

Daylight Saving Spells Confusion, Neuner's Opinion

SALEM, July 1. (P)—All will be confused if Oregon's daylight saving time law becomes effective July 16, Attorney General George Neuner says.

The law provides for standard time over the whole state unless the governor proclaims daylight saving time. There is a move to refer the law to the people, and thus hold it up until the November, 1950, general election.

Neuner said that if the measure becomes effective and if the governor doesn't proclaim daylight saving time, these things will happen:

1. Cities which now are on daylight saving time will stay that way, because there isn't anything in the new law to make a local ordinance void.
2. Courthouses in cities on daylight time will have to change to standard time.
3. State offices in Salem and Portland will have to go back to standard time.

Cops Be Courteous, But Not Forget Ticket

TACOMA, July 1. (P)—That old wheeze about "where's the fire" became outmoded in Tacoma's Police Traffic Squad today by official order.

Instead, a directive issued by chief Robert Marshall says to cops who have just observed a violation, you will:

"Courteously approach the violator X X X advise him of the mistake and at the same time inform him why he should not be involved in this type of violation, giving him data as to how many accidents occurred within the city of Tacoma," etc.

With the statistical data, of course, will come the customary ticket.
