

Lions, Ladies Set Joint Induction; PAL Talk Heard

Installation of officers will be held jointly by the Roseburg Lions Club and Ladies Lions at a dinner dance to be held at the Roseburg Country Club Saturday night. The dinner will be at 7:30, but a social hour will start about 6:30, announced Al McBee, chairman in charge.

Reports on the recent Lions Club convention at Astoria, when Forrest Losee was elected district governor, were made by several of the members attending. Losee, Bruce Elliott, Phil Harth, Joe Wilkoff, Don Hillwell and Mr. Klatt each spoke briefly.

The program was featured by a talk by John Kilpack, a member of the Board of PAL, Inc., who spoke on that organization and its important part in crime prevention.

Kilpack has spent 10 years with the Boys and Girls Aid Society of Oregon, 25 years with the Portland School Administration as truant officer and recently has dedicated his effort to reclaim and restore to good citizenship those who have come into conflict with the law.

He was introduced by Jerry Willis, of the Moose Lodge, which is sponsoring the appearance here July 21 of Mickey Pease, Portland policeman, founder and director of PAL, Inc., and 18 of his boys in an athletic exhibition.

Kilpack stated he has seen two things which have left a permanent imprint upon his life. One of these was the slums of London and the other was the Oregon State Penitentiary, where he worked for a year and a half on a rehabilitation program.

He described the penitentiary conditions as "shocking, medieval, and tragic." He discussed the need for prison reform, but more important, still, the prevention of crime by training youths in a program which will make them good citizens, and thus lessen the need for prisons.

Gene Henry was introduced by the club as a junior member, who will be the Lions Club representative from Roseburg High School. He is the son of Earl Henry. The latter was named official delegate to the Lions International Convention in New York.

Intervention Denied Govt. in Damage Case

PORTLAND, June 24. — (AP) — A federal judge turned down yesterday the government's petition to intervene in Oregon farmers' suit against Reynolds Metal company.

Judge James A. Fee left the way open, however, for the government to ask to intervene under a different technical procedure.

The government had wanted to argue in the case, on the ground that aluminum is essential to national welfare. The farmers seek $1,500,000 damages, contending that fumes from the Troutdale, Ore., plant have hurt their crops and livestock.

Hugh F. O'Donnell, special assistant to the U. S. attorney general, told the court yesterday that the fume trouble should be over soon. He said the government has authorized spending $2,151,000 for equipment to control the fumes.

Two One-Man Fishing Trollers Are Missing

ASTORIA, June 24. — (AP) — Two fishing trollers, each carrying one man, were missing off the Oregon-Washington Coast today, and an intensive air search had failed to spot either one.

Coast guardsmen, who carried out the air hunt yesterday, expressed fear that the Rainadene was lost in a storm early this week. The Rainadene was reported missing Tuesday, enroute from Willapa Bay to Ilwaco, Wash., with Walter Kannonen, Ilwaco, aboard.

The other missing troller was the Midnight, which left here June 17 with the intention of returning Sunday or Monday. The name of the man aboard was not available.

gious leader opposed to Rome a century before Martin Luther. He was John Huss, who was condemned by the Council of Constance and burned as a heretic in 1415 for his teaching.

During the next 200 years Protestantism grew strong in Czechoslovakia until it was finally suppressed after great bloodshed at the battle of White Hill in 1620 by the Catholic emperor of Austria and the Roman Catholic nobility to whom he granted the seized lands of the Bohemian (Czechoslovak) Protestants.

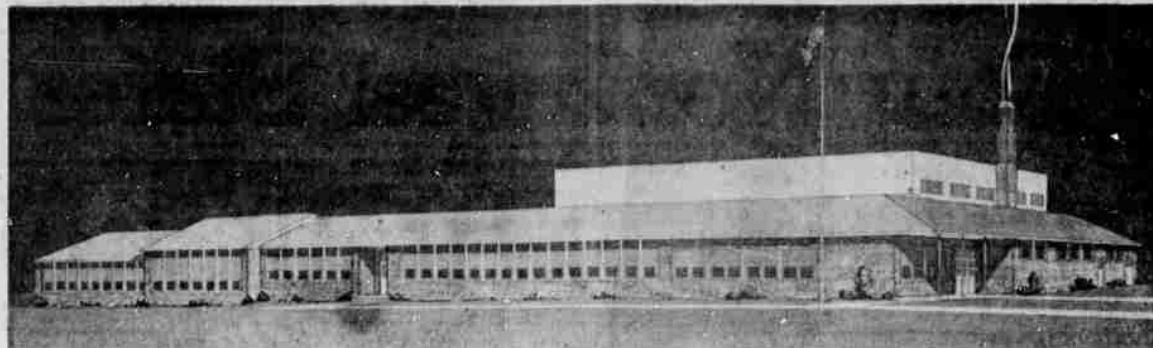

For many years afterwards Protestant religious activity was banned from Czechoslovakia.

Janitors' Meet Saturday Will Open At 9 A. M.

The all-day meeting of Douglas County Janitors Saturday will open at 9 a. m., instead of 10 o'clock, as reported in Thursday's News-Review, announced W. J. Mess, maintenance supervisor for Roseburg School District 4.

