"YOUNG OR OLD, we're all going to the swim meet" at Roseburg July 9 and 10, say the signs on the old and new automobiles pictured here. That is in case you can take your eyes off the lovely occupants long enough to see the cars. And we don't mean the drivers—George McIntosh and Dave Moore. McIntosh got in the picture because he's general chairman of the big Southern Oregon Invitational Swim Meet, sponsored by the Roseburg Junior Chamber of Commerce, and Moore is pictured because he's one of the several very active committeemen. Plans for the big meet are shaping up well, assures McIntosh. And speaking of shapes—come and see for yourself at the Roseburg Municipal Pool Saturday night and Sunday afternoon. Ashland Preparing For Annual Series Of Shakespearian Plays

ASHLAND, Ore.—This small Siskiyou mountain town entertained 20,000 visitors during its traditional Fourth of July celebration and is now preparing for the main event of the summer—the annual Oregon Shakespearian Festival. Folks who helped build floats and boarded up rodeo corals are now repairing the outdoor Elizabethan stage and erecting signs of welcome to theatergoers expected here for the ninth annual drama program.

Ashland is the only community in the country which boasts an operating civic Elizabethan theater organization. While student actors from no less than 10 different states are rehearsing for the August 2 opening, the technical details of the program are being directed by a large corps of volunteer Ashland workers.

Ashland residents are justly proud of their Elizabethan theater, for it is the only authentic replica of the famous Globe Stage of Shakespeare's day in use as a community activity. Located in the shell of the old Chautauqua Building, the audience sits under the stars and watches the plays produced exactly as the Bard saw them in his day.

Special Elizabethan pageantry is being planned during the August 2 to 24 festival season in beautiful 100-acre Lithia Park. Ceremonies will be held in the ing at the home of Mrs. Robert Hall and attended the bridal shower for Mrs. Don West.

Studio Decries Actresses Must Exhibit Charms

HOLLYWOOD, July 6.—(AP)—In fairness to the public, which has an eye for such things, Universal-International Studio is requiring its charming young things to display their charms.

While starting actresses are willing enough to be the subject of "cheeseecake art," as it's called, after they attain higher salaries, they often get the idea it's beneath their dignity, the studio has found.

Public-spirited Universal-International decided to dignify bathing suit poses by writing "cheeseecake" clauses in its contracts. The clause requires that any young lady with charms to display shall do so for publicity pictures for the first five years of her contract.

First signatory to the new pact is Peggie Castle, a green-eyed beauty with undeniable charms.
