We believe the labor unions, in which works are organized, should be putting forth a determined effort to bring about more complete wood utilization, for by creating employment security.
By providing more outlets for wood in manufacturin stabilize markets and prevent the economic peaks and de pressions which have plagued the timber industry throughout its entire history. Stabilization would have a most beneficial effect on job and payroll security.
Utilization processes and markets are available. All that is needed is pressure from one infuential source to

On the contrary, a program of full production, through diversification, would put new life into the timber industry.
Our loggers and millmen have had a rather rough season. Unseasonable weather cut their workdays during winter and spring months. Due to unsettled market conditions the holiday layoff will be extended longer than usuai. Man of our small mills are not even operating this year. Let's imagine, however, that the scores of utilization operation.
