

Japanese Pastor Of Methodist Church To Speak

A Japanese Christian minister, who was within a mile of the center of the atomic bomb explosion in Hiroshima on that fateful day in 1945, will be the guest speaker at the First Methodist church in Roseburg, Thursday, July 28, at 8 p.m. He is the Rev. Kiyoshi Tanimoto, above, pastor of the Methodist church in Hiroshima, which he is now in the process of rebuilding.

Mr. Tanimoto is visiting in the United States as a guest of the Board of Missions and Church Extension of the Methodist church, filling many speaking engagements, and studying church social work in this country with the idea of establishing like work in his home city upon his return there.

Mr. Tanimoto was injured when the bomb exploded, but hundreds of the people served by the Christian group in the city were killed or maimed for life. The church and most homes were razed to the ground. Within a short time he was able to gather a handful of the survivors into a parish, and the improvised church now has a membership of more than 300.

Mr. Tanimoto has been active with other Christians in a wide-spread relief and rehabilitation service in his city, especially in the care of some of the more than 2,000 children left parentless and homeless by the bomb. He has worked with LARA and other agencies in providing food and clothing for the most needy victims.

Born in Japan, Mr. Tanimoto was educated in Methodist schools in his native land, and then came to the United States, receiving his arts and ministerial training at Emory University, Atlanta, Ga. Before returning to Japan in 1940, he was pastor of an independent Japanese Christian church in Hollywood, Calif.

Mr. Tanimoto is one of the six Japanese heroes of John Hersey's book, "Hiroshima," written around the experiences of that fated city. For months after the bombing he conducted religious services in the open air, in railroad yards, and in other public places. Now his church has a temporary home.

He's Friend Of Firemen; Also Video Salesman

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 28.—(P)—Oklahoma City firemen have found a champion in a man by the name of Scudder Ray. Now Ray isn't a fireman. But he can appreciate their confining work. He thinks there should be more entertainment down at the station houses.

His solution: Install a television set in each of the 16 stations. He presented his idea to the city council.

"Why," Ray said, "it's just like being in prison. They're tied right there to the spot. They can't leave or go anywhere else. They sit right there in the station all day unless they go to a fire."

Council members agreed to talk the television proposal with the city's fire department chief. Ray was satisfied because he's a television salesman.
