

Soviet Protests Military Base Plans For U. S.

MOSCOW, June 15.—(AP)—The Soviet Navy newspaper Red Fleet complained Tuesday that both Turkey and Sweden allegedly were planning collaboration with the United States in establishing military bases in the Mediterranean and the Baltic.

The naval paper said a Turkish admiral had gone to Washington to discuss the construction of Black Sea naval bases on Turkish territory.

An article by the naval affairs commentator Yermashev said it was clear that such bases were for the use of the American fleet and were only one part of American plans for the Mediterranean, which included taking over the Dardanelles.

The same Red fleet commentator asserted that certain Swedish military leaders were planning to make Sweden a base for rocket and atom bomb war against the Soviet Union. The commentator declared these Swedish leaders were acting as American agents.

BIBLE SCHOOL WELL ATTENDED—Children who attend the First Conservative Baptist Church daily vacation Bible school gather outside the Green school for their picture. The school will conclude this week with exercises in the school auditorium. This Bible school is being conducted by Miss Bernice Moser, village missionary for the Conservative Baptists, and draws children from Green and Happy Valley. Teachers include Mrs. Charles Foree, Mrs. Clifton Travillion, Mrs. Oscar DePriest, Mrs. Vera Burge, Mrs. Henry Madson, Miss Marjorie Jean Travillion and Miss Betty Crank. Children are taking Bible studies, music and handiwork. (Picture by Paul Jenkins.)

'SWARM OUT TODAY—Patrolman Frank Jensen, called out on a special hot assignment to round up a swarm of angry bees in Philadelphia, Pa., digs into the job. Here, he sweeps through the bees with a kitchen broom, looking for the queen bee before he tries to lure them to the honeycomb.

Contractors Work On Hudson Slough Bridge

Groesbeck & Hickens, Eugene contractors who recently completed rebuilding of the Jack Bailey Bridge across North Fork on the Smith River Road, and repaired the Spencer Creek Bridge on the same road are now working on the Hudson Slough Bridge.

This work has been done under contract with Douglas County. It is planned to have this firm make a fill replacing a bridge across the marsh at Jack Franz Slough, on the Smith River Road; to work on two of the bridges on Tahkenitch Lake, on the county road to Five Mile, and on two bridges on Schollieid Creek, south of Reedsport.

Floyd Fear of Roseburg, Douglas County roadmaster, has general supervision over these projects.

ALASKA IN RED

JUNEAU, Alaska, June 15.—(AP)—A report by Territorial Treasurer Henry Roden showed today that the territorial fund at the end of May was $879,032 short of meeting obligations.

Roden said a total of $167,497 was on hand at the closing of books, but against the sum were the auditor's office unpaid vouchers totalling $1,046,530.

Congress Sidelights

By Harris Ellsworth
Congressman, 4th District of Oregon

The administration leadership of the House has given up any thought of repealing or amending the Taft-Hartley Act. Its first and only attempt was a complete flop. I think I should point out again that Republicans in the House could do nothing in the name of the Republicans to carry out their campaign promises regarding labor legislation. Our contention has consistently been that the TH law is fundamentally good but that experience under it has revealed the need of certain amendments to make it better.

The identical drama is being enacted all over again in the Senate. As this is written, I do not know what the outcome will be over there but the first two acts of the play are the same—1. Administration bill jammed through committee; 2. Countless amendments considered on the floor. But, let me give you the Senate story right from the lips of a Senator. Senator Wayne Morse said in debate a few days ago: "The Thomas bill is not the product of executive-session discussion. The fact is that we did not have any executive-session discussions of the Thomas bill. At the very first executive session held by the committee, after the hearings were closed a Democrat Senator moved that the bill be reported favorably to the Senate. Another Democrat Senator seconded the motion. When Republican Senators sought to offer amendments, they were declared out of order on the ground that the motion was not subject to amendment. . . . Thus we find ourselves in the present unfortunate predicament of trying on the floor of the Senate to write the detailed provisions of labor legislation which should have been written in the committee."

Postmistress' Curiosity Costs Her Fine And Job

STEEPLE ASHTON, England, June 15.—(AP)—What was in the letters the vicar wrote to the young ladies?

Postmistress Mary Tye had an itch to know. She was fined £100 ($400) yesterday for opening letters to find out—and now there's a new postmistress.

"I was curious," she told the local court.

"I knew I was doing wrong, but the practice grew on me and I found I could not resist it." She said she went on from opening the vicar's letters to peeking at others.

Mrs. Tye said she never told anybody what she found out.

Col. J. F. E. Pye, chairman of the court, told Mrs. Tye: "The whole fabric of this village's life might have been undermined by your action."

Banker Keeps His Word; Estate Less Than Million

SAN MATEO, Calif., June 15.—(AP)—Banker Amadeo P. (P.A. P.) Giannini, who often told friends he had "no intention of dying a millionaire," left an estate valued at less than $480,000. His will was filed today for probate.

Founder of the vast Bank of America, Giannini died at his San Mateo home on June 3.
