Sheriff Elliott Says He's Just Begun To Fight

PORTLAND, July 13—429—Sheriff M. L. Elliott, declaring that "I've just begun to fight," took up the gauntlet yesterday against an attempt to recall him from office.

A formal recall petition was filed Monday, charging that Democrat Elliott had misrepresented his qualifications during his campaign, and that his conduct since had proven him unfit for the sheriff's job.

Attorney Maxwell Donnelly and press agent Don Hammitt—both Republicans—who filed the petition, called a public meeting for Thursday night to plan the recall campaign. The Young Republicans of Multnomah county promised to help.

"Recall? No!" said the embattled sheriff. "We have just begun to fight."

He charged that the recall campaign came "from the Republican-controlled press and radio, which has persecuted mecontinuously. I know that public opinion is opposed to recall of either Mayor Lee or myself because we have broken up the organized gambling operated under the pay-off system of the past years."

The Young Republicans organization added its recall petition to the movement against Elliott yesterday. The petition was presented to the district attorney for review before actual filing.

This is the fact that Britain's place in the scheme of world business can never be what it used to be. Under the right conditions it might be as great, but never the same.

In the old days the sun never set on the British empire. Britishin's colonist sons made deals that gave the mother country the world's highest living standard at the time. This is no longer possible now that the empire is changing into a union of equal partner-nations.

One of Britain's profitable operations under the old system was to buy raw materials in the lands her armed forces held. These raw materials were taken to England and made into finished consumer goods. These consumer goods were shipped back to the colonies and sold to the "natives."

This worked until the "natives"

This worked until the "natives" began making their own goods and getting fresh new ideas about running their own show generally. There came a time when the cost of keeping some colonies in that condition outran the predictable return.

As a people, the British never got so nearsighted while clipping coupons from colonial investments that they couldn't read the handwriting on the wall. They led all colonial powers in thinking up a civilized way to avoid the explosion that could have taken place if the colonial world had got a flat "no" to its demands for freedom.

Horde Of Caterpillars Misses Eugene Environs

Misses Eugene Environs

EUGENE, July 12.—(A)—A caterpillar horde moved out of a five-acre thistle patch north of here Monday and began a cross-country trek.

The caterpillars were by-passing vegetable gardens, and Country Agent O. S. Fletcher told farmers there was nothing to be alarmed about. He said the movement would be watched and the caterpillars sprayed with poison if they begin to move into crops. They were about five miles north of Eugene.

Fletcher said he was advised by Oregon State College experts that the caterpillars would go into the cocoon stage soon.

He said he thought they left the thistle patch because someone had sprayed there recently with DDT. to rebuild her trade with these areas, and has partly succeeded. But the basic fact is that they are was as rich as she was partly because of her colonies. The colonial economic system through which they added to her wealth is on its way out. Britain now competes in world markets on a different basis, and her resources and techniques have not yet

Dulles told his colleagues that by offering a solid front among the free nations, the treaty may keep the strategically placed Germans from turning toward a Soviet alliance under which "all our hopes and plans for a peaceful and free Europe would crash to the ground."

Washington, July 13—(P)—Senator Dulles (R.-N. Y.) yesterday urged Senate approval of the North Atlantic Pact. He said it is the only measure that promises to save "our hopes for a peaceful and free Europe.

Dulles said the Pact should save Germany for the west and spike "the Communist twin guns of false promise and threat."

The New Yorker, appointed only last week by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, took sharp issue with Senator Tatt (R.-Ohio) in his first senate speech.

Without mentioning the Ohlo senator by name, Dulles disputed Taft's contention that the pact commits this country a tremendous foreign arms program.
