The value of Oregon's past to its present and future was the theme of an address delivered at the chamber of commerce meeting Wednesday noon by Dr. Howard R. Driggs, national president of the American Pioneer Trails association.

"We must save old America for young America," Dr. Driggs said in speaking of American tradition and history as an aid in combatting foreign ideologies. "We must put history to work for this country—that will save American traditional forms of the old Oregon trail for the first time.
