in Heidelberg to get the students small jobs in Allied and German households.
