Glendale Children At Baptist Camp

The five Glendale children who attended the Baptist camp last week at Myrtlewood Grounds near Bridge, Ore., report a good attendance at the camp. With a total of 110 registered, Coos Bay sent 27, Riddle 27, Reedsport 23, Bandon 15, and Glendale five.

The camp is held annually in connection with the Oregon Baptist Convention for churches of this area who do not feel that they can send their youngsters the greater distance to the State Baptist Camp at Arrah, Wannah, on the side of Mt. Hood near Portland.

Camp dean was the Rev. Cecil Brown of Coos Bay and camp evangelist was the Rev. Elwood Marvin of Eugene. Dr. F. W. Starring of Portland, stage Baptist secretary, who was to be camp pastor, suffered a heart attack early in the week and had to return to his home.

Other camp personnel included: Miss Mary Lou Nelson, Coos Bay; Rev. and Mrs. Graydon Doore, Reedsport; Rev. Wallace Winquist, Bandon; Mrs. Elwood Marvin, Eugene; Rev. Sam Neufeldt, Riddle; Mrs. H. D. Yates, Coos Bay and Mrs. Kelly Holbert, Coos Bay, camp nurse.

Presbyterian Synod Sets Fund Raising Campaign
 PORTLAND, July 1.—(AP)—The Presbyterian Synod of Oregon plans to raise $100,000 a year in 1950, 1951, and 1952.

The campaign was announced at the close of the annual meeting yesterday, to raise funds for Lewis and Clark College, Westminster foundation, and the San Francisco Theological Seminary.

The Westminster fellowship, a Presbyterian youth group, elected Nancy Pond, Portland, as moderator; Kent Lawrence, McMinnville, vice-moderator; Stan McClellan, Klamath Falls, treasurer; Bob Southwell, Klamath Falls, commissioner.

SHOWS MOVIES

Elmer Wick, motion picture evangelist who tours the nation showing sound motion pictures in churches of all denominations, was in charge of a special service held Sunday evening, June 26, at the Glendale Baptist Church.

With a large and receptive audience, Rev. Wick showed pictures on American Hot Springs, atom bomb tests, "The Girl of a Volcano," "The Rapture," and "The Man Who Forgot God."

Veterinarian Joins Animal Hospital Staff

Dr. William G. Rowe, above, veterinarian, has joined the staff of the Roseburg Animal Hospital. It was announced today by Dr. Dallen H. Jones. Formerly of Seattle, Dr. Rowe attended Washington State College at Pullman, where he was graduated from the school of veterinary medicine this spring.

Dr. and Mrs. Rowe and their young son, Tommy, are residing at the Fairhaven Apartments in West Roseburg. Mrs. Rowe was formerly public health nurse of Whitman County in Washington State.

Dr. Rowe was active in the Crimson Circle, senior men's honorary, served as president of the Agricultural Club, and was a member of the Junior American Veterinary Medical Association while in college.

Dr. Rowe commented that he and his wife are pleased to be residing here and with the opportunities this city affords.

Dr. Jones stated that by adding a qualified veterinarian to the staff, the Roseburg Animal Hospital hoped to increase its services to the residents of Douglas County.

the Glendale Baptist Church.

With a large and receptive audience, Rev. Wick showed pictures on American Hot Springs, atom bomb tests, "The Girl of a Volcano," "The Rapture," and "The Man Who Forgot God."

Drain Lions Get Charters For Two New Scout Troops

Twenty-eight Lions and their guests attended the meeting of the Drain Lions Club Tuesday, when retiring President Roy Jones handed the gavel over to incoming President Phil Griswold. Jones praised his officers and committees for helping him achieve a successful year.

Special guests at the meeting were James Fox, Stewart Parsons, Calvin Peterson, and Keith Van Krevelin, the latter the new pharmacist at Yoncalla.

Special feature of the meeting was the presentation to the Club by Rolfe Quam, district scout executive, of the charters for Boy Scout Troop No. 78 and Senior Scout Unit No. 278. These were accepted in behalf of the Club by Jones.

Other visitors for this occasion were Scoutmaster Robert Laird, Assistant Wayne Olsson and Warren Witzel, and Cubmaster James Bush. Richard Scout, first mate, took over for the senior unit in the absence of Skipper Jerry Henderson.

Youth Committee for the coming year will continue with the same members, but with Pete Martin replacing Jones. Jones, however, will remain a member of the Scout Troop Committee for the coming year. Griswold will be institutional representative on the latter Committee.

Migration Of Steelheads Far Below Normal

Summer steelhead migration in the North Umpqua River still is far behind normal.

The tabulation maintained at the Winchester counting station shows only 325 steelheads passing upstream as of June 30, reports Ross Newcomb, field biologist in charge of the Umpqua River study.

