

Britain Bars Recovery In West Europe

Refuses To Cooperate In Currency Exchange, Sen. Ellender Reports

WASHINGTON, July 27.—(AP)—Senator Ellender (D-La.) Tuesday accused Britain of holding up recovery in western Europe by refusing to go along on a currency exchange deal to spur trade.

Ellender reported to the Senate on a three weeks tour of European countries and renewed complaints about Britain that he had made previously in an interview.

His speech came in the midst of a hot Senate dispute over the $5,723,000,000 foreign aid program.

He said flatly that the "Marshall plan is a failure" unless the European countries change drastically the way they are acting toward each other on currency exchange.

He said he supposed Britain has a good reason for acting as she has. But he declared it is a "shame that one country is keeping back the progress of Europe" by refusing to make currencies "more flexible."

The strain of the long session was beginning to show in the debate which centered on money for the second year of the European recovery program.

Senators snapped at each other angrily over an issue that few thought would cause a ripple. The major issues were yet to come.

The Senate voted $344,000 to keep a congressional "watchdog" committee checking on recovery spending. But not before majority leader Lucas of Illinois stirred up a wordy scrap by trying—and failing—to have the funds cut to $200,000.

Ellender told friends his trip convinced him Europe can't recover unless: (1) Germany is pulled back to recovery; (2) Europe produces goods at prices the people can afford to pay; (3) and currencies are made convertible from one European country to another.

Senate leaders had stubborn opposition in their fight to eliminate amendments tagged onto the foreign aid bill by the Senate.

ate appropriations committee.

Senator Lucas said he was confident they would be knocked out. But chairman McKellar (D-Tenn.) of the appropriations committee was just as positive the amendments will remain.

They would:

(1) Require the Economic Cooperation administration and the army to use up to about $2,000,000,000 in aid funds to purchase surplus farm commodities. The money could be used for no other purpose.

(2) Earmark $50,000,000 of ECA funds for loans to Spain.

(3) Cut $74,000,000 off the ECA's authorization for the last quarter of the year ended July 1.

(4) Require ECA chief Paul Hoffman to try to halt the dismantling and destruction of certain industrial plants in Germany.

(5) Deny aid funds to nations which violate treaties with the United States. This one is aimed at France because of alleged discrimination against American businessmen in French Morocco.

American-Made Beer Receives Soviet Slur

LONDON, July 26.—(AP)—The Moscow radio went in for beer commercials today.

"My beer is Russian beer," the broadcaster said in effect, "because Russian beer is better and stronger than American beer."

An official of the Soviet brewery industry told the Moscow radio reported all Russian beer is made from barley but American beer is brewed "from maize, sorghum and even potatoes."

The coyote originally lived only in the open country of the West.

OGOPOGO TAKES STROLL

Monster's Footprints On British Columbia Beach Show Eight Toe Marks

KELOWNA, B. C., July 27.—(AP)—You can't keep a good ogopogo down.

"And what," you inquire, "is an ogopogo?"

A good question. At this Okanagan lakside city today they're beginning to wonder.

He used to be known only as a cavorting sea-serpent. But the other morning, they say, the ogopogo went for a stroll on the beach.

Various descriptions have labelled the ogopogo as having sometimes a sheep-like head, sometimes a serpent-like body and once black coils.

All those who claim to have seen him agree on one point: He undulates!

But the footprints have everyone baffled. Coming out of the water is a trail of prints—cup-shaped imprints with eight toe-marks—about a mile south of here. The trail extended along a short section of beach and then re-entered the water.

Word got around and a corps of newspaper men from Vancouver made haste to the scene, made notes, and made stories in their journals. The reports tallied: Eight toe marks.

And an American tourist, W. C. Ulrich of Omak, Wash., claims he heard "a terrific splash" during the night.

Although it's only in the last few years white people claim to have seen him, the ogopogo is part of Indian legend. The red man named him "auk."

Years ago a bone one and one-half feet long and about a foot through, alleged to have come from the back of one of ogopogo's ancestors, was found at nearby Rocky Point.

Another time the Indians were hunting deer by their method of chasing them to the water where the squaws waited in canoes for

Soldier Disguise Becomes Reality

WILLIAMS AIR FORCE BASE, Ariz.—(AP)—An escapee from a Nazi labor battalion who disguised himself as an American soldier to get to the United States, is now a second lieutenant in the U. S. Air Force. The young man is Boris Kubelka, late of Czechoslovakia.

He received his gold bars and silver wings as a jet fighter pilot. When the Germans invaded Czechoslovakia they permitted Kubelka to continue his medical studies at the University of Prague until 1942. Then he was sent to a munitions factory near Berlin. Three years later he escaped and made his way to Paris. He tried to enlist in the United States Army but was turned down. He went to Le Havre, embarked on a U. S. troop transport.

Kubelka cleared himself with the U. S. Immigration and Army authorities by reporting to Ellis Island. A short time later he was released and on Dec. 18, 1945, was sworn in as a private in the U. S. Air Force. A year later he was promoted to corporal, and received his U. S. Citizenship papers. At the Morrison Air Force Base in Florida he was promoted to sergeant. His application for pilot training was accepted.

And now the ogopogo goes for a stroll. Who knows... If the ogopogo splashing very early in the morning is getting bold enough to leave the lake, he may be kind enough to put in an appearance at Kelowna's 43rd annual regatta Aug. 23.

Record Attendance Forecast For Douglas County's New Scout Camp On Little River

Douglas county's new Boy Scout camp on Little River will open July 31 with the largest attendance any of the county's Scout camps will have ever seen, Scout Executive Rollie Quam said today.

The camp, located four miles past the Wolf Creek camp, on land leased from the Youngs Bay Lumber company, is one of six operated by the Oregon Trail Boy Scout council and will be one of the largest in the council, Quam said.

Eight troops from Douglas county have already signed and registered for attendance with an additional seven troops making plans to attend the Little River camp.

According to M. M. Nelson, camping chairman for the Douglas district, troops not attending any camp this year will be at a definite disadvantage in their training programs. Scheduled for daily operation at the Little River camp will be patrol camping, demonstration areas, patrol swimming and aquatic instruction, a tracking area and a rope yard.

One of the features of the camp will be the stress placed upon individual cooking instruction. Quam said that Scout mothers will be amazed when their sons return from camp able to bake pies, cakes and cookies and cook roasts, chicken and ham — all over the open fire.

Experts in outdoor cooking, as well as swimming and camp craft experts, will be on hand to instruct the boys. Scoutmasters and leaders will also benefit from the instruction offered. Quam said recent years have proven that all the camps operated by the Oregon Trail district were excellent training grounds for Boy Scouts and leaders alike.

Troops Listed
Troops already registered for the Little River camp are troop 133 sponsored by the Edenbower Community club, 4 (Roseburg Methodist church), 29 (Oakland American Legion), 105 (Winchester Community club), 106 (Elkton Masonic lodge), 19 (Sutherland American Legion), 25 (Glendale P.T.A.), and 136 (Dillard P.T.A.).

Other troops planning to attend but not yet registered include troop 130 (Roseburg, Knights of Columbus), 108 (Roseburg Eagles lodge), 7 (Roseburg American Legion), 43 (Garden Valley Community club), 44 (Umpqua Riders club of Dixonville), and a troop sponsored by the Tennille Woman's club.

Troop 78, sponsored by the Drain Lions club, and a troop from Riddle are attending Camp Melakwa on the McKenzie pass. Canyonville and Camas Valley troops are attending camp at Council Site.
