

NEW EYES—Some time ago Virginia Warren (left), 19, University of California coed, was robbed of her "eyes" when her dog was poisoned. Fellow students raised a $1000 fund to donate to Guide Dogs for the Blind, Inc., which offered Virginia a new set of eyes. Here Virginia learns how to step off a curb at the organization's course in San Rafael, Cal., as Trainer Steward West watches to see that the dog and student each do their part. Virginia and her German shepherd, Pilot, will graduate from the school after four weeks' training.

University Women's Assn. Loses Branch Over Negro Admission Issue

SEATTLE, June 27.—(AP)—In the final session of its 51st biennial convention week, the American Association of University Women decreed that its branches must accept membership of all qualified applicants or be expelled from the association.

The decision was followed immediately by a statement from a spokesman for the Washington, D. C., branch that "this means

Postmaster Nomination Withdrawn; Irregular

WASHINGTON, June 27.—(AP)—President Truman has withdrawn the nomination of Leland C. Grove to be postmaster at Mosier, Ore.

The Post Office Department told Oregon Congressmen the name was withdrawn because the eligible list from which Grove was appointed contained only two names when the law provides there should be three. The Department said several veterans at Mosier had asked to be permitted to take the examination and that it then was discovered that the eligible list from which Grove was appointed contained only two names.

The Civil Service Commission will set the date for a new examination of candidates for the place.

Mosier is in Wasco county.

William Walker Walks Until Stolen Car Found

KANSAS CITY, June 27.—(AP)—It took three years, but William W. Walker can drive his automobile again.

He reported the car stolen on July 7, 1946. Since then Walker has walked.

Yesterday, as he walked past a used car lot, he spotted his old automobile. He notified police and showed them a certificate of title he has carried since the car disappeared. They checked the motor number and verified his story.

The used car dealer said he got the car last week and gave police the name of the seller. Police said they would trace the ownership back to 1946.

the court ruling and to take action to resolve the dispute between the association and the Washington branch.

Despite stout opposition, the convention voted for a plank in the legislative program providing for public housing for low-income families for which private industry is unable to provide.

A resolution in support of an equal rights amendment to the constitution was defeated in favor of a plank, presented by the legislative committee, which called for:

"Continued opposition to any equal rights amendment to the constitution unless such amendment provides safeguards for the health, safety and general welfare of women."

A spokesman said this meant protection such as provided by numerous individual state laws on hours, working conditions, etc., for women.

The association's next convention will be held in Atlantic City, N. J., in the spring of 1951.

At yesterday's session, the association presented its $2,500 achievement award to Dr. Helen C. White, author and professor of English at the University of Wisconsin.

Tribe Defies Regent By Accepting Chief's White Wife As Its Queen

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, June 27.—(AP)—Bamangwato, June 24.—(AP)—Bamangwato, tribesmen defied their regent Thursday and voted overwhelmingly to accept a white queen.

She is Ruth Williams, a former London typist who married the chief-designate of the tribe, Seretse Khama, last October.

After three days of complicated ritualistic conferences at their capital, Serowe, Bechuanaland, only about a fifth of the 9,000 pow-wow natives voted against accepting Seretse and his wife as their leaders. Seretse is 27 and his wife is 24.

Earlier in the day the aged regent, Tshekedi Khame, told the gathering: "The white woman is unsuitable to Seretse and the tribe. I will hand over the throne to him, but if he brings his white wife I will fight him to the end."

The regent had attempted to lay down the law but was overruled on a vote by a show of hands.

Since Tuesday the tribesmen have been discussing whether Seretse should rule them. Speaker after speaker arose before the throng gathered under the thorn trees of Serowe to denounce the marriage.

Seretse went to London four years ago to study law at Oxford University. While in Britain he married 24-year-old Ruth Williams, a former typist, without getting permission from the tribe's elders. Seretse's wife said after their marriage last October that she hoped to go to Africa to help him rule. Seretse and his wife are living in London.

The Bamangwato tribe is one of three important tribal groups in the British South African protectorate of Bechuanaland. Seretse is the son of Sekgoma, who died in 1925.
