QUEBEC, June 17 — The 28th annual convention of Zonta International which opens here on Tuesday promises to be the largest Zonta meeting ever held and the second largest scheduled for Quebec this season, officials here announced today. Close to 900 women in business executive posts and the professions are due to attend.

The Canadian Zonta clubs, hostesses for the convention, in last-minute plans, have further strengthened the Canadian aspect of the meeting. An exhibition of Canadian art, loaned by the National Art Gallery, will be given. Canadian literature will be displayed including the work of a member of the Montreal Zonta Club, Miss Helen Gulton, whose "A Country Lover" came off the presses last autumn.

The Quebec Board of Trade is presenting each delegate with brochures on Canada, and the representative of the Tourist Bureau in Quebec is outlining local tours. Favors and door prizes to be distributed have been manufactured in Canada.

All the featured speakers are Canadians, and all of them are Zionists with the exception of Mrs. Henri Vautelet of Montreal. Opening day event will include a luncheon arranged by the Montreal Zonta Club at which Mrs. Ruth B. Shaw of Montreal, convention chairman, will preside.

Theme of the convention will be "Community Leadership in a World Crisis."

Admission Of Negroes As Members Problem Before University Women

SEATTLE, June 22.—(AP)—A speaker from the South today asked the 51st biennial convention of the American Association of University Women to settle once and for all the question of whether Negroes shall be accepted to membership.

Dr. Gillie A. Larew of Lynchburg, Va., South Atlantic regional vice-president, set the stage for what she called a "paramount issue" of the convention with a plea that delegates not sidestep the issue with a temporary ruling, which they hope "may one day be superseded."

The controversy was touched off in 1946 when the Washington, D. C., branch rejected the application of Mrs. Mary Church Terrell, Negro who holds bachelor of arts and master arts degrees from Oberlin College, and who was a member of the national group.

A court ruling held that under present by-laws the branch was within its rights and could not be compelled by the national to accept a member.

The executive board today will consider a proposed change in by-laws to cover the subject.

Dr. Larew said the convention faces two questions in connection with the problem: "Shall we who are now members of this Association, not by virtue of birth or social position, but by virtue of a college degree prove less than willing to work for practical educational ends in the fellowship with other holders of degrees?"

"And how shall we in certain areas where tensions exist summon the persistence and faith to make real this implied fellowship of college women?"

Dr. Larew is head of the department of mathematics at Randolph-Macon Women's College.