Maintenance of buildings and grounds and operation of heating plants will be thoroughly discussed at the meeting, which is patterned after the Oregon State Janitors Association meeting at Klamath Falls last week, said Mess, who attended that session.

SUIT DISMISSED
Circuit Judge Carl E. Wimberly has issued an order dismissing the suit of James A. Brown, Harry L. Johnson and Orval A. Johnson vs. C. Elmer Renney and Roseburg Lumber Co. Dismissal was based upon stipulation of the involved parties.

NEW YONCALLA SCHOOL—Above is an artist's sketch of the new $200,000 Yoncalla High School building, on which work was started last week. Industrial Building Co. of Eugene has the contract. The building is located just south of town on part of the old Wise Donation Land Claim. It is modern in style, and will include a 80 by 100-foot gymnasium. A baseball diamond and football field will be made ready as soon as funds are available. The present building, which has housed both Grade and High Schools the last 32 years, will be turned over to the Grade School. The grade attendance has doubled in the last three years, and children of the first two grades have had to be transported to Pleasant Valley School, two miles south of town. About 50 men will be on the job to get the new school completed by the Christmas holidays. Local men will be hired when possible, it is announced by the school board. Northwest Governors Oppose CVA Proposal interest of the state of Washington, or of the nation, and should not be enacted into law."

Favors Reclamation Bureau

"We in Idaho are unalterably opposed to the CVA for many reasons—we favor development of our resources through existing agencies, generally in accordance with the coordinated plans of the Bureau of Reclamation and the Corps of Army Engineers.

"We believe it is entirely unreasonable to now ask Congress to give a new board of three men, no member of which is required to have had any experience in resources development, the power to determine whether this plan and these reports should be accepted or set aside."

Said Pittman: "In my opinion, the establishment of a Columbia Valley Administration is not necessary and most certainly contrary to the best interests of the region and the nation.

"The majority of the people living in the Western States are not prepared, and never will be willing to give up their rights under existing law for control and use of water and subject themselves to the mandates of a three-man board not responsible to the people and clothed with authority which can properly, under the Constitution, only be vested in the congress of the United States."

Autocracy Not Wanted
McKay said he opposes placing the economic and political future of Oregon and the entire Pacific Northwest "in the hands of an autocratic federal corporation."

He said the legislation under study would provide control and domination by three men who must subscribe to the philosophy of the CVA bill before they can be appointed directors.

2nd ADP Adverse Stand—ed
The Oregon governor said CVA proponents do not want the administration to be answerable to Congress.

"I am unalterably opposed to any such philosophy as contained in the CVA bill," McKay said. "I am a strong advocate of an aggressive and immediate continuation of the plan now well under way for Columbia Valley development. It is practicable, has already accomplished much for the area and should not be delayed by further consideration or adoption of any new or uncertain plan."

Meeting Opposed
Rep. Mack (R-Wash.) brought out during questioning of Langlie that the coordinated report of the Army Engineers and Reclamation Bureau has not yet been presented to the Budget Bureau for action though the Governors of the states involved approved it weeks ago.

"It is reported," Mack said, "that it is being held up in hope of pushing action of the CVA bill."

Langlie cited a long list of things the CVA board could do under terms of the bill and said it "is enough to indicate that this agency would have practically free rein to meddle into every phase and ramifications of life and industry in our state."

He said he believes enactment of the bill would cause "the great state of Washington to revert to almost territorial status, with all important government functions supervised by federal officials."

Democrat Walter Pearson, Oregon State Treasurer, yesterday told the Committee McKay "represents the utility viewpoint" and did not represent the people of the state who he said favor enactment of the administration bill.

A number of the witnesses from the Pacific Northwest testified that the directors of the Pacific Northwest Development Association are "paid propagandists for private power companies."

Injunction Or Seizure Issue in New Labor Bill

as he later acknowledged to reporters. But he fought back hard and swiftly.

He stalled off a vote yesterday. Then, with his support, Senator Holland (D-Fla) and three other Senators—Hoey (D-N.C.), Bricker (R-Ohio), and Schoepfel (R-Kans.)—introduced a new 60-day injunction proposal, with seizure taken out completely. This was offered under such parliamentary conditions as to be voted on before the Lucas amendment.

Thus the issue was narrowing down in the Senate battle over strikes imperiling the national health or safety. The big choice now is between the Holland and Lucas amendments. The decision will be close.

Lucas told reporters: "What happens here may determine the whole course of the labor law."

The Senate is debating the administration bill to repeal the Taft-Hartley Act. Four compromise amendments have already been adopted, making the bill look a little more like Taft-Hartley.

Taft wants to go further and write into the bill a long list of important Taft-Hartley features.

are necessary as a part of the health examination to be announced soon.

way was too close to his property, had warned: "I'll shoot if one stone falls on my property."

A road crew called police and Municipal Constable Peter Bergen answered the summons.

At the Jonson home, a small cottage on a 30-acre farm, two shots were fired at the police officer, but he escaped injury.

Mrs. Lindberg was killed on the highway, shot down as she approached Jonson near her home. She apparently was making her way to the Jonson farm, attracted by the flaming buildings.

Mrs. Barrett died on the front porch of her farm home, half a mile from the Jonson place. Her husband, George Barrett, found the body sprawled on the porch.