Newcomb says the drop in migrating steelheads may be due to a late season, as winter spawn-outs still are moving down small streams, such as Rock Creek, much later than at any time during the past four years. It is possible, Newcomb said, that the unusual season may account for the late appearance of summer fish.

The June 30 count shows a drop in Chinook salmon below the 1948 tally. Prior to the last report, the migration for this year had been ahead of 1946 and 1948, but trailing 1947. But June movement dropped off considerably.

Comparative figures are given Adult Chinook 1807 2696 2033

as follows:

	1946	1947	1948	1949
Adult Chinook	1807	2696	2033	1977
Jack Chinook	414	717	214	470
% Jacks	18.6	21.0	9.5	19.2
Summer Steelhead	843	646	700	325

Lumber Products Free Of Export License Listed

Various timber and lumber products have been added to the number of items on the GRO list, effective July 1. The list includes commodities which may be exported to all countries of the world without an export license issued by the Office of International Trade, Department of Commerce, announced H. E. Waterbury, district manager, Portland.

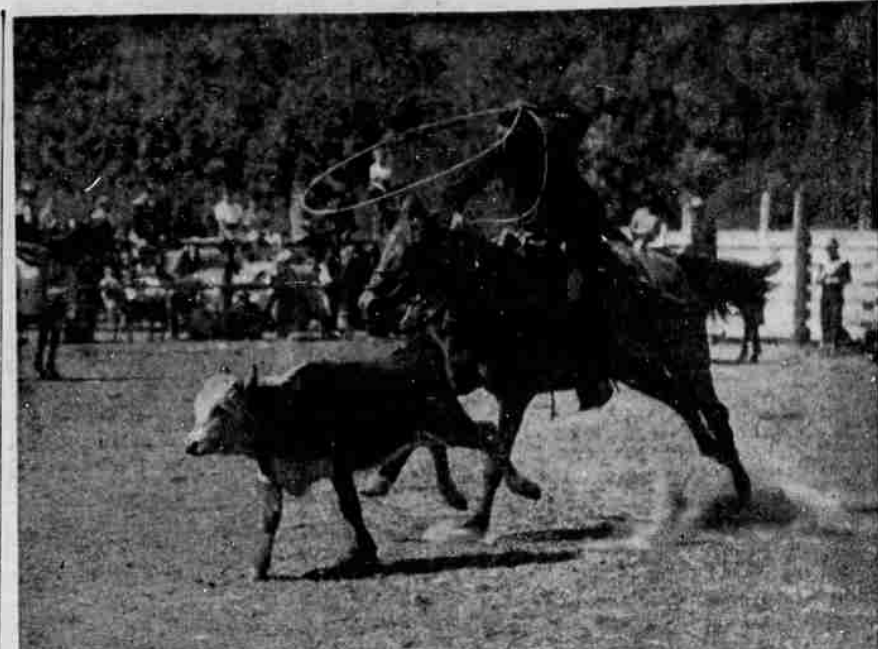

Among the items of interest to this locality are: Douglas fir peeled logs; piling, treated or untreated; Douglas fir, ponderosa pine, white pine, redwood and Sitka (tideland) spruce saw lumber; hardwood logs, bolts and hewn timber, except balsa, beech, birch, gum, maple, oak, persimmon and poplar; box crate and package shooks, softwood and hardwood; plywood shooks for fruits and vegetables; cooperage and cooperage stock, aero grade veneer; plywood; wood pipe and conduit, tanks and cooling towers; bleached or unbleached sulphite pulp and bleached sulphate pulp.

Inasmuch as some of the Export control regulations are complex and subject to amendment, persons interested in the exportation of any commodities are advised to consult the Department of Commerce, Portland District Office, 520 S. W. Morrison St., for interpretation or clarification.

YOUNG PEOPLE MEET

The Presbyterian Senior Young People met last week at the Fir Point Assembly grounds near Glendale. Rev. George Shuman of Ashland was assembly dean, and Mr. Marquam of Grants Pass the business manager. The young people had charge of the morning worship service at the Presbyterian Church in Glendale Sunday, June 26.

MONTANANS TO PICNIC
 Announcement has been received here that the annual Montana picnic will be held in the City Park at Grants Pass, Sunday July 17.

IKE ORR, president of the Riddle Roping Club, is shown roping a calf in last year's Riddle Rodeo. He will be among the cowboys slated to participate in the Rodeo in that community July 3 and 4. Orr recently won top honors at the Olalla Rodeo, and in 1947 took top honors at Gold Beach. Two days rodeo, parade, barbecue, fireworks display, dancing and other events are planned.

RIDDLE RODEO—A typical scene to be witnessed at Riddle's two-day rodeo July 3 and 4 is this picture taken last year of Dick Murray, Portland, in the saddle bronc riding division. Some tough stock is being brought in by Blackie Smith for the big affair.
