

Frank L. Taylor, Reedsport, Will Head Land Acquisition Unit Of Conservation Group

Frank L. Taylor, Reedsport, will head the Umpqua Basin Conservation council's land acquisition committee.

Taylor was named chairman of the county committee at an organizational meeting held Tuesday night at the Roseburg Rod and Gun clubhouse.

James Stoop, Drain, was named committee secretary.

Other members are Delton Thiel, Yoncalla; Paul Caskey, Roseburg; H. M. "Chic" Anderson, Canyonville; Wm. Close, Oakland, and James Marlow, Myrtle Creek.

Glendale and Riddle will be invited to furnish representatives on the committee, although neither community as yet has a sports club affiliated with the county council.

Each member of the county committee heads a committee in his own community. Each committee is expected to prepare a list of prospective recreational sites and from the suggestions the county committee will recommend to the county court expenditures from the $10,000 fund appropriated in the 1949-50 budget.

Taylor, Reedsport hardware merchant, has headed a land acquisition program in the Lower Umpqua area. In cooperation with the State Park Commission, several choice tracts of river frontage between Scottsburg and Reedsport have been set aside for public use.

Poll Tax Ban Facing 5th Failure in Senate

glinia, Arkansas, Texas, Mississippi, Alabama, South Carolina and Tennessee now levy poll taxes which keep millions of adult citizens from voting. They attacked the tax requirement as a violation of a basic American right to help choose election officials.

Foes labeled the bill as a violation of states' rights and argued that the states alone have the power to determine the qualifications of their voters. One of them, Rep. Rankin (D-Miss.), told the House the legislation follows "the communist line."

The bill is the first of President Truman's so-called civil rights measures to clear either branch of Congress.

Canners Set Limit Prices For Peaches And Pears

PORTLAND, July 27.—(AP)—Trade sources indicated today that Pacific Northwest canners probably will not pay more than $30 a ton for peaches and about $40 for Bartlett pears.

The 1948 prices were $70 for peaches and $80-$90 for pears. Growers already have asked the U. S. Department of Agriculture to start buying their crops to bolster the market.

Business Census Takers Busy In Douglas County

Business establishments in Douglas county began receiving official calls from the business census takers on Wednesday, when the business census got under way in northern Douglas county, reports Olga A. Froeman, district supervisor with headquarters in Eugene.

Business houses in Roseburg can expect to be called upon in the very near future.

Statistics to be published upon completion of the census will reveal changes and developments that have occurred during a decade of business expansion augmented by unprecedented dimensions by consumer spending. This expansion has been particularly true of Roseburg and surrounding area. Information will be available on a national scale, and for those states, cities, areas, and county groups where business concentration is sufficient to provide summaries that will not reveal the activities of individual establishments.

The law, enacted by the 80th Congress authorizing the present business census, requires all business establishments to file reports. It also requires an oath of secrecy from all census employees to guard against revealing of information.

Atlanta Judge Shoots Down Ex-Associate

Carpenter, claiming the judge owed him $10,000 for legal services in filing income tax adjustment claims. He also filed a $100,000 slander suit against Carpenter.

Police officers C. E. Walker and J. M. Stephens said the judge freely admitted shooting Lockwood.

Fulton police Captain John V. Davis said he found a blackjack and a .38 caliber pistol in Carpenter's car. He said he found a .25 caliber automatic in the lawyer's. It had not been fired.

Judge Carpenter was jailed on a charge of shooting another, and released on $500 bond.

Mrs. Carpenter visited briefly with Lockwood at the city hospital, where he was carried first.

Polio Outbreak Brings Plea For Special Nurses

NEW YORK, July 27.—(AP)—An emergency appeal for special nurses to deal with a rising number of infantile paralysis cases was issued today by hospital Commissioner Marcus D. Kogel. Dr. Kogel acted as 19 new polio cases were reported in an officially described "mild epidemic" in New York City. The health department put the number of cases since Jan. 1 at 247.

The hospital commissioner said he did not want to frighten the public or overemphasize the seriousness of the outbreak.

In the 1916 severe epidemic 3,457 cases were reported in July. In 1931 there were 620 cases reported in July.

LAST RITES—Pfc. Dallas G. Heaton, who died in 1944 from wounds received in the battle of Okinawa, will be buried with full military honors in the I. O. O. F. cemetery at Oakland Sunday. Elk Slain Under Special Permit In Douglas Area

Five elk were slain in one night, under permit by the state game commission, in the mountains of western Douglas county.

State Police Sgt. Richard Miles at Reedsport reported he was notified in a telephone call by Wesley Harrison at Loom lake that the latter had killed the five elk about 8:30 p. m. Tuesday night.

Sgt. Miles, with two other officers, investigated, and spent most of the night skinning out the elk and bringing in the meat to a cold storage locker at Reedsport.

He reported Harrison had killed three bulls, one spike bull and one cow elk ranging on his farm in the single evening.

Harrison had obtained a permit for the killing of five elk after filing a complaint that they were ranging on his farm.

This is believed by the officers to be the largest number allowed to be killed under a single permit issued in the state.

The number of elk in the big range extending from Douglas across the border into a portion of Coos county is reported on the increase.

Pickpocket Swallows Loot—Watch And Chain

KOBE, Japan, July 27.—(AP)—That ticking noise the doctor heard in Yukio Abe's stomach was genuine—it was a gold watch with a chain 12 inches long attached.

Police said Abe swallowed it when they arrested him for pickpocketing a fellow traveler on a train.

Now the police want to know if they need a search warrant to enter Abe's stomach and recover the loot.

Acheson Battles For Foreign Arms Fund

Bridges (R-NH) joined the ranks of those opposing the president's proposal. Both are members of the Armed Services committee and both voted for ratification of the Atlantic pact.

Bridges called the President's request for authority to send arms anywhere he deems necessary a "blank check demand."

"This program has not been thought out from a defense standpoint and it is in direct violation of the Atlantic pact, which envisages a mutual defense plan," Bridges told a reporter.

Byrd said merely that he is against the proposal and will plan his opposition when the committees are told more about it in closed hearings.

The State department has promised to tell members of Congress what it knows about Russia's war potential. It also plans to supply specific figures about what each ally nation would receive in the way of arms.

Acheson Due For Grilling

Even in advance of the detailed outlining of the program, Congressional pressure was beginning to pile up against Secretary Acheson to whittle down his request.

Senator Vandenberg, who wants stop-gap military aid, said he had told the State department "the facts of life"—that it can't get a $1,450,000,000 request through this Congress.

Senator Dulles (R-NY) came away from an hour's talk with Acheson unshaken in his view that only a token arms aid program ought to be started now. He wouldn't comment on Acheson's reaction.

Meanwhile, an influential Democrat who didn't want to be quoted by name, predicted Acheson will get critical treatment when he appears before senators.

This Democrat said the Secretary of State didn't consult senators about the proposal in advance but accepted the advice of foreign diplomats on their country's reputed arms needs.

E. E. Nease Death Natural, Verdict

That Earl Edgar Nease, 50, came by his death by "natural causes" July 4 was the verdict of a coroner's jury at an inquest at the Roseburg Funeral home last night.

Nease's body was found in front of the Roseburg Public library, slumped between the front fender of his car and a parking meter the night of July 4. The coroner's jury heard testimony by Dr. J. J. Grabow, Sutherlin, who conducted the autopsy, that Nease had apparently died of uremic poisoning.

The inquest was conducted by Douglas J. Tudor, deputy coroner. Witnesses were questioned
