Huge Fire Sweeps City Block At Oswego Friday

OSWEGO, July 2.—(P)—The biggest fire in this suburban Portland town's history destroyed a lumber yard, an auto accessories shop, and part of the City Hall last night.

The damage was not estimated immediately, but the loss included several thousand board feet of lumber, several hundred tires, and the Oswego Public Works Department's new truck. A quarter-block, just off the main highway, was blackened.

Water seriously damaged books in the public library, though the fire itself did not touch that part of the City Hall.

The blaze broke out in the Oswego Lumber Company yard, rapidly consumed the wooden structure, and burned the rear of the City Hall containing the city garage and storeroom.

Firemen from Oswego, Oregon City, Lake Grove, Gladstone, West Linn and Tualatin kept the flames from spreading to the main part of the City Hall. Barney's Auto Accessory store, stocked chiefly with tires, burned.

An ambulance was sent to the scene after the Tualatin fire truck overturned three blocks from the fire. But Fire Chief William Barnegrove, 60, head of the Tualatin volunteers since 1937, declined first aid and rushed on to the fire.

Cause of the fire was not established.

New Timber Sale Plan Will Start Next Year

existing procedure will be followed.

During 1950 it is planned to hold sales at two-month intervals beginning in February. Each sale will be preceded by customary advertising.

Benefits Pointed Out

"The new program," Goldy states, "will afford all prospective purchasers an opportunity to know well in advance where and when tracts of timber will be offered for sale. Advance planning of timber sales also makes it possible to solve road access and other problems in advance of sales." He expressed the belief that the new procedure will have the twin benefits of maximizing whatever competition might potentially exist and of permitting companies to plan their operations well in advance, with certain knowledge that specific tracts will be put up for sale at designated times.

Prospective purchasers are urged to familiarize themselves with the standards governing sales. These standards will include such factors as maturity of the timber, protection of watersheds, protection of scenic, wildlife and recreation resources, protection from fire, insects and disease, and plans for securing regeneration of the forest. Detailed information on policies can be obtained from the district foresters.

Allocations of sales for the two Douglas County units are tentatively listed as follows:

ed to his native country and became premier with the blessing of Russia in 1946. His police regime was called the "iron broom" by his enemies.

Using the old Comintern tactics, Dimitrov became a spearhead of the new Cominform attacks that isolated and lambasted a neighbor Communist ruler, Premier Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia. He fought the Marshall Plan with all his waning strength.

Quincy, Mass., was settled in 1625 and ranks among the oldest permanent settlements in New England.

Federal Government Facing Huge Deficit

by the 80th Congress last year and the economic downturn that got under way last fall played their parts in knocking tax receipts down from their year ago levels. Tax refunds surpassed Presidential expectations.

Expenditures increased. Expenditures, in comparison with last year, increased $1,886,000,000 for the military establishment; $409,000,000 for veterans administration costs; and $1,789,000,000 for the Commodity Credit Corporation outlays.

The European Cooperation Administration was an extra $4,041,000,000 in the expenditure column, but it was offset in part by decreases of $1,700,000,000 and $252,000,000 from the year before in two foreign aid items—the British Loan and Export-Import Bank costs, respectively.

The Commodity Credit Corporation outlays, chiefly for farm crop price supports, and veterans administration expenses were among those exceeding budget estimates. The ECA cost less than Mr. Truman had contemplated in January.

All figures reported by Treasury Secretary Snyder counted in full all outlays on foreign aid, though an act of the 80th Congress would have justified him in ignoring $3,000,000,000 of that spending on the 1949 books and claiming a technical surplus of $1,188,000,000 for the year.

Snyder passed up that chance, scoring even a mention of it. In the past, both he and President Truman have blasted the provision as a "phony bookkeeping" device.

Bloody Riots Reported From Slovak Country

a compact weekend and save a working day for the "people's democracy."

Sets Precedent. Verolino's case is believed to have set a precedent restricting travel of foreign envoys here.

Heretofore there have been patrols on roads between Slovakia and Bohemia-Moravia, but usually cars with diplomatic or foreign license plates were waved through.

The government claimed Verolino had no right to claim violation of diplomatic rights because he "twice disregarded challenges of traffic police to halt" while in Slovakia. It added he had no right there anyway because he had failed to give the ministry prior notice of the trip.

The Nunciature called the ministry's claim "absolutely false." It said armed men entered Verolino's car, forced him to drive to the police station where officers tried to question him.

Saturday Parkers Could Take Lessons From Champ

plonship, Castner will enter the national competition at Boston in October.

He said the truck and trailer portion of the contest will be held in Phoenix, as that type of vehicle is not permitted in the east. Eleven western states allow trucks and trailers, Castner related, but semis and trailerless trucks only are permitted to operate in the east.

The Oregon champ said he has operated a truck and trailer 13 years. He has been with his present employer 11 years. Castner, 33 years old, lived here in 1949, then moved with his wife and son to Portland.

Accompanied by Editor

Castner was accompanied here by Eugene by Tony Simon, assistant editor of Scholastic magazine, which features material of interest to high school and junior high school students and teachers. Simon is making a tour of the country gathering feature material for issues of the magazine. Included will be an article about the truck rodeo.

Some of the contest problems involved were driving through an offset alley, with only one foot clearance on either side; driving through an alley that grew narrower, there being one-foot clearance on either side of the truck at the point of entry, but at the other end of the alley, the clearance could be measured in inches, according to Castner. Backing the truck and trailer into a three-sided enclosure after making an offset entry was still another problem. The tailgate was required to come within six inches of the platform. The clearance on either side was one foot.

Castner said he executed the maneuver standing on the running board, keeping one foot on the gas pedal. Another problem that taxed the judgment and ingenuity of the contestant was to keep the right wheels of the truck and trailer in a marked lane for 100 feet.

The driving test was topped off with a written examination that tested the contestants' knowledge of Interstate Commerce rules and regulations, first aid, fire fighting, knowledge of the trucking industry appearance and personality. (See picture page 2.)

Bankruptcy May Follow Long Strife In Berlin

BERLIN, July 2.—(P)—Berlin was threatened with municipal bankruptcy today as a hangover from East-West strife. A prospective budget deficit of $21,000,000 west marks ($36,300,000) plagued the allied-recognized city government just as its railway strike troubles ended.

Soviet-controlled elevated passenger trains resumed operation in western sectors early today, 41 days after they were tied up by the strike of an anti-Communist rail union.

The railway management said interzonal traffic between Berlin and Western Germany was being restored gradually, with pre-strike schedules to become effective again Monday.

After two days of harassing tactics, Soviet Autobahn guards began passing into Berlin all West German truck cargoes which had been cleared at the Russian zone frontier.

But the Russians tightened a blockade on foodstuffs which East German farmers were trying to slip into allied sectors to sell for West Marks, now worth more than five times as much as east marks.

City officials blamed Berlin's financial plight on the consequences of a year-long "fight for freedom" against the Soviet Union.

Death Takes Released Prisoner C. G. Boggie

SEATTLE, July 2.—(P)—Clarence G. Boggie, who was released on a pardon from the Washington state prison last Christmas Eve, died of a heart attack last night at a Northern California logging camp.

Word of his death was telephoned here by his sister, Mrs. Edna Silkwood, from her home in Lebanon, Ore. The call came to Don Magnuson, Seattle Times reporter, who made long investigation for his newspaper in the belief that Boggie was wrongfully convicted and served 13 years in prison for a murder he did not commit.
