KDND DIAL-LOG

Recent telephone conversations:

"I've lost my dog. Would you mind putting this on the air for me? He's sort of a combination bulldog—terrier—and spitz... but we broke him of that. He answers to the name of Leopold."

"Is this a child's dog?"

"Well... no... he's just the family dog. Why?"

"It's just that we'll have to charge you for a special spot announcement on this... unless you'd care to wait and put it on the next 'Book of Bargains' program. You see, if the dog belongs to a child in the family we'll put it on the air for free any time it's possible."

So she bought a 30-second spot announcement and the good word was spread via the air-waves—in the search for Leopold. Whether he was returned to his rightful home or not, can't say, 'cause we never get the animal-interest side of these things... but now that summer's officially here... now that more and more Roseburgians take the family pooch on more frequent outings here and there... more and more of the canines are taking off into the wild blue yonder. As a result, KRNR is besieged by heart-rending phone calls requesting aid. Just keep in mind that we'll have to charge you for a spot of this kind if you're an adult... but Junior will get the announcement for free!

And so, reader, to tonight's programming—At 7:30, KHJ-Don Lee's "Circus Kid" and his side-kick, Pancho, are forced to match their wits and skill against a cruel and vicious killer, an Indian whom they meet in the story of "The Circus Kid Meets the Apache Kid." At 10 tonight, a lovely lady who asks Greg Hood to play postman and deliver a letter to her that evening, then refuses to recognize him when he appears at her door, becomes No. 1 murder suspect for the latest entry from "The Casebook of Gregory Hood." Elliott Lewis stars in the title role of a wealthy young importer who dabbles in criminology.

P. S.—Tell the kids in the family to listen carefully to the close of "Tom Mix" at 5:45 this afternoon... special message!

AFL Millmen, Portland, Reject Wage Hike Offer

PORTLAND, June 15. — (AP) — Idle AFL millmen here have rejected a 14 cent-an-hour wage increase offered by Portland employers. The wage dispute spread to 40 Oregon plants April 22. A union spokesman said members turned down the offer by a vote of 402 to 0. The union had asked a 17 1/2 cent an hour increase. The present scale ranged from $1.45 to $1.77 an hour. A spokesman for the employer groups reported the wage scale offer also included six paid holidays if they fell during a five day work week and a special accident insurance and seniority agreement.

Upstate plants were closed after pickets appeared at a Portland plant. Eugene workers have since reached a separate agreement.

Arson Case Called, But Fugitive Not Present

SALEM, June 15. — (AP) — The case of State vs. John C. Pinson came up for trial in Circuit Court Tuesday, but the defendant wasn't there.

Pinson was one of the two convicts who sawed their way out of the State Prison bullpen May 30. The other convict was William P. Benson.

Pinson was to have gone on trial Tuesday on a charge of arson. He was accused of being one of several prisoners who set fire to the prison flax plant last year in an escape attempt.

Police have no clues as to where Pinson and Benson have gone.

Pinson is under a life term for murder of a state policeman at the Dalles. So if he is convicted of the arson charge, that sentence would be added to the life term.
